MR. OTTINGER, attorney general of New York state, sets a good example to officials in other states by his effort to protect public investments, including investments in bonds on real estate. Like every other security, real estate mortgage bonds depend for their value largely on the character and record of those back of them.

THERE are real estate bond houses that stand as high in security and usefulness as any financial institution in the country. One real estate mortgage bond house, in business for half a century without loss of a penny in principal or interest to any customer, has established a record that other institutions might envy and emulate.

WHILE some great railroads like the New Haven and a half a dozen others, to say nothing of New York's fraudulently managed street car and subway system, have gone down to reorganization, ruining thousands, buyers of real estate bonds have combined absolute security with a high return on their money.

IF ANY concern in the field of real estate bonds is weak or unsafe, the attorney general will discover it and give the people the facts. He will not, however, allow interference with or arouse distrust in a great business that has produced two most important results.

It has given the people housing and business facilities needed at a time when old-fashioned lending agencies were practically inactive. It has promoted with widespread building high wages and constant employment for mechanics.

A WAY will be found to weed out any weak or unsound concern, without taking any action that would disturb those whose savings are safely invested or that would check building enterprises and put mechanics out of work.

TO PROTECT public investments is the first duty. To protect constructive, sound financial agencies and to protect public confidence is almost as important.

PROBE DEMANDED

Trapped Workers Divided Lunches and Made Birch Tea.

BY HOWARD G. MAYER.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 30.—With their grim experience a fast waning memory the 43 men rescued from the G. Pabst mine here late last night were regaining their strength and returning to their loved ones today.

Only two were in a serious condition although there is no doubt in the minds of attending physicians that they will recover. They are Thomas Trewartha, stout-hearted shift boss, and Mat Stulich.

And Ironwood, its tears and cheers of last night already forgotten, has returned to its normal state of complacency and iron mining. There are murmurings of an investigation into the collapse of the hanging wall of the G. Pabst mine, but as yet no action in this direction has been undertaken.

John B. Chapple, managing editor of the Ashland Daily Press, has announced that he has called on state and federal agencies to make a sweeping inquiry into the condition of the wrecked shaft.

Stories of Harrowing Experience.

Theatres, assembly halls and other places of public meetings must be heated to a temperature of not less than 65 degrees during the winter, the board of health ordered at its meeting in the clinic rooms in the Diamond last evening.

Board members declared that colds which often develop into influenza and pneumonia, are easily contracted in auditoriums which are not heated sufficiently. The board authorized the purchase of two thermometers which will be used by health board officials in testing the temperature of buildings.

The board also objected to the practice of closing the municipal incinerator at 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Peter Milliron, collector, has

FISHERMEN DIE AS 150 BOATS GO TO BOTTOM OF CHINA SEA

Dispatch Says Storm Missed Hongkong by Narrow Margin.

VERA CRUZ TOLL

Only Two Lives are Exacted by Hurricane in Mexican City.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A Central News dispatch from Hongkong today stated that two thousand Chinese fishermen were drowned and 150 fishing junks destroyed by a typhoon which swept the China sea on Monday. The storm missed Hongkong by a narrow margin.

Steamers coming into Hongkong reported that they had picked up numerous fishermen found clinging to their wrecked craft.

The Chinese were so thick in the raging sea that one steamer launched its lifeboats ten times to bring aboard loads of battered and half drowned survivors.

Disturbance Moves Northwest.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — The tropical disturbance between Bermuda and the Bahamas is probably moving slowly northwest or westward, the weather bureau announced today. The storm likely is to moderate in intensity.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 30.—After withstanding the worst tropical hurricane experienced here in the past 25 years, Vera Cruz and the surrounding country today hung out the "business as usual" sign and took stock of its losses.

Through some miracle only two lives were lost when the 90-mile wind swept in from sea, as far is now known, but property damage is extremely heavy. More casualties may be reported from the back country in the Jalapa area, which was also affected.

The terrific force of the storm is evidenced by the destruction of a huge steel loading bridge at the waterside, which was torn down and left a mass of twisted metal, thus depriving Vera Cruz, the chief port of Mexico,

MR. OTTINGER, attorney general of New York state, sets a good example to officials in other states by his effort to protect public investments, including investments in bonds on real estate. Like every other security, real estate mortgage bonds depend for their value largely on the character and record of those back of them.

THERE are real estate bond houses that stand as high in security and usefulness as any financial institution in the country. One real estate mortgage bond house, in business for half a century without loss of a penny in principal or interest to any customer, has established a record that other institutions might envy and emulate.

WHILE some great railroads like the New Haven and a half a dozen others, to say nothing of New York's fraudulently managed street car and subway system, have gone down to reorganization, ruining thousands, buyers of real estate bonds have combined absolute security with a high return on their money.

IF ANY concern in the field of real estate bonds is weak or unsafe, the attorney general will discover it and give the people the facts. He will not, however, allow interference with or arouse distrust in a great business that has produced two most important results.

It has given the people housing and business facilities needed at a time when old-fashioned lending agencies were practically inactive. It has promoted with widespread building high wages and constant employment for mechanics.

A WAY will be found to weed out any weak or unsound concern, without taking any action that would disturb those whose savings are safely invested or that would check building enterprises and put mechanics out of work.

TO PROTECT public investments is the first duty. To protect constructive, sound financial agencies and to protect public confidence is almost as important.

THERE is a gasoline fight in California and some companies are slashing prices. Standard Oil of California makes its modern, intelligent fight with advertising.

It buys full pages in type an inch high in the daily newspapers, announcing the best gasoline. Spending on wise advertising a small part of the money it would lose in a price-cutting war, Standard Oil of Califor-

43 SNATCHED FROM JAWS OF DEATH HAPPY

PROBE DEMANDED

Trapped Workers Divided Lunches and Made Birch Tea.

BY HOWARD G. MAYER.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 30.—With their grim experience a fast waning memory the 43 men rescued from the G. Pabst mine here late last night were regaining their strength and returning to their loved ones today.

Only two were in a serious condition although there is no doubt in the minds of attending physicians that they will recover. They are Thomas Trewartha, stout-hearted shift boss, and Mat Stulich.

And Ironwood, its tears and cheers of last night already forgotten, has returned to its normal state of complacency and iron mining. There are murmurings of an investigation into the collapse of the hanging wall of the G. Pabst mine, but as yet no action in this direction has been undertaken.

John B. Chapple, managing editor of the Ashland Daily Press, has announced that he has called on state and federal agencies to make a sweeping inquiry into the condition of the wrecked shaft.

Stories of Harrowing Experience.

But the men who were held in their subterranean prison 727 feet below the surface of the ground are not interested in investigations. They are resting on cots in the Grandview hospital, telling some of the episodes of their harrowing experience.

Theatres, assembly halls and other places of public meetings must be heated to a temperature of not less than 65 degrees during the winter, the board of health ordered at its meeting in the clinic rooms in the Diamond last evening.

Board members declared that colds which often develop into influenza and pneumonia, are easily contracted in auditoriums which are not heated sufficiently. The board authorized the purchase of two thermometers which will be used by health board officials in testing the temperature of buildings.

The board also objected to the practice of closing the municipal incinerator at 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Peter Milliron, collector, has

FISHERMEN DIE AS 150 BOATS GO TO BOTTOM OF CHINA SEA

Dispatch Says Storm Missed Hongkong by Narrow Margin.

VERA CRUZ TOLL

Only Two Lives are Exacted by Hurricane in Mexican City.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A Central News dispatch from Hongkong today stated that two thousand Chinese fishermen were drowned and 150 fishing junks destroyed by a typhoon which swept the China sea on Monday. The storm missed Hongkong by a narrow margin.

Steamers coming into Hongkong reported that they had picked up numerous fisherman found clinging to their wrecked craft.

The Chinese were so thick in the raging sea that one steamer launched its lifeboats ten times to bring aboard loads of battered and half drowned survivors.

Disturbance Moves Northwest.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — The tropical disturbance between Bermuda and the Bahamas is probably moving slowly northwest or westward, the weather bureau announced today. The storm likely is to moderate in intensity.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 30.—After withstanding the worst tropical hurricane experienced here in the past 25 years, Vera Cruz and the surrounding country today hung out the "business as usual" sign and took stock of its losses.

Through some miracle only two lives were lost when the 90-mile wind swept in from sea, as far is now known, but property damage is extremely heavy. More casualties may be reported from the back country in the Jalapa area, which was also affected.

The terrific force of the storm is evidenced by the destruction of a huge steel loading bridge at the waterside, which was torn down and left a mass of twisted metal, thus depriving Vera Cruz, the chief port of Mexico,

Following a hearing last night before Mayor W. L. Fogo, the woman arranged to pay a fine of $300 and costs and was released.

Fifteen gallons of alleged liquor and a Buick automobile were confiscated by the police.

Mrs. Lozzi, police say, was observed leaving the city in the car earlier in the evening and she was tracked to a point near Kerr's.

The liquor was said to have been contained in three five-gallon cans.

Charged with cutting Antonio Venkaskie, of Salineville, on August 13, last, with intent to kill, John Sheckler, of Third street, was arrested here yesterday afternoon by Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Lawrence Kindsvatter, of Lisbon.

He was taken into custody after he had returned from an eastern trip.

A secret indictment had been returned by the grand jury against Sheckler. His alleged victim was slashed across the left side of the face.

After the alleged cutting scrape, Sheckler, police say, went to Pittsburgh, and, after remaining there a few days, continued to the east, visiting New York and other eastern cities.

When the report of the grand jury was published and Sheckler's name was missing from the list of those indicted, Sheckler, police believe, was informed "there was nothing against him" and he returned to Wellsville.

There are six Wellsville Italians now in the county jail. Beside Sheckler, they are: Nick Scaccuto, charged with murder in the first degree in the death of Patrolman James Kenny; Joseph Fusco, charged with the murder of Kenney, whose case has been continued by the grand jury; Rocco Carbicella and Frank Fusco, charged with bribery, and John DeSarrio, charged with obtaining $1,300 under false pretense.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—A defective switch was responsible for the derailment of a passenger train on the Long Island railroad at Calveron, N. Section Foreman Dinizo was held primarily responsible for the defective condition of the switch.

An investigation made by the bureau of safety disclosed hat nails were used in place of cotton pins in the switch. The commission directed that immediate steps be taken to correct this situation.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1926.

A Good Winter

Autumn is usually looked forward to as a time for business to "pick up" after the normal summer dullness. This year, strangely, there has been no summer dullness. Yet there is a natural intensification of industry and trade with the ending of the vacation season and the coming on of colder weather and the marketing of crops, so that business is still further improved.

Wherefore it happens, as a leading business expert observes, that the fall season begins with business, as a whole, "at the high mark of its history."

This is the literal truth. Some industries, steel for instance, reached higher peaks during the war. But our industry and trade as a whole are greater in volume now than they ever were before. Industrial production, freight movements, bank clearings, etc., all show it.

More notable still is the fact that, judged by all ordinary standards, there are no recognizable signs of any approaching recession from this high level.

During previous boom periods—and by the way, nobody calls this present situation a boom—there were always certain warnings of approaching change, for the wise to read. Goods piled up, prices rose rapidly, interest rates soared, there were traffic blockades, factories were clogged with orders for future delivery etc. It is well remembered how these phenomena were present in the high business tide of 1920, just before it turned.

Now they are absent. Goods move quickly and smoothly from factory to consumer. The country, with production continuing on a huge scale, consumes as it produces. Capital is plentiful without inflation. Nothing jams anywhere. Nothing creaks. Nothing breaks down. Harvests are good, foreign trade is good, the trade balance is good, employment is good, there is little or no political disturbance. The foreign situation is reassuring.

The country seems set for the best winter of its history, with no clouds on the horizon.

The Good Houses Stood

"While the loss of life entailed in Florida is most unfortunate and regrettable our information is that buildings erected under modern methods of architectural design and construction have withstood the tempest in admirable shape, the damage beng local, such as plate glass and that class of damage.

"Temporary buildings of flimsy construction were seriously damaged, together with hundreds of automobile camps composed of crib and canvas construction and the innumerable little booths that line the various roads in Florida."

This proves to be the case in every wind disaster of late. When a tornado struck Lorain, O., two or three years ago, all the old rookeries which made that city hideous were reduced to heaps of bricks and splinters. The good new buildings remained good and new. In the long run, the city was immensely benefited by the swift disappearance of the unsafe and ugly stuff.

Florida was full of flimsy buildings, as so many places are where winter is unknown. It is these which have been blown into toothpicks. If the builders of the present will learn a lesson from the mistakes of the past, the new Florida may greet the arrival of future hurricanes not with smiles, because a hurricane is never a smiling matter, but with a serene confidence in the soundness of its structures.

Dancing And School

A Roumanian school girl, 12 years old, has brought suit against her school for $2,500, on the ground that by suspending her for one year they have lengthened by that much the part of her life that has to be spent in school, and have thus delayed the opening of her public career. She believes she would be able to earn the $2,500 in one year as a public dancer.

The school, it seems, suspended her for a year because she gave a public exhibition of her dancing ability.

It's a queer kink in school history. If Judith Pal should win her suit, would other parents and guardians in numbers be enabled to sue schools when, for what they deem good and sufficient reasons, they suspend students or expel them? On the other hand, was suspension for a year really the wise thing to do in this case—would it not lead to more of what the school deprecated?

Yet is there not something to be said for a school which considers childhood sufficiently sacred to need protection from the temptation to earn money in any such public and unchildlike manner?

Seeing History

That's a fine idea to make moving picture records of historical events as they occur, and file the films in the congressional library for future use.

If this arrangement is worked out adequately, history will be a much more interesting study for our grandchildren than it has been for most of us.

It will be, to the child of the future, as it would with us today if we were able to step into any public library and say, "Please show me the 'Surrender of Cornwallis,'" or "I came to consult the 'Inauguration of Abraham Lincoln,'" and then take a seat in a convenient room while an attendant ran off the film.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Those nimble young men who dance attendance on middle-aged women— for a consideration—seem more plentiful than ever along the Big Trail. Their origin is invariably lowly. They usually began calling cabs or hopping bells.

And they reach mid-channel with a superficial luster that appears to fascinate wives who think they are neglected because their husbands work all day. The gigolo is a good looking fellow in the glossily perfumed manner of his breed.

In night clubs he has the way of a gallant cavalier. He showers those little chivalric gestures that husbands so often forget. He dances divinely and his glance never strays from his companion. The better sort—if there is such a classification—are not particularly dangerous.

They are merely in the Manhattan manner following "the easiest way." Straying wives feel they are quite safe in the chaperonage and the slimy trail of blackmail does not lead to their doors. In exchange the gigolo is able to live and clothe himself well.

Their expenses are often paid to the fashionable resorts where they continue the role of the harmless fop—shunned by self respecting males but agreeably accepted by idle and lone women. The gigolo has often reversed the copy-book formulas.

He does not always come to an inglorious end. Three have married beautiful heiresses and are luxuriating in European capitals. But those not so fortunate come to a full stop when youth vanishes for the job of being a gigolo depends entirely on youth.

One of those literary impostors has selected as his latest victim Richard Connell and the young Connecticut magazine writer finds he has been addressing literary clubs, making love to various love-lorn maidens, cashing spurious checks and generally carrying on. Every literary celebrity faces this embarrassment. Adventurers have succeeded in impersonating Jack London, Sinclair Lewis and a dozen others successfully. And quite profitably. Cosmo Hamilton once called on a man who had been impersonating the novelist for a year. In this instance the faker was a fellow of wealth and his deception was purely for what social prestige he might gain.

R. H. Davis, the magazine editor, known the world over as Bob Davis, was an innocent literary impersonator once in Chicago. A gentleman called and asked if he was R. H. Davis. He said he was and it was explained a group of literary folk wanted to give ed. The toastmaster arose and said him a dinner that evening. He accept- he took great pleasure in introducing the guest of honor—Richard Harding Davis.

Overheard at a supper club: "If you pull the old one that you are not understood at home I'll scream."

In other years the man who reached McGowan's Pass Tavern in Central Park first during a snow-storm in a sleigh was presented with a magnum of champagne and got his pictures in all the newspapers. It was one of the important stunts of the year. At the first fall of snow scores would have their bob sleds hitched for hours and ready to be off from all part of the town.

In those days, of course, there were no traffic rules save those painted signs which said "Drive Slowly." The dare-devils who drove lickety-split up Fifth Avenue would declare their horses were running away, and if they did not get away with it, were fined $1.

Barney Bernard tells me that his two friends, Cohan and Shapinsky, who retired from the white-goods business to devote themselves to lives of leisure have again been playing golf.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Ritchie's Bid For Presidency.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.—Governor Albert C. Ritchie's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928 is found in the platform which the Democrats of Maryland have adopted for the state campaign of this year. The platform does not formally present Ritchie as a candidate for White House honors, but it is no secret that the Governor wrote or approved what he regarded as the important planks of the document and copies of it are being circulated widely in a fashion that is the equivalent of the announcement of a candidacy.

The political doctrine upon which the Democratic party in National Convention assembled will be asked to accept the Maryland leader emphasizes, as the vital needs of the United States, tolerance, personal liberty, state's rights and state responsibility, and the amendment of the Volstead Law so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine.

Of particular interest is the pronouncement on the prohibition issue, because it states clearly and unequivocally what Governor Ritchie would do if he were running the United States and could persuade Congress to his point of view, and because he is the first of the presidential possibilities of his party to be definitely and finally committed on this question.

Governor Al Smith, of New York, is well known as a wet, but as yet no one knows precisely what he would do about the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law. William G. McAdoo is popularly rated a dry, but it is not fo record just where he stands on the constitutional addendum and the law under which it is supposed to be enforced. He has declared loudly for law enforcement, but so has every other candidate for the Presidency. Declarations of that sort are to be expected and there is no more news in them than in the casual event of a dog's having bitten a man. Should a man bite a dog, however, or should a presidential aspirant declare that he believed the prohibition law, or any other law, should not be enforced that would be news.

Ohio Candidate Is Damp.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, who is undertaking to stage a senatorial come-back, and who will probably be presented to the next Democratic National Convention as the favorite son of Ohio Democracy, is rated a wet, just as McAdoo is rated a dry, and he may be just as much of a wet as the former Secretary of the Treasury is dry. But the voters of the country who want to know exactly where Pomerene stands on this issue can only gather from the data available to date that he is at least slightly damp, if not positively wet, but that he may show up with a few dry spots of freckles on his political anatomy.

Senator "Jim" Reed, of Missouri, whose presidential stock has taken a recent and decided upward turn, according to Washington wise-acres, likewise is popularly regarded as wet. However, while he may feel keenly on the subject, apparently he does not think there is anything to be done about it, for with al his oportunities in the Senate he has never introduced a bill to repeal, amend, or strengthen the Volstead Law. Probably if he undertook to work out a legislative panacea for present-day prohibition ills he would offer a measure to abolish the Anti-Saloon League, for he has made it indubitably clear that he does not like that organization or a hair on the head of its Washington spokesman, Wayne B. Wheeler.

There are other Democratic presidential possibilities, of course—perhaps the big figure in the 1928 picture has not even been mentioned as yet—but Ritchie, of Maryland, is the first one to take the public into his confidence to the extent of outlining his platform. In this respect, at least, he is out in front just as he was in his public discussions of prohibition and other issues, he having been the first of Democracy's candidates for the Presidency to go up and down the land making speeches that revealed his views thereon. In fact, the only man who may be said to have beaten him to a formal declaration on the prohibition issue is a Republican, Senator James W. Wadsworth, of New York, who some months ago came out with a statement committing himself to the Quebec plan of dealing with the liquor problem—government control and sale, with no proscription of whisky and no particular favors for beer and light wines.

What Ritchie Would Do.

Governor Ritchie's solution of the problem as to whether we must continue to carry it on the hip or be able to get it legally is to have Congress take steps toward the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, in order that each State may then decide what it wants to do about prohibition, and, pending that action, to have Congress amend the Volstead Act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine where permitted by local law. Moreover, the Maryland statesman who has his eyes on the desirable residence at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D. C., does not believe that the States should assist in the enforcement of the federal prohibition law.

A Good Winter

Autumn is usually looked forward to as a time for business to "pick up" after the normal summer dullness. This year, strangely, there has been no summer dullness. Yet there is a natural intensification of industry and trade with the ending of the vacation season and the coming on of colder weather and the marketing of crops, so that business is still further improved.

Wherefore it happens, as a leading business expert observes, that the fall season begins with business, as a whole, "at the high mark of its history."

This is the literal truth. Some industries, steel for instance, reached higher peaks during the war. But our industry and trade as a whole are greater in volume now than they ever were before. Industrial production, freight movements, bank clearings, etc., all show it.

More notable still is the fact that, judged by all ordinary standards, there are no recognizable signs of any approaching recession from this high level.

During previous boom periods—and by the way, nobody calls this present situation a boom—there were always certain warnings of approaching change, for the wise to read. Goods piled up, prices rose rapidly, interest rates soared, there were traffic blockades, factories were clogged with orders for future delivery etc. It is well remembered how these phenomena were present in the high business tide of 1920, just before it turned.

Now they are absent. Goods move quickly and smoothly from factory to consumer. The country, with production continuing on a huge scale, consumes as it produces. Capital is plentiful without inflation. Nothing jams anywhere. Nothing creaks. Nothing breaks down. Harvests are good, foreign trade is good, the trade balance is good, employment is good, there is little or no political disturbance. The foreign situation is reassuring.

The country seems set for the best winter of its history, with no clouds on the horizon.

A Good Winter

Autumn is usually looked forward to as a time for business to "pick up" after the normal summer dullness. This year, strangely, there has been no summer dullness. Yet there is a natural intensification of industry and trade with the ending of the vacation season and the coming on of colder weather and the marketing of crops, so that business is still further improved.

Wherefore it happens, as a leading business expert observes, that the fall season begins with business, as a whole, "at the high mark of its history."

This is the literal truth. Some industries, steel for instance, reached higher peaks during the war. But our industry and trade as a whole are greater in volume now than they ever were before. Industrial production, freight movements, bank clearings, etc., all show it.

More notable still is the fact that, judged by all ordinary standards, there are no recognizable signs of any approaching recession from this high level.

During previous boom periods—and by the way, nobody calls this present situation a boom—there were always certain warnings of approaching change, for the wise to read. Goods piled up, prices rose rapidly, interest rates soared, there were traffic blockades, factories were clogged with orders for future delivery etc. It is well remembered how these phenomena were present in the high business tide of 1920, just before it turned.

Now they are absent. Goods move quickly and smoothly from factory to consumer. The country, with production continuing on a huge scale, consumes as it produces. Capital is plentiful without inflation. Nothing jams anywhere. Nothing creaks. Nothing breaks down. Harvests are good, foreign trade is good, the trade balance is good, employment is good, there is little or no political disturbance. The foreign situation is reassuring.

The country seems set for the best winter of its history, with no clouds on the horizon.

The Good Houses Stood

"While the loss of life entailed in Florida is most unfortunate and regrettable our information is that buildings erected under modern methods of architectural design and construction have withstood the tempest in admirable shape, the damage beng local, such as plate glass and that class of damage.

"Temporary buildings of flimsy construction were seriously damaged, together with hundreds of automobile camps composed of crib and canvas construction and the innumerable little booths that line the various roads in Florida."

This proves to be the case in every wind disaster of late. When a tornado struck Lorain, O., two or three years ago, all the old rookeries which made that city hideous were reduced to heaps of bricks and splinters. The good new buildings remained good and new. In the long run, the city was immensely benefited by the swift disappearance of the unsafe and ugly stuff.

Florida was full of flimsy buildings, as so many places are where winter is unknown. It is these which have been blown into toothpicks. If the builders of the present will learn a lesson from the mistakes of the past, the new Florida may greet the arrival of future hurricanes not with smiles, because a hurricane is never a smiling matter, but with a serene confidence in the soundness of its structures.

Dancing And School

A Roumanian school girl, 12 years old, has brought suit against her school for $2,500, on the ground that by suspending her for one year they have lengthened by that much the part of her life that has to be spent in school, and have thus delayed the opening of her public career. She believes she would be able to earn the $2,500 in one year as a public dancer.

The school, it seems, suspended her for a year because she gave a public exhibition of her dancing ability.

It's a queer kink in school history. If Judith Pal should win her suit, would other parents and guardians in numbers be enabled to sue schools when, for what they deem good and sufficient reasons, they suspend students or expel them? On the other hand, was suspension for a year really the wise thing to do in this case—would it not lead to more of what the school deprecated?

Yet is there not something to be said for a school which considers childhood sufficiently sacred to need protection from the temptation to earn money in any such public and unchildlike manner?

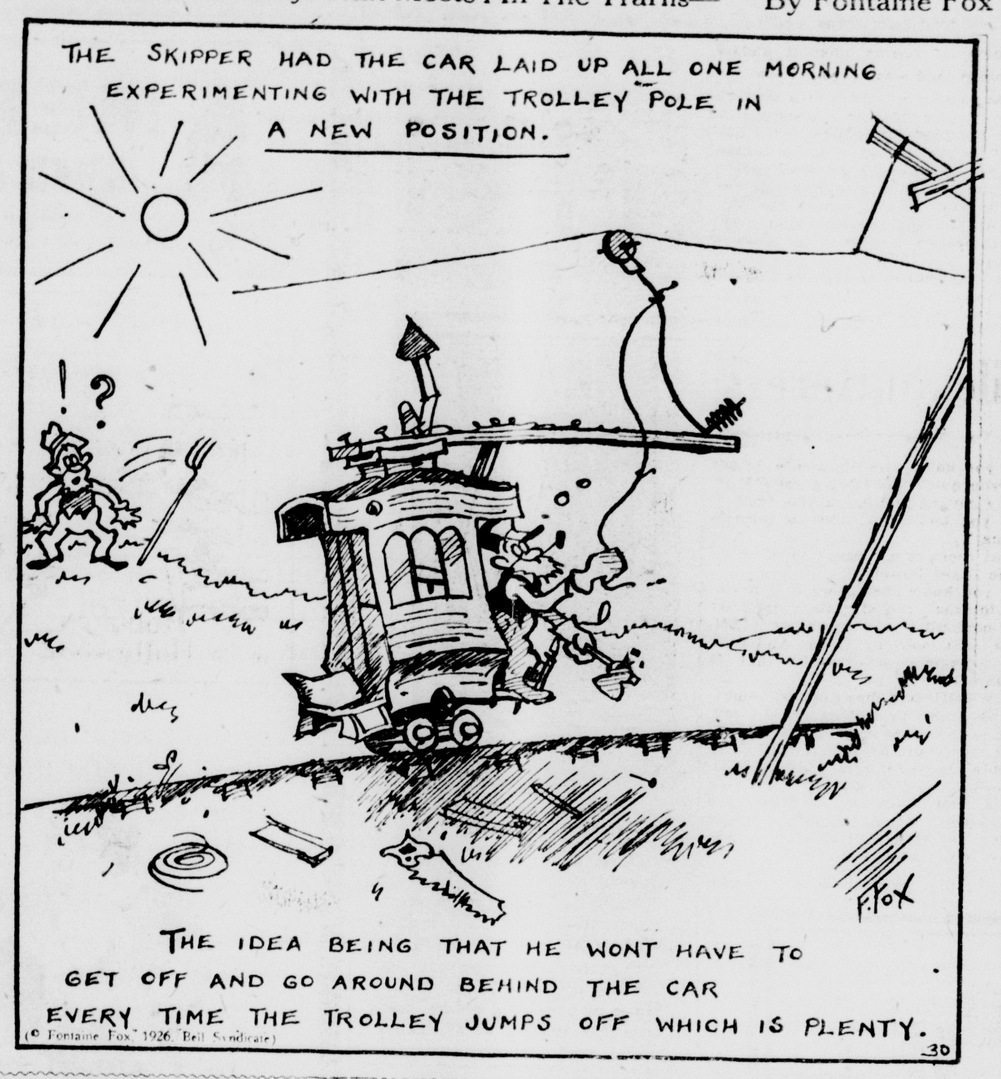

Seeing History

That's a fine idea to make moving picture records of historical events as they occur, and file the films in the congressional library for future use.

If this arrangement is worked out adequately, history will be a much more interesting study for our grandchildren than it has been for most of us.

It will be, to the child of the future, as it would with us today if we were able to step into any public library and say, "Please show me the 'Surrender of Cornwallis,'" or "I came to consult the 'Inauguration of Abraham Lincoln,'" and then take a seat in a convenient room while an attendant ran off the film.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Those nimble young men who dance attendance on middle-aged women— for a consideration—seem more plentiful than ever along the Big Trail. Their origin is invariably lowly. They usually began calling cabs or hopping bells.

And they reach mid-channel with a superficial luster that appears to fascinate wives who think they are neglected because their husbands work all day. The gigolo is a good looking fellow in the glossily perfumed manner of his breed.

In night clubs he has the way of a gallant cavalier. He showers those little chivalric gestures that husbands so often forget. He dances divinely and his glance never strays from his companion. The better sort—if there is such a classification—are not particularly dangerous.

They are merely in the Manhattan manner following "the easiest way." Straying wives feel they are quite safe in the chaperonage and the slimy trail of blackmail does not lead to their doors. In exchange the gigolo is able to live and clothe himself well.

Their expenses are often paid to the fashionable resorts where they continue the role of the harmless fop—shunned by self respecting males but agreeably accepted by idle and lone women. The gigolo has often reversed the copy-book formulas.

He does not always come to an inglorious end. Three have married beautiful heiresses and are luxuriating in European capitals. But those not so fortunate come to a full stop when youth vanishes for the job of being a gigolo depends entirely on youth.

One of those literary impostors has selected as his latest victim Richard Connell and the young Connecticut magazine writer finds he has been addressing literary clubs, making love to various love-lorn maidens, cashing spurious checks and generally carrying on. Every literary celebrity faces this embarrassment. Adventurers have succeeded in impersonating Jack London, Sinclair Lewis and a dozen others successfully. And quite profitably. Cosmo Hamilton once called on a man who had been impersonating the novelist for a year. In this instance the faker was a fellow of wealth and his deception was purely for what social prestige he might gain.

R. H. Davis, the magazine editor, known the world over as Bob Davis, was an innocent literary impersonator once in Chicago. A gentleman called and asked if he was R. H. Davis. He said he was and it was explained a group of literary folk wanted to give him a dinner that evening. He accepted. The toastmaster arose and said he took great pleasure in introducing the guest of honor—Richard Harding Davis.

Overheard at a supper club: "If you pull the old one that you are not understood at home I'll scream."

In other years the man who reached McGowan's Pass Tavern in Central Park first during a snow-storm in a sleigh was presented with a magnum of champagne and got his pictures in all the newspapers. It was one of the important stunts of the year. At the first fall of snow scores would have their bob sleds hitched for hours and ready to be off from all part of the town.

In those days, of course, there were no traffic rules save those painted signs which said "Drive Slowly." The dare-devils who drove lickety-split up Fifth Avenue would declare their horses were running away, and if they did not get away with it, were fined $1.

WAR UPON THE REPTILES

Barney Bernard tells me that his two friends, Cohan and Shapinsky, who retired from the white-goods business to devote themselves to lives of leisure have again been playing golf.

It seems that Mr. Shapinsky sliced his drive and the ball, flying off at tangent, descended in a bunker. Over the parapet of the bunker there same to the ears of the waiting Mr. Cohan muffled sounds as Mr. Shapinsky with his niblick dug into the sand.

"Vell," he said, "not so bad, huh? It only took me three strokes to get out of that pit."

"Vat do you mean three strokes?" demanded Mr. Cohan. "Myself I stood here and counted und I distinctly heard you hit the ground mit your iron nine times."

"Oh," said Mr. Shapinsky, "I vas killing a snake."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Ritchie's Bid For Presidency.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.—Governor Albert C. Ritchie's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928 is found in the platform which the Democrats of Maryland have adopted for the state campaign of this year. The platform does not formally present Ritchie as a candidate for White House honors, but it is no secret that the Governor wrote or approved what he regarded as the important planks of the document and copies of it are being circulated widely in a fashion that is the equivalent of the announcement of a candidacy.

The political doctrine upon which the Democratic party in National Convention assembled will be asked to accept the Maryland leader emphasizes, as the vital needs of the United States, tolerance, personal liberty, state's rights and state responsibility, and the amendment of the Volstead Law so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine.

Of particular interest is the pronouncement on the prohibition issue, because it states clearly and unequivocally what Governor Ritchie would do if he were running the United States and could persuade Congress to his point of view, and because he is the first of the presidential possibilities of his party to be definitely and finally committed on this question.

Governor Al Smith, of New York, is well known as a wet, but as yet no one knows precisely what he would do about the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law. William G. McAdoo is popularly rated a dry, but it is not to record just where he stands on the constitutional addendum and the law under which it is supposed to be enforced. He has declared loudly for law enforcement, but so has every other candidate for the Presidency. Declarations of that sort are to be expected and there is no more news in them than in the casual event of a dog's having bitten a man. Should a man bite a dog, however, or should a presidential aspirant declare that he believed the prohibition law, or any other law, should not be enforced that would be news.

Ohio Candidate Is Damp.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, who is undertaking to stage a senatorial come-back, and who will probably be presented to the next Democratic National Convention as the favorite son of Ohio Democracy, is rated a wet, just as McAdoo is rated a dry, and he may be just as much of a wet as the former Secretary of the Treasury is dry. But the voters of the country who want to know exactly where Pomerene stands on this issue can only gather from the data available to date that he is at least slightly damp, if not positively wet, but that he may show up with a few dry spots of freckles on his political anatomy.

Senator "Jim" Reed, of Missouri, whose presidential stock has taken a recent and decided upward turn, according to Washington wise-acres, likewise is popularly regarded as wet. However, while he may feel keenly on the subject, apparently he does not think there is anything to be done about it, for with al his oportunities in the Senate he has never introduced a bill to repeal, amend, or strengthen the Volstead Law. Probably if he undertook to work out a legislative panacea for present-day prohibition ills he would offer a measure to abolish the Anti-Saloon League, for he has made it indubitably clear that he does not like that organization or a hair on the head of its Washington spokesman, Wayne B. Wheeler.

There are other Democratic presidential possibilities, of course—perhaps the big figure in the 1928 picture has not even been mentioned as yet—but Ritchie, of Maryland, is the first one to take the public into his confidence to the extent of outlining his platform. In this respect, at least, he is out in front just as he was in his public discussions of prohibition and other issues, he having been the first of Democracy's candidates for the Presidency to go up and down the land making speeches that revealed his views thereon. In fact, the only man who may be said to have beaten him to a formal declaration on the prohibition issue is a Republican, Senator James W. Wadsworth, of New York, who some months ago came out with a statement committing himself to the Quebec plan of dealing with the liquor problem—government control and sale, with no proscription of whisky and no particular favors for beer and light wines.

What Ritchie Would Do.

Governor Ritchie's solution of the problem as to whether we must continue to carry it on the hip or be able to get it legally is to have Congress take steps toward the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, in order that each State may then decide what it wants to do about prohibition, and, pending that action, to have Congress amend the Volstead Act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine where permitted by local law. Moreover, the Maryland statesman who has his eyes on the desirable residence at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D. C., does not believe that the States should assist in the enforcement of the federal prohibition law.

"As long as the Eighteenth Amendment is part of the Constitution we recognize, of course, that it should be upheld and respected," says the Ritchie platform. "We are forced, however, to realize that the existence of the Volstead Act has caused a disregard for law and order and a degree of actual lawlessness unparalleled in this country. Particularly is this the case in those States where the Volstead Act, lacking popular support, has nevertheless been enacted as a state measure.

"As long, therefore, as the Federal Government elects to interpret and enforce the Eighteenth Amendment in Maryland through th Volstead Act, we feel that the responsibility for such an enforcement should rest on the Federal Government alone."

In the matter of toleration, liberty, and state responsibilitly the Ritchie platform points with pride to the fact that almost three centuries ago the province of Maryland established in the new world three vital and enduring principles — religious toleration and freedom, the right of the individual to pursue his own happiness and enterprise in his own way so long as he does not interfere with the like rights of others or the sanctions of society, and the idea of a self-governing State, free and obligated to settle its local problems as its people will.

"It was the challenge for those things which in an age of intolerance and suppression made men free," says the Maryland pronouncement. "It is the same challenge which still demands that the people of each State, as their American birthright, shall have the right to educate and raise their own children, determine their own lives and happiness and enterprises, and otherwise settle and regulate their own affairs, subject only to the laws of their respective States, and without control by the Federal Government or by any one or all of the other States of the Union."

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years An Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Med. Store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back.

recognize, of course, that it should be upheld and respected," says the Ritchie platform. "We are forced, however, to realize that the existence of the Volstead Act has caused a disregard for law and order and a degree of actual lawlessness unparalleled in this country. Particularly is this the case in those States where the Volstead Act, lacking popular support, has neverthless been enacted as a state measure.

"As long, therefore, as the Federal Government elects to interpret and enforce the Eighteenth Amendment in Maryland through th Volstead Act, we feel that the responsibility for such an enforcement should rest on the Federal Government alone."

In the matter of toleration, liberty, and state responsibilitly the Ritchie platform points with pride to the fact that almost three centuries ago the province of Maryland established in the new world three vital and enduring principles — religious toleration and freedom, the right of the individual to pursue his own happiness and enterprise in his own way so long as he does not interfere with the like rights of others or the sanctions of society, and the idea of a self-governing State, free and obligated to settle its local problems as its people will.

"It was the challenge for those things which in an age of intolerance and suppression made men free," says the Maryland pronouncement. "It is the same challenge which still demands that the people of each State, as their American birthright, shall have the right to educate and raise their own children, determine their own lives and happiness and enterprises, and otherwise settle and regulate their own affairs, subject only to the laws of their respective States, and without control by the Federal Government or by any one or all of the other States of the Union."

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Med. Store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back.

'Musical Skallywags' Head Metropolitan Bill At Ceramic

Roger Wayne Fawn and his "Musical Skallywags," assisted by Jean Huston, "vaudeville's syncopated sweetheart," top the vaudeville-motion picture bill at the Ceramic theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

This melange of music and dancing—an unusual act of youth, personality and jazz—will be featured in connection with a high-class screen program, headed by "Mantrap," a love drama of the North Land.

Ernest Torrence, Clara Bow and Percy Marmont are co-stars of the picturization of Sinclair Lewis' story.

"Mantrap" is an unusually brilliant, half-humorous triangle story of a trader in the Canadian woods (Ernest Torrence), a New York lawyer, tired of women because they form his principal clients in fashionable divorce cases, (Percy Marmont), and a manicure girl from Minneapolis, who has married and gone to live at a Canadian woods trading post and who finds life pretty boring, (Clara Bow). There is also a "Babbitt" manufacturer, a "know-it-all" camper, (Eugene Pallette) who will delight the hearts of all campers who may have met this pest while on a camping expedition.

Some Frank Words on Catarrh

Because catarrh is unpleasant, few like to discuss it. Yet all know its symptoms. Many think "It will go away of itself." But it never does. Some ignorantly think until catarrhal deafness sets in. Yet to stop the constant raising of mucus, the clogged nasal passages, the offensive breath of catarrh is today inexcusable. Thousands have proved that Hall's Catarrh Medicine drives away catarrh because it tones and strengthens the mucous membranes. When the inflammation of these delicate linings of nose, throat and head is reduced, catarrh vanishes. You owe it to yourself to try Hall's Catarrh Medicine today. At all druggists. Or send 25c to F. TEARLE STARS AT AMERICAN

Racing Horses Stake in Picture, "Sporting Lover."

A stable of thoroughbred racing horses is the unusual gambling stake offered by Conway Tearle in the starring role of "The Sporting Lover," now showing at the American theatre here.

Tearle appears in the role of an Irish nobleman who gambles away his inheritance. His pride is his stable of fine horses. As a last resort he offers them in a sporting chance to retrieve his fortune. But luck is against him and he loses all.

The story of "The Sporting Lover" is based on the famous Drury Lane stage hit, "Good Luck." E. M. Asher presents it through First National.

War scenes in "The Sporting Lover" show the bombing of a military hospital and an air raid. Tearle, who just completed a role as an officer in June Mathis' master film, "The Greater Glory," dons uniform once more in "The Sporting Lover."

BAR NO HOLDS IN NEW YORK'S BITTER FIGHT

Mills and Smith Will Ask no Quarter.

SLAM-BANG CLASH

Battle Holds Destinies of Presidential Possibilities.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The off-year political battle in New York this year, which holds the destinies of one, possibly two, presidential possibilities, gave promise today of being the hardest fought in a generation.

The colorful personalities involved and the circumstances attending both the Republican and Democratic state conventions, just concluded, have made this a recognized certainly. For five weeks it is to be a slam-bang fight, with no holds barred, and no quarter asked or given.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, who accepted the task of opposing "Al" Smith's thrust at a fourth term as governor, supplied the incentive for the Republican effort.

Democrats Confident.

"If Tammany goes back to Albany this year with two billions of dollars to spend and the state government to reorganize in the next two years, you will not oust Tammany from Albany in this generation," he warned. There were many who believed his words.

To which the Democrats reply:

"We must re-elect Al this year, or relinquish all hope of ever seeing him in the White House."

These are the spurs. Thus the issues have been drawn. It will be a hot and bitter fight. That much is conceded on all sides.

Wagner Opposes Wadsworth.

The Democrats now have put up to oppose Wadsworth one of Gov. Smith's closest personal friends, Justice Robert F. Wagner. With the governor Justice Wagner enjoys the distinction in Fourteenth street of being one of Tammany's favorite children. He accepted the nomination only on the condition that the organization "go down the line" for him, from top to bottom. Smith gave him that personal pledge.

Thus irrespective of whether there has been trading in the past, it seemed certain today there will be little, if any, this year.

Gov. Smith himself gave open recognition to this state of affairs when he told the delegates at Syracuse from the platform:

"I'm going to talk plainly.

"There has been a good deal of talk that Jim won't do anything to hurt Al and that Al won't do anything to hurt Jim.

"I have a great deal of respect for the senior senator from New York, but I don't care to see him remain any longer in the senate because he does not, in my opinion, fairly represent the progressive thought of this state. Our political thoughts are as far apart as the poles."

The wet and dry fight, which centers around the referendum ordered by the legislature, is but an added complication to this interesting struggle of personalities.

Naval Dirigible Plans Flight to Youngstown Oct. 11

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 30.—The first extensive inland flight of a naval dirigible, since the tragic trip of the Shenandoah last year, will be made when the Los Angeles is flown here from Lakehurst, N. J., October 11 to participate in the opening of the municipal air port, city officials announced today.

Ceremonies in connection with the inauguration are expected to attract aeronautical men from all parts of the country. Army and navy pilots already have been ordered to participate in maneuvers.

USED CARS BOUGHT AND SOLD

To The People Of East Liverpool

Some days ago we announced to the public that we would close our East Liverpool branch and offer the entire stock at sacrifice prices including the fixtures of our store. A large number of people took advantage of the great sale and many beautiful instruments were sold.

It has just come to our notice that some unscrupulous persons have circulated the story that we were going out of the piano business and that any pianos or players purchased at this sale would not be guaranteed and would not receive any attention, such as free tuning, adjusting, etc. In other words if you purchased at this time, you would run a great risk.

In justice to ourselves and our high standing in the musical world, we wish to brand these statements as entirely false and to assure the public of this city that every instrument sold will be thoroughly guaranteed and will receive the same attention as to care and service as heretofore, as we have an investment of over one-quarter million of dollars in East Liverpool and vicinity and our interest will have to be looked after.

We are not going out of the piano business, BUT SIMPLY CLOSING OUR EAST LIVERPOOL BRANCH, and this territory will be looked after from our Wheeling store. We have been in business in this city for a good many years and trust we have the confidence of the people to such an extent that they will not be influenced by any such stories as have been circulated.

During the history of our business career, it has been our policy to carry only instruments of the highest standing and such pianos and players as Knabe, Krakauer, Schiller, Milton, Baus, Haines Bros. together with the famous AMPICO are too well known and have been on the market too long for any comment.

We will continue to offer every piano and player in our store at the lowest prices ever known and if there is a person in this city that wants an instrument, we advise you to purchase now. THE STOCK MUST BE SOLD AT SOME PRICE and we will not refuse anything in the line of price that is within the bounds of reason.

We have sold hundreds of musical instruments to the finest homes in the City and we are just egotistical enough to think we enjoy the confidence of the public at large.

Respectfully,

DAVIS, BURKHAM & TYLER CO.

A stable of thoroughbred racing horses is the unusual gambling stake offered by Conway Tearle in the starring role of "The Sporting Lover," now showing at the American theatre here.

Tearle appears in the role of an Irish nobleman who gambles away his inheritance. His pride is his stable of fine horses. As a last resort he offers them in a sporting chance to retrieve his fortune. But luck is against him and he loses all.

The story of "The Sporting Lover" is based on the famous Drury Lane stage hit, "Good Luck." E. M. Asher presents it through First National.

One of the most dramatic scenes in the picture shows the thrilling English Derby, the renowned British turf classic. Among other notables seen in this episode are the King and Queen of England.

War scenes in "The Sporting Lover" show the bombing of a military hospital and an air raid. Tearle, who just completed a role as an officer in June Mathis' master film, "The Greater Glory," dons uniform once more in "The Sporting Lover."

USED CARS BOUGHT AND SOLD

To The People Of East Liverpool

Some days ago we announced to the public that we would close our East Liverpool branch and offer the entire stock at sacrifice prices including the fixtures of our store. A large number of people took advantage of the great sale and many beautiful instruments were sold.

It has just come to our notice that some unscrupulous persons have circulated the story that we were going out of the piano business and that any pianos or players purchased at this sale would not be guaranteed and would not receive any attention, such as free tuning, adjusting, etc. In other words if you purchased at this time, you would run a great risk.

In justice to ourselves and our high standing in the musical world, we wish to brand these statements as entirely false and to assure the public of this city that every instrument sold will be thoroughly guaranteed and will receive the same attention as to care and service as heretofore, as we have an investment of over one-quarter million of dollars in East Liverpool and vicinity and our interest will have to be looked after.

We are not going out of the piano business, BUT SIMPLY CLOSING OUR EAST LIVERPOOL BRANCH, and this territory will be looked after from our Wheeling store. We have been in business in this city for a good many years and trust we have the confidence of the people to such an extent that they will not be influenced by any such stories as have been circulated.

During the history of our business career, it has been our policy to carry only instruments of the highest standing and such pianos and players as Knabe, Krakauer, Schiller, Milton, Baus, Haines Bros. together with the famous AMPICO are too well known and have been on the market too long for any comment.

We will continue to offer every piano and player in our store at the lowest prices ever known and if there is a person in this city that wants an instrument, we advise you to purchase now. THE STOCK MUST BE SOLD AT SOME PRICE and we will not refuse anything in the line of price that is within the bounds of reason.

We have sold hundreds of musical instruments to the finest homes in the City and we are just egotistical enough to think we enjoy the confidence of the public at large.

Respectfully,

BAR NO HOLDS IN NEW YORK'S BITTER FIGHT

Mills and Smith Will Ask no Quarter.

Battle Holds Destinies of Presidential Possibilities.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The off-year political battle in New York this year, which holds the destinies of one, possibly two, presidential possibilities, gave promise today of being the hardest fought in a generation.

The colorful personalities involved and the circumstances attending both the Republican and Democratic state conventions, just concluded, have made this a recognized certainly. For five weeks it is to be a slam-bang fight, with no holds barred, and no quarter asked or given.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, who accepted the task of opposing "Al" Smith's thrust at a fourth term as governor, supplied the incentive for the Republican effort.

Democrats Confident.

"If Tammany goes back to Albany this year with two billions of dollars to spend and the state government to reorganize in the next two years, you will not oust Tammany from Albany in this generation," he warned. There were many who believed his words.

To which the Democrats reply:

"We must re-elect Al this year, or relinquish all hope of ever seeing him in the White House."

These are the spurs. Thus the issues have been drawn. It will be a hot and bitter fight. That much is conceded on all sides.

Wagner Opposes Wadsworth.

The Democrats now have put up to oppose Wadsworth one of Gov. Smith's closest personal friends, Justice Robert F. Wagner. With the governor Justice Wagner enjoys the distinction in Fourteenth street of being one of Tammany's favorite children. He accepted the nomination only on the condition that the organization "go down the line" for him, from top to bottom. Smith gave him that personal pledge.

Thus irrespective of whether there has been trading in the past, it seemed certain today there will be little, if any, this year.

Gov. Smith himself gave open recognition to this state of affairs when he told the delegates at Syracuse from the platform:

"I'm going to talk plainly.

"There has been a good deal of talk that Jim won't do anything to hurt Al and that Al won't do anything to hurt Jim.

"I have a great deal of respect for the senior senator from New York, but I don't care to see him remain any longer in the senate because he does not, in my opinion, fairly represent the progressive thought of this state. Our political thoughts are as far apart as the poles."

The wet and dry fight, which centers around the referendum ordered by the legislature, is but an added complication to this interesting struggle of personalities.

TWO DOCTORS ARE CALLED BY JACK DEMPSEY

STAFF SILENT

Camp Attache Admits Mystification About Boxer's Illness.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. — Although the greatest secrecy prevailed, it became known today that two physicians were in attendance on Jack Dempsey at his suite at the Hotel Belmont this morning.

No member of the ex-champion's staff would admit that he was ill, neither would any one deny it. However, it is known that one physician was called in early this morning to attend Dempsey and that later another was summoned for a consultation. The former champion has not left his quarters since coming to New York from Atlantic City two nights ago.

Dempsey had gone to the resort following the stunning defeat he sustained at Philadelphia last Thursday when Gene Tunney lifted the world's heavyweight title. Beyond swollen and battered eyes, the dethroned champion apparently left the ring in good shape but his actions within the ropes were subjected to considerable comment.

Rumor of $20,000 Bet.

His listlessness might have been attributed to advancing years or overtraining but no one could explain why he continued a labored blinking of his eyes between rounds, before the optics were damaged, nor why he blew gustily through his lips like a man coming up from under water. This was a gesture of some sort. He was not breathing heavily from his exertions.

An attache of his camp expressed complete mystification today concerning the nature of the ex-champion's trouble.

"He's got all of us guessing," this man said. "He hasn't been right since the fight and no one apparently knows what it is all about. Jack can't keep any food on his stomach and that rash under his arm pits is another mystery."

This man requested that his name be withheld because Dempsey feared more than anything else that he would be accused of offering an alibi for his defeat.

There was a rumor around town today that a famous gambler had wagered $200,000 on Tunney around 6 o'clock on the night of the fight.

43 Men Saved

Jacob Luoma, the father of nine children, has a ready smile as he tells of the underground prison.

"I guess we could have stood it another week," he says.

"It wasn't so bad. We were afraid that no one would reach us until it was too late.

"We felt pretty safe. After the first slide we got busy and blocked up the shaft with timbers so that no more falling rock could clog up in it.

"Some of the men had their lunches left so we divided them, then Joe Anderson showed us how to strip birch bark from some of the log supports. I smoked it and it wasn't so bad. We made some tea from the bark and that helped brace us up a lot.

"The water got into our shoes after a while and some of the men got pretty cold feet. They took off their shoes and wrapped their feet in pieces of blankets which we found in the safety box.

Three Bereaved Families.

Mike Dedera, husky and beaming, was happy to be able to see daylight again.

"To come up from down there—it was just like Jesus going up from the earth," was Mike's exultant description of the rescue.

At the side of Joseph Smith sat his wife.

"Now I can sleep again," she told her husband. "For five nights I have walked up and down in the house waiting for you and now I am glad you are back."

"The baby did not want to go to school," she added. "She said she could not do her school work while her daddy was down there."

A number of the wives who keep vigil at the hospital now instead of at the mine shaft cannot speak English.

Mrs. John Kozala, her baby in her arms, converses in Polish with her husband.

"What does she say?" he repeats. "She says she is happy."

Everybody here, with the exception of the bereaved families of the three men who lost their lives when the cage was hurtled into the bottom of the G shaft, is happy.

GOOD HEALTH HIS ONLY CAPITAL

This is true of many working men, (and women also) dogged with a haunting fear of ill-health and helplessness. Wm. F. Lagle, Anderson, Ind., heeds nature's warning sign of pain and acts promptly: "When my back hurts and an irregular flow warns me of coming trouble, I take Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys. They give me quick results." A reliable, valuable medicine, constantly in use over 25 years. Satisfaction guaranteed. Cost little. Sold everywhere. Ask for Foley Pills, diuretic.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Industrial stocks displayed the effects of nervousness and unsettlement in early trading today. The market was inclined to ignore such favorable factors as the increase in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad dividend and the railroad traffic report for the week of Sept. 18, in which the largest number of revenue freight cars were moved in the whole history of American transportation.

Major interest in the financial district was concentrated on the money market.

Freight car loadings in the week of Sept. 18 reached the unprecedented total of 1,187,911 cars, continuing the amazing record of commodity transportation which started in mid-August. The increase in Baltimore and Ohio's dividend to 6 per cent was an encouraging factor, as also are the current earnings reports now being published. Railroad stocks were dull and heavy today, with prices generally lower.

Radio, Warner Brothers and other specialty stocks continued to advance, while the oil, copper, equipment, motor and industrial stock generally showed the effects of heavy selling pressure. Standard Oil of New Jersey continued to exhibit unusual weakness, while Sinclair made further recovery from yesterday's low levels. Officials of the company stated that the Sinclair company could not be affected by the Teapot Dome decision, and that current earnings were very favorable.

URGES W. C. T. U. TO KEEP CHECK ON RUM CASES

Mrs. Stella Stimson Speaks at Los Angeles Meet.

SIT IN COURT

"Unostentatious Pressure" Incentive to Law Enforcement.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—A nation-wide organization of women, "quiet, courteous and observing," to sit daily in all criminal courts to watch court procedure, especially in prohibition cases and thus check if adequate punishment is meted out to bootleggers and rum runners, was recommended to the W. C. T. U. national convention here today by Mrs. Stella Stimson, in charge of the department of Christian citizenship.

Mrs. Stimson declared that this "unostentatious pressure" was already applied in hundreds of cities throughout the country and proved a great incentive to proper law enforcement.

Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost, director of legislation, with headquarters in Washington, reminded the delegates today that 35 seats will be filled in the senate. "Indications are that eight of the present candidates will be wet, but even this will not reduce the large dry majority."

In the house of representatives only 12 of the 44 new candidates are known to be wet, Mrs. Yost declared, "but it does not follow that these 12 are going to be elected in November."

Important liquor legislation is pending in congress, according to the Washington director, the chief bills being the measure to place prohibition agents under civil service, and the Goff bill to "put teeth into the Volstead Act."

Election of national oficers for the ensuing year was the most important business scheduled for the day.

KIWANIS HEARS REV. R. W. USTICK

Pastor Speaks on Underprivileged Child Movement.

The duty of Kiwanis in the underprivileged child movement was discussed by Rev. R. W. Ustick, Wellsville, lieutenant-governor of the sixth Ohio division, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the local club in Larkins' annex, Market street, today. His subject was: "Are We, As Kiwanians Doing Our Duty in the Under-Privileged Child Movement?"

Clarence Cline presided. New songs were introduced by Prof. H. F. Laughlin, club "pep-maker," who led the chorus singing with Claire Chambers as accompanist.

H. D. Arnold, Leetonia publisher and Kiwanian, and a former resident of this city, was a guest. Dr. George L. Lewis, club trustee, who attended the district convention at Columbus last week, gave a few sidelights on his trip.

Rev. Mr. Ustick discussed the six objectives of Kiwanis International during the present year, but stressed the point referring to the work among underprivileged children. He asserted that the "big brother" movement, which many clubs have taken up as a means of assisting boys, is in line with the underprivileged child service.

"These boys represent the future citizenship of our nation and we are not fulfilling our duties as Kiwanians if we fail to show an interest in their welfare," he said. "We, as individual members, should extend a helping hand to the individual boy or girl."

The speaker also expressed his gratification over the resumption of athletic relations between the Wellsville and East Liverpool High schools, accomplished at a recent conference between the two school boards.

of its proper coal loading facilities for several months at least.

Wind of Freakish Nature.

Today the waters which covered the streets to a depth of as much as six feet in places, were subsiding, and the heat was extremely oppressive.

Portions of the harbor are still blocked by sunken coastal vessels which were capsized by the wind.

The wind was of a freakish nature. Next to a house without any roof, and with its wall blown in, stood another building with windows intact, apparently untouched by the gale. Trees were cut off as if by a knife.

Tremendous losses have been suffered by the destruction of whole areas of corn, sugar cane and banana plantations.

The force of the driving wind may be imagined from the fact that there were two inches of water in the library of the American consulate, which is on the second floor.

Ceramic City Bed Quilt Wins Honors At Michigan Fair

Mrs. George Martin, 621 Minerva street, today was advised that a bed quilt which she entered in the Michigan state fair at Detroit during the week of September 13-18, had been awarded first honors in the women's home work and beauty department.

The quilt is a unique design of emblems used in the several branches of the Masonic lodge and its allied organizations. The background is white while the figures are in multi-colored. She spent more than a year in making the covering.

Mrs. Martin will display the quilt in a downtown store following its return from Detroit.

Coats In Many Colors.

Large Brimmed Hats.

The coats are mostly set off with black fur. A red cloth coat by Lanvin Fourrures is trimmed with black shaved lamb, the gauntlet cuffs being attached to a tiny muff instead of to the sleeves. Many tiered and dolman effects are seen both in the cloth as well as the fur coats while the fur-lined coat is very much in vogue.

Tunic themes are conspicuous in afternoon frocks, the materials being of georgette, carmel crepe and satin-black crepe. Silver and gold embroidery, beads and brilliant buttons are used as trimming, while many pleasing effects with right-angle and horizontal tucking are displayed. The bat-wing sleeves and the blouse back are the new features in the dress. A chanel red gown has bat-wing sleeves, bloused back, which is loose from the gown and lined with gold crepe, which also forms the cuffs. Long sleeves predominate.

Touch of Mannishness.

A piquant touch of mannishness is very smart even in the most feminine of fashions. It is used in one cape coat of black and white plaid woolen. Black velvet collars, cuffs and pocket headings give the touch to this coat. It is an imported model by Simonin.

Since coat lines in themselves have changed so little this season it is in details that the distinctive points of the new coats are stamped. Sleeves are one of the features that most easily admit of variation. New methods of sleeve trimming show the new fur armlet, varied types of pirate cuff and the fur puff or half sleeve.

The chief demand in color reported by the coat department of one prominent store is for brown in all the wood shades, such as tan bark and sandalwood.

Most of the coats displayed are made of suede fabrics in these shades. The fur is frequently of a harmonizing brown shade. The straightline prevails, although many coats show the modified blouse either across the back or over the hips.

A coat that is reported to be receiving much attention thus far in the season, is made of sandelwood suede trimmed with beaver fur, and shows a slight blouse made by inverted tucks over the hips.

Evening Wear Styles.

Far from dying out, the fad for the full skirt and tight fitting bodice for evening wear continues gaily into the new season. And not all frocks of this type are alike. They differ as much as do their wearers. Some are queenly—stressing the stately and dignified. Some are quaint and piquant, and these latter, especially become the more youthful members of the fair sex.

There are two distinct types and there are many in between. One is the more stately gown fashioned of taffeta in a peppermint green shade. The bodice does not fit as snugly as many and a yokelike effect is achieved at the neckline. Flower decorations are placed on the shoulder.

Many—one might say the majority—of the skirts have uneven hems and this one is no exception to the rule. The exceedingly full skirt is fairly short in front with sides and back that almost touch the floor. The skirt is edged in gold lace which is deeply scalloped. Artificial flowers matching those on the shoulder also trim the skirt.

The youthful, vivacious type of bouffant dress is shown in another type. White georgette and white taffeta are combined in this dress. This skirt, too, is very full, but it is a series of ruffles narrowing in width from the hem to the waist and with a dip toward the front to fit on the pointed front of the bodice. The skirt is made of the georgette.

The quaint little bodies is made of taffeta with a dropped shoulder which a ruffle trims, also doing duty for sleeves—or excuses for such. A wee posy on the right shoulder gives just the final dainty touch.

An extremely smart dress of this type was displayed by one store. It was fashioned of white taffeta with the skirt hand-painted in huge, colorful flowers.

Shoes will match almost any color scheme effected. Chanel red, flag blue and jungle green shoes are featured. The winter footwear will have a trend toward the oxford.

The men's furnishing stores display the latest fads and fancies, from the very smartest of light shades in gray and brown, to the darkest. Top coats and hats to match the suit will be worn. Gaining in favor is the black derby, with which canes will be permissable.

BEREAVED CARDINALS' PILOT ENCOURAGED BY JUDGE LANDIS

Baseball Commissioner Tells Rogers Hornsby of Dilemma He Faced When His Mother Was Stricken.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Pale, tight-lipped but grimly determined, Rogers Hornsby, bereaved manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, took active charge of his team's workout this morning for the world series, the opening game of which will be played on Saturday. Importuned by his mother from her death bed yesterday to stick with his team that he had piloted so sensationally to St. Louis' first pennant in nearly 40 years, Hornsby appeared more resigned to his unenviable position this morning as the club left for practice at the Yankee stadium.

His morale and fortitude were considerably improved as a result of a night's rest and a late visit from Judge Landis, who encouraged the young manager by recounting a similar dilemma with which he was faced while sitting on the bench of the federal court.

"Rogers," said the judge, patting Hornsby's bowed head. "You did the right thing. I don't say that from a professional consideration but from a personal one.

Goes To Ball Field.

"Once, I was trying one of the most important cases ever to come before me. They brought me word that my mother was stricken, with a message from her to stick with the case. My every instinct was to rush out of the court and go to her. Filial love fought a battle with duty and duty won. My mother realized that this was as it should be. So did yours. She knew that you were a man with a great public responsibility and she would not let you shirk it, painful though it must have been to both of you. Self-sacrifice is perhaps the greatest virtue known to man. I'm glad to see you were big enough to make it."

Hornsby was far from a light-hearted companion when he left for the ball field but his eyes had lost the glitter and his face its drawn appearance of last night. His sorrow was expressed in silence and his men respected both.

LABOR TO SEEK SHORTER WEEK IN INDUSTRY

Ford's Five-day Plan Encourages Move, Says Green.

IDEA OF A. F. L

Chieftain Says Unions Deserve Credit for Principle.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Encouraged by action of Henry Ford in adopting the five-day week, the American Federation of Labor will fight vigorously for a shorter working week in industry, William Green, president, declared today.

Green does not believe that there will be universal acceptance immediately of the five-day week, but he thinks that in a few years employers will realize that with the increased production through time-saving machines, wages will be increased and working hours reduced.

The federation, not Ford, should be given credit for first bringing about the shorter week, Green said.

"Ford seems merely to have accepted the philosophy of the federation in regard to hours, wages and production," Green declared.

Through the federation's activity, the five-day week already has been established in two important trades, printing and fur working, said Green.

"The week now for the day printing trade is 44 hours, or, five and one-half days," Green explained. "In most of the night printing trades, it is 40 hours, or, five days.

"Two months ago, we made agreements whereby the fur working trade has a 40-hour week, or, five days, as Ford has now established.

Wearing Glasses Stops Headaches

It is now a well-known fact that most of our headaches are caused by defective eyes.

Now defective eyes do not always mean defective vision. Your sight on the street may be very good. You will see objects both far and near, yet your eyes may be defective and cause eyestrain.

Eyestrain is the cause of your headaches and can be only cured by wearing the proper glasses in the frame suitable to you.

TWO DOCTORS ARE CALLED BY JACK DEMPSEY

STAFF SILENT

Camp Attache Admits Mystification About Boxer's Illness.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. — Although the greatest secrecy prevailed, it became known today that two physicians were in attendance on Jack Dempsey at his suite at the Hotel Belmont this morning.

No member of the ex-champion's staff would admit that he was ill, neither would any one deny it. However, it is known that one physician was called in early this morning to attend Dempsey and that later another was summoned for a consultation. The former champion has not left his quarters since coming to New York from Atlantic City two nights ago.

Dempsey had gone to the resort following the stunning defeat he sustained at Philadelphia last Thursday when Gene Tunney lifted the world's heavyweight title. Beyond swollen and battered eyes, the dethroned champion apparently left the ring in good shape but his actions within the ropes were subjected to considerable comment.

Rumor of $20,000 Bet.

His listlessness might have been attributed to advancing years or overtraining but no one could explain why he continued a labored blinking of his eyes between rounds, before the optics were damaged, nor why he blew gustily through his lips like a man coming up from under water. This was a gesture of some sort. He was not breathing heavily from his exertions.

An attache of his camp expressed complete mystification today concerning the nature of the ex-champion's trouble.

"He's got all of us guessing," this man said. "He hasn't been right since the fight and no one apparently knows what it is all about. Jack can't keep any food on his stomach and that rash under his arm pits is another mystery."

This man requested that his name be withheld because Dempsey feared more than anything else that he would be accused of offering an alibi for his defeat.

There was a rumor around town today that a famous gambler had wagered $200,000 on Tunney around 6 o'clock on the night of the fight.

43 Men Saved

Jacob Luoma, the father of nine children, has a ready smile as he tells of the underground prison.

"I guess we could have stood it another week," he says.

"It wasn't so bad. We were afraid that no one would reach us until it was too late.

"We felt pretty safe. After the first slide we got busy and blocked up the shaft with timbers so that no more falling rock could clog up in it.

"Some of the men had their lunches left so we divided them, then Joe Anderson showed us how to strip birch bark from some of the log supports. I smoked it and it wasn't so bad. We made some tea from the bark and that helped brace us up a lot.

"The water got into our shoes after a while and some of the men got pretty cold feet. They took off their shoes and wrapped their feet in pieces of blankets which we found in the safety box.

Three Bereaved Families.

Mike Dedera, husky and beaming, was happy to be able to see daylight again.

"To come up from down there—it was just like Jesus going up from the earth," was Mike's exultant description of the rescue.

At the side of Joseph Smith sat his wife.

"Now I can sleep again," she told her husband. "For five nights I have walked up and down in the house waiting for you and now I am glad you are back."

"The baby did not want to go to school," she added. "She said she could not do her school work while her daddy was down there."

A number of the wives who keep vigil at the hospital now instead of at the mine shaft cannot speak English.

Mrs. John Kozala, her baby in her arms, converses in Polish with her husband.

"What does she say?" he repeats. "She says she is happy."

Everybody here, with the exception of the bereaved families of the three men who lost their lives when the cage was hurtled into the bottom of the G shaft, is happy.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Industrial stocks displayed the effects of nervousness and unsettlement in early trading today. The market was inclined to ignore such favorable factors as the increase in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad dividend and the railroad traffic report for the week of Sept. 18, in which the largest number of revenue freight cars were moved in the whole history of American transportation.

Major interest in the financial district was concentrated on the money market.

Freight car loadings in the week of Sept. 18 reached the unprecedented total of 1,187,911 cars, continuing the amazing record of commodity transportation which started in mid-August. The increase in Baltimore and Ohio's dividend to 6 per cent was an encouraging factor, as also are the current earnings reports now being published. Railroad stocks were dull and heavy today, with prices generally lower.

Radio, Warner Brothers and other specialty stocks continued to advance, while the oil, copper, equipment, motor and industrial stock generally showed the effects of heavy selling pressure. Standard Oil of New Jersey continued to exhibit unusual weakness, while Sinclair made further recovery from yesterday's low levels. Officials of the company stated that the Sinclair company could not be affected by the Teapot Dome decision, and that current earnings were very favorable.

URGES W. C. T. U. TO KEEP CHECK ON RUM CASES

Mrs. Stella Stimson Speaks at Los Angeles Meet.

SIT IN COURT

"Unostentatious Pressure" Incentive to Law Enforcement.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—A nation-wide organization of women, "quiet, courteous and observing," to sit daily in all criminal courts to watch court procedure, especially in prohibition cases and thus check if adequate punishment is meted out to bootleggers and rum runners, was recommended to the W. C. T. U. national convention here today by Mrs. Stella Stimson, in charge of the department of Christian citizenship.

Mrs. Stimson declared that this "unostentatious pressure" was already applied in hundreds of cities throughout the country and proved a great incentive to proper law enforcement.

Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost, director of legislation, with headquarters in Washington, reminded the delegates today that 35 seats will be filled in the senate. "Indications are that eight of the present candidates will be wet, but even this will not reduce the large dry majority."

In the house of representatives only 12 of the 44 new candidates are known to be wet, Mrs. Yost declared, "but it does not follow that these 12 are going to be elected in November."

Important liquor legislation is pending in congress, according to the Washington director, the chief bills being the measure to place prohibition agents under civil service, and the Goff bill to "put teeth into the Volstead Act."

Election of national oficers for the ensuing year was the most important business scheduled for the day.

KIWANIS HEARS REV. R. W. USTICK

Pastor Speaks on Underprivileged Child Movement.

The duty of Kiwanis in the underprivileged child movement was discussed by Rev. R. W. Ustick, Wellsville, lieutenant-governor of the sixth Ohio division, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the local club in Larkins' annex, Market street, today. His subject was: "Are We, As Kiwanians Doing Our Duty in the Under-Privileged Child Movement?"

Clarence Cline presided. New songs were introduced by Prof. H. F. Laughlin, club "pep-maker," who led the chorus singing with Claire Chambers as accompanist.

H. D. Arnold, Leetonia publisher and Kiwanian, and a former resident of this city, was a guest. Dr. George L. Lewis, club trustee, who attended the district convention at Columbus last week, gave a few sidelights on his trip.

Rev. Mr. Ustick discussed the six objectives of Kiwanis International during the present year, but stressed the point referring to the work among underprivileged children. He asserted that the "big brother" movement, which many clubs have taken up as a means of assisting boys, is in line with the underprivileged child service.

"These boys represent the future citizenship of our nation and we are not fulfilling our duties as Kiwanians if we fail to show an interest in their welfare," he said. "We, as individual members, should extend a helping hand to the individual boy or girl."

The speaker also expressed his gratification over the resumption of athletic relations between the Wellsville and East Liverpool High schools, accomplished at a recent conference between the two school boards.

Today the waters which covered the streets to a depth of as much as six feet in places, were subsiding, and the heat was extremely oppressive.

Portions of the harbor are still blocked by sunken coastal vessels which were capsized by the wind.

The wind was of a freakish nature. Next to a house without any roof, and with its wall blown in, stood another building with windows intact, apparently untouched by the gale. Trees were cut off as if by a knife.

Tremendous losses have been suffered by the destruction of whole areas of corn, sugar cane and banana plantations.

The force of the driving wind may be imagined from the fact that there were two inches of water in the library of the American consulate, which is on the second floor.

Ceramic City Bed Quilt Wins Honors At Michigan Fair

Mrs. George Martin, 621 Minerva street, today was advised that a bed quilt which she entered in the Michigan state fair at Detroit during the week of September 13-18, had been awarded first honors in the women's home work and beauty department.

The quilt is a unique design of emblems used in the several branches of the Masonic lodge and its allied organizations. The background is white while the figures are in multi-colored. She spent more than a year in making the covering.

Mrs. Martin will display the quilt in a downtown store following its return from Detroit.

haberdashery, furniture and other establishments.

Coats In Many Colors.

Large Brimmed Hats.

The coats are mostly set off with black fur. A red cloth coat by Lanvin Fourrures is trimmed with black shaved lamb, the gauntlet cuffs being attached to a tiny muff instead of to the sleeves. Many tiered and dolman effects are seen both in the cloth as well as the fur coats while the fur-lined coat is very much in vogue.

Tunic themes are conspicuous in afternoon frocks, the materials being of georgette, carmel crepe and satin-black crepe. Silver and gold embroidery, beads and brilliant buttons are used as trimming, while many pleasing effects with right-angle and horizontal tucking are displayed. The bat-wing sleeves and the blouse back are the new features in the dress. A chanel red gown has bat-wing sleeves, bloused back, which is loose from the gown and lined with gold crepe, which also forms the cuffs. Long sleeves predominate.

Touch of Mannishness.

A piquant touch of mannishness is very smart even in the most feminine of fashions. It is used in one cape coat of black and white plaid woolen. Black velvet collars, cuffs and pocket headings give the touch to this coat. It is an imported model by Simonin.

Since coat lines in themselves have changed so little this season it is in details that the distinctive points of the new coats are stamped. Sleeves are one of the features that most easily admit of variation. New methods of sleeve trimming show the new fur armlet, varied types of pirate cuff and the fur puff or half sleeve.

The chief demand in color reported by the coat department of one prominent store is for brown in all the wood shades, such as tan bark and sandalwood.

Most of the coats displayed are made of suede fabrics in these shades. The fur is frequently of a harmonizing brown shade. The straightline prevails, although many coats show the modified blouse either across the back or over the hips.

A coat that is reported to be receiving much attention thus far in the season, is made of sandelwood suede trimmed with beaver fur, and shows a slight blouse made by inverted tucks over the hips.

Evening Wear Styles.

Far from dying out, the fad for the full skirt and tight fitting bodice for evening wear continues gaily into the new season. And not all frocks of this type are alike. They differ as much as do their wearers. Some are queenly—stressing the stately and dignified. Some are quaint and piquant, and these latter, especially become the more youthful members of the fair sex.

There are two distinct types and there are many in between. One is the more stately gown fashioned of taffeta in a peppermint green shade. The bodice does not fit as snugly as many and a yokelike effect is achieved at the neckline. Flower decorations are placed on the shoulder.

Many—one might say the majority—of the skirts have uneven hems and this one is no exception to the rule. The exceedingly full skirt is fairly short in front with sides and back that almost touch the floor. The skirt is edged in gold lace which is deeply scalloped. Artificial flowers matching those on the shoulder also trim the skirt.

The youthful, vivacious type of bouffant dress is shown in another type. White georgette and white taffeta are combined in this dress. This skirt, too, is very full, but it is a series of ruffles narrowing in width from the hem to the waist and with a dip toward the front to fit on the pointed front of the bodice. The skirt is made of the georgette.

The quaint little bodies is made of taffeta with a dropped shoulder which a ruffle trims, also doing duty for sleeves—or excuses for such. A wee posy on the right shoulder gives just the final dainty touch.

An extremely smart dress of this type was displayed by one store. It was fashioned of white taffeta with the skirt hand-painted in huge, colorful flowers.

Shoes will match almost any color scheme effected. Chanel red, flag blue and jungle green shoes are featured. The winter footwear will have a trend toward the oxford.

The men's furnishing stores display the latest fads and fancies, from the very smartest of light shades in gray and brown, to the darkest. Top coats and hats to match the suit will be worn. Gaining in favor is the black derby, with which canes will be permissable.

BEREAVED CARDINALS' PILOT ENCOURAGED BY JUDGE LANDIS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Pale, tight-lipped but grimly determined, Rogers Hornsby, bereaved manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, took active charge of his team's workout this morning for the world series, the opening game of which will be played on Saturday. Importuned by his mother from her death bed yesterday to stick with his team that he had piloted so sensationally to St. Louis' first pennant in nearly 40 years, Hornsby appeared more resigned to his unenviable position this morning as the club left for practice at the Yankee stadium.

His morale and fortitude were considerably improved as a result of a night's rest and a late visit from Judge Landis, who encouraged the young manager by recounting a similar dilemma with which he was faced while sitting on the bench of the federal court.

"Rogers," said the judge, patting Hornsby's bowed head. "You did the right thing. I don't say that from a professional consideration but from a personal one.

Goes To Ball Field.

"Once, I was trying one of the most important cases ever to come before me. They brought me word that my mother was stricken, with a message from her to stick with the case. My every instinct was to rush out of the court and go to her. Filial love fought a battle with duty and duty won. My mother realized that this was as it should be. So did yours. She knew that you were a man with a great public responsibility and she would not let you shirk it, painful though it must have been to both of you. Self-sacrifice is perhaps the greatest virtue known to man. I'm glad to see you were big enough to make it."

Hornsby was far from a light-hearted companion when he left for the ball field but his eyes had lost the glitter and his face its drawn appearance of last night. His sorrow was expressed in silence and his men respected both.

LABOR TO SEEK SHORTER WEEK IN INDUSTRY

Ford's Five-day Plan Encourages Move, Says Green.

IDEA OF A. F. L.

Chieftain Says Unions Deserve Credit for Principle.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Encouraged by action of Henry Ford in adopting the five-day week, the American Federation of Labor will fight vigorously for a shorter working week in industry, William Green, president, declared today.

Green does not believe that there will be universal acceptance immediately of the five-day week, but he thinks that in a few years employers will realize that with the increased production through time-saving machines, wages will be increased and working hours reduced.

The federation, not Ford, should be given credit for first bringing about the shorter week, Green said.

"Ford seems merely to have accepted the philosophy of the federation in regard to hours, wages and production," Green declared.

Through the federation's activity, the five-day week already has been established in two important trades, printing and fur working, said Green.

"The week now for the day printing trade is 44 hours, or, five and one-half days," Green explained. "In most of the night printing trades, it is 40 hours, or, five days.

"Two months ago, we made agreements whereby the fur working trade has a 40-hour week, or, five days, as Ford has now established.

Wearing Glasses Stops Headaches

It is now a well-known fact that most of our headaches are caused by defective eyes.

Now defective eyes do not always mean defective vision. Your sight on the street may be very good. You will see objects both far and near, yet your eyes may be defective and cause eyestrain.

Eyestrain is the cause of your headaches and can be only cured by wearing the proper glasses in the frame suitable to you.

TWO DOCTORS ARE CALLED BY JACK DEMPSEY

STAFF SILENT

Camp Attache Admits Mystification About Boxer's Illness.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. — Although the greatest secrecy prevailed, it became known today that two physicians were in attendance on Jack Dempsey at his suite at the Hotel Belmont this morning.

No member of the ex-champion's staff would admit that he was ill, neither would any one deny it. However, it is known that one physician was called in early this morning to attend Dempsey and that later another was summoned for a consultation. The former champion has not left his quarters since coming to New York from Atlantic City two nights ago.

Dempsey had gone to the resort following the stunning defeat he sustained at Philadelphia last Thursday when Gene Tunney lifted the world's heavyweight title. Beyond swollen and battered eyes, the dethroned champion apparently left the ring in good shape but his actions within the ropes were subjected to considerable comment.

Rumor of $20,000 Bet.

His listlessness might have been attributed to advancing years or overtraining but no one could explain why he continued a labored blinking of his eyes between rounds, before the optics were damaged, nor why he blew gustily through his lips like a man coming up from under water. This was a gesture of some sort. He was not breathing heavily from his exertions.

An attache of his camp expressed complete mystification today concerning the nature of the ex-champion's trouble.

"He's got all of us guessing," this man said. "He hasn't been right since the fight and no one apparently knows what it is all about. Jack can't keep any food on his stomach and that rash under his arm pits is another mystery."

This man requested that his name be withheld because Dempsey feared more than anything else that he would be accused of offering an alibi for his defeat.

There was a rumor around town today that a famous gambler had wagered $200,000 on Tunney around 6 o'clock on the night of the fight.

43 Men Saved

Jacob Luoma, the father of nine children, has a ready smile as he tells of the underground prison.

"I guess we could have stood it another week," he says.

"It wasn't so bad. We were afraid that no one would reach us until it was too late.

"We felt pretty safe. After the first slide we got busy and blocked up the shaft with timbers so that no more falling rock could clog up in it.

"Some of the men had their lunches left so we divided them, then Joe Anderson showed us how to strip birch bark from some of the log supports. I smoked it and it wasn't so bad. We made some tea from the bark and that helped brace us up a lot.

"The water got into our shoes after a while and some of the men got pretty cold feet. They took off their shoes and wrapped their feet in pieces of blankets which we found in the safety box.

Three Bereaved Families.

Mike Dedera, husky and beaming, was happy to be able to see daylight again.

"To come up from down there—it was just like Jesus going up from the earth," was Mike's exultant description of the rescue.

At the side of Joseph Smith sat his wife.

"Now I can sleep again," she told her husband. "For five nights I have walked up and down in the house waiting for you and now I am glad you are back."

"The baby did not want to go to school," she added. "She said she could not do her school work while her daddy was down there."

A number of the wives who keep vigil at the hospital now instead of at the mine shaft cannot speak English.

Mrs. John Kozala, her baby in her arms, converses in Polish with her husband.

"What does she say?" he repeats. "She says she is happy."

Everybody here, with the exception of the bereaved families of the three men who lost their lives when the cage was hurtled into the bottom of the G shaft, is happy.

GOOD HEALTH HIS ONLY CAPITAL

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Industrial stocks displayed the effects of nervousness and unsettlement in early trading today. The market was inclined to ignore such favorable factors as the increase in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad dividend and the railroad traffic report for the week of Sept. 18, in which the largest number of revenue freight cars were moved in the whole history of American transportation.

Major interest in the financial district was concentrated on the money market.

Freight car loadings in the week of Sept. 18 reached the unprecedented total of 1,187,911 cars, continuing the amazing record of commodity transportation which started in mid-August. The increase in Baltimore and Ohio's dividend to 6 per cent was an encouraging factor, as also are the current earnings reports now being published. Railroad stocks were dull and heavy today, with prices generally lower.

Radio, Warner Brothers and other specialty stocks continued to advance, while the oil, copper, equipment, motor and industrial stock generally showed the effects of heavy selling pressure. Standard Oil of New Jersey continued to exhibit unusual weakness, while Sinclair made further recovery from yesterday's low levels. Officials of the company stated that the Sinclair company could not be affected by the Teapot Dome decision, and that current earnings were very favorable.

URGES W. C. T. U. TO KEEP CHECK ON RUM CASES

Mrs. Stella Stimson Speaks at Los Angeles Meet.

SIT IN COURT

"Unostentatious Pressure" Incentive to Law Enforcement.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—A nation-wide organization of women, "quiet, courteous and observing," to sit daily in all criminal courts to watch court procedure, especially in prohibition cases and thus check if adequate punishment is meted out to bootleggers and rum runners, was recommended to the W. C. T. U. national convention here today by Mrs. Stella Stimson, in charge of the department of Christian citizenship.

Mrs. Stimson declared that this "unostentatious pressure" was already applied in hundreds of cities throughout the country and proved a great incentive to proper law enforcement.

Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost, director of legislation, with headquarters in Washington, reminded the delegates today that 35 seats will be filled in the senate, "indications are that eight of the present candidates will be wet, but even this will not reduce the large dry majority."

In the house of representatives only 12 of the 44 new candidates are known to be wet, Mrs. Yost declared, "but it does not follow that these 12 are going to be elected in November."

Important liquor legislation is pending in congress, according to the Washington director, the chief bills being the measure to place prohibition agents under civil service, and the Goff bill to "put teeth into the Volstead Act."

Election of national oficers for the ensuing year was the most important business scheduled for the day.

KIWANIS HEARS REV. R. W. USTICK

Pastor Speaks on Underprivileged Child Movement.

The duty of Kiwanis in the underprivileged child movement was discussed by Rev. R. W. Ustick, Wellsville, lieutenant-governor of the sixth Ohio division, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the local club in Larkins' annex, Market street, today. His subject was: "Are We, As Kiwanians Doing Our Duty in the Under-Privileged Child Movement?"

Clarence Cline presided. New songs were introduced by Prof. H. F. Laughlin, club "pep-maker," who led the chorus singing with Claire Chambers as accompanist.

H. D. Arnold, Leetonia publisher and Kiwanian, and a former resident of this city, was a guest. Dr. George L. Lewis, club trustee, who attended the district convention at Columbus last week, gave a few sidelights on his trip.

Rev. Mr. Ustick discussed the six objectives of Kiwanis International during the present year, but stressed the point referring to the work among underprivileged children. He asserted that the "big brother" movement, which many clubs have taken up as a means of assisting boys, is in line with the underprivileged child service.

"These boys represent the future citizenship of our nation and we are not fulfilling our duties as Kiwanians if we fail to show an interest in their welfare," he said. "We, as individual members, should extend a helping hand to the individual boy or girl."

The speaker also expressed his gratification over the resumption of athletic relations between the Wellsville and East Liverpool High schools, accomplished at a recent conference between the two school boards.

Wind of Freakish Nature.

Today the waters which covered the streets to a depth of as much as six feet in places, were subsiding, and the heat was extremely oppressive.

Portions of the harbor are still blocked by sunken coastal vessels which were capsized by the wind.

The wind was of a freakish nature. Next to a house without any roof, and with its wall blown in, stood another building with windows intact, apparently untouched by the gale. Trees were cut off as if by a knife.

Tremendous losses have been suffered by the destruction of whole areas of corn, sugar cane and banana plantations.

The force of the driving wind may be imagined from the fact that there were two inches of water in the library of the American consulate, which is on the second floor.

Ceramic City Bed Quilt Wins Honors At Michigan Fair

Mrs. George Martin, 621 Minerva street, today was advised that a bed quilt which she entered in the Michigan state fair at Detroit during the week of September 13-18, had been awarded first honors in the women's home work and beauty department.

Mrs. Martin will display the quilt in a downtown store following its return from Detroit.

Coats In Many Colors.

Large Brimmed Hats.

The coats are mostly set off with black fur. A red cloth coat by Lanvin Fourrures is trimmed with black shaved lamb, the gauntlet cuffs being attached to a tiny muff instead of to the sleeves. Many tiered and dolman effects are seen both in the cloth as well as the fur coats while the fur-lined coat is very much in vogue.

Tunic themes are conspicuous in afternoon frocks, the materials being of georgette, carmel crepe and satin-black crepe. Silver and gold embroidery, beads and brilliant buttons are used as trimming, while many pleasing effects with right-angle and horizontal tucking are displayed. The bat-wing sleeves and the blouse back are the new features in the dress. A chanel red gown has bat-wing sleeves, bloused back, which is loose from the gown and lined with gold crepe, which also forms the cuffs. Long sleeves predominate.

Touch of Mannishness.

A piquant touch of mannishness is very smart even in the most feminine of fashions. It is used in one cape coat of black and white plaid woolen. Black velvet collars, cuffs and pocket headings give the touch to this coat. It is an imported model by Simonin.

Since coat lines in themselves have changed so little this season it is in details that the distinctive points of the new coats are stamped. Sleeves are one of the features that most easily admit of variation. New methods of sleeve trimming show the new fur armlet, varied types of pirate cuff and the fur puff or half sleeve.

The chief demand in color reported by the coat department of one prominent store is for brown in all the wood shades, such as tan bark and sandalwood.

Most of the coats displayed are made of suede fabrics in these shades. The fur is frequently of a harmonizing brown shade. The straightline prevails, although many coats show the modified blouse either across the back or over the hips.

A coat that is reported to be receiving much attention thus far in the season, is made of sandelwood suede trimmed with beaver fur, and shows a slight blouse made by inverted tucks over the hips.

Evening Wear Styles.

Far from dying out, the fad for the full skirt and tight fitting bodice for evening wear continues gaily into the new season. And not all frocks of this type are alike. They differ as much as do their wearers. Some are queenly—stressing the stately and dignified. Some are quaint and piquant, and these latter, especially become the more youthful members of the fair sex.

There are two distinct types and there are many in between. One is the more stately gown fashioned of taffeta in a peppermint green shade. The bodice does not fit as snugly as many and a yokelike effect is achieved at the neckline. Flower decorations are placed on the shoulder.

Many—one might say the majority—of the skirts have uneven hems and this one is no exception to the rule. The exceedingly full skirt is fairly short in front with sides and back that almost touch the floor. The skirt is edged in gold lace which is deeply scalloped. Artificial flowers matching those on the shoulder also trim the skirt.

The youthful, vivacious type of bouffant dress is shown in another type. White georgette and white taffeta are combined in this dress. This skirt, too, is very full, but it is a series of ruffles narrowing in width from the hem to the waist and with a dip toward the front to fit on the pointed front of the bodice. The skirt is made of the georgette.

The quaint little bodies is made of taffeta with a dropped shoulder which a ruffle trims, also doing duty for sleeves—or excuses for such. A wee posy on the right shoulder gives just the final dainty touch.

An extremely smart dress of this type was displayed by one store. It was fashioned of white taffeta with the skirt hand-painted in huge, colorful flowers.

Shoes will match almost any color scheme effected. Chanel red, flag blue and jungle green shoes are featured. The winter footwear will have a trend toward the oxford.

The men's furnishing stores display the latest fads and fancies, from the very smartest of light shades in gray and brown, to the darkest. Top coats and hats to match the suit will be worn. Gaining in favor is the black derby, with which canes will be permissable.

BEREAVED CARDINALS' PILOT ENCOURAGED BY JUDGE LANDIS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Pale, tight-lipped but grimly determined, Rogers Hornsby, bereaved manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, took active charge of his team's workout this morning for the world series, the opening game of which will be played on Saturday. Importuned by his mother from her death bed yesterday to stick with his team that he had piloted so sensationally to St. Louis' first pennant in nearly 40 years, Hornsby appeared more resigned to his unenviable position this morning as the club left for practice at the Yankee stadium.

His morale and fortitude were considerably improved as a result of a night's rest and a late visit from Judge Landis, who encouraged the young manager by recounting a similar dilemma with which he was faced while sitting on the bench of the federal court.

"Rogers," said the judge, patting Hornsby's bowed head. "You did the right thing. I don't say that from a professional consideration but from a personal one.

Goes To Ball Field.

"Once, I was trying one of the most important cases ever to come before me. They brought me word that my mother was stricken, with a message from her to stick with the case. My every instinct was to rush out of the court and go to her. Filial love fought a battle with duty and duty won. My mother realized that this was as it should be. So did yours. She knew that you were a man with a great public responsibility and she would not let you shirk it, painful though it must have been to both of you. Self-sacrifice is perhaps the greatest virtue known to man. I'm glad to see you were big enough to make it."

Hornsby was far from a light-hearted companion when he left for the ball field but his eyes had lost the glitter and his face its drawn appearance of last night. His sorrow was expressed in silence and his men respected both.

informed members that garbage must remain in wagons overnight because the garbage plant is closed before his drivers return from their rounds. This precludes the disinfecting, he said. Board members will ask Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore to order the garbage furnace kept open until 5:30 or 6 p. m., during the rush season.

The city engineer was authorized to act as plumbing inspector. He will be permitted to charge a fee for each inspection. This fee, fixed by city ordinance, will go into the city treasury.

Witnesses, who testified that they saw her at Carmel, when she was supposed to be lying at the bottom of the Pacific ocean, and when, according to her testimony, she had actually been kidnaped, pay tribute to her personality.

One witness who drove a grocery wagon said:

"She seemed to draw me to her."

THE reverend lady has ardent followers. Some have threatened with death one of the witnesses against her. She goes on with her "fight the devil fund," worrying not at all about hostile witnesses, whom she calls "little doggies, trained to jump."

LABOR TO SEEK SHORTER WEEK IN INDUSTRY

Ford's Five-day Plan Encourages Move, Says Green.

IDEA OF A. F. L.

Chieftain Says Unions Deserve Credit for Principle.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Encouraged by action of Henry Ford in adopting the five-day week, the American Federation of Labor will fight vigorously for a shorter working week in industry, William Green, president, declared today.

Green does not believe that there will be universal acceptance immediately of the five-day week, but he thinks that in a few years employers will realize that with the increased production through time-saving machines, wages will be increased and working hours reduced.

The federation, not Ford, should be given credit for first bringing about the shorter week, Green said.

"Ford seems merely to have accepted the philosophy of the federation in regard to hours, wages and production," Green declared.

Through the federation's activity, the five-day week already has been established in two important trades, printing and fur working, said Green.

"The week now for the day printing trade is 44 hours, or, five and one-half days," Green explained. "In most of the night printing trades, it is 40 hours, or, five days.

"Two months ago, we made agreements whereby the fur working trade has a 40-hour week, or, five days, as Ford has now established.

Eyestrain is the cause of your headaches and can be only cured by wearing the proper glasses in the frame suitable to you.

Do Your Gums Bleed and Recede from the Teeth?

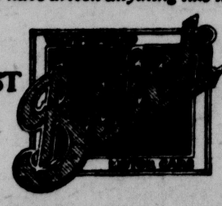

Tender, sore or bleeding gums, or gums fissured or receding from the teeth, indicate DEADLY PYORRHEA—the teeth's worst enemy. The disease first attacks the gums, later the tooth structure. As the gums recede from the teeth, pus pockets are formed, in which toxic poisons develop to be absorbed by the system and become the possible sources of other dangerous diseases. Don't let Pyorrhea endanger your health. The ravages of this terrible disease can be stopped, the gums healed and the poison the system has been absorbing checked, by the use of VINCENT'S PYORRHEA TREATMENT. For further particulars write,

Do Your Gums Bleed and Recede from the Teeth?

Tender, sore or bleeding gums, or gums fissured or receding from the teeth, indicate DEADLY PYORRHEA—the teeth's worst enemy. The disease first attacks the gums, later the tooth structure. As the gums recede from the teeth, pus pockets are formed, in which toxic poisons develop to be absorbed by the system and become the possible sources of other dangerous diseases. Don't let Pyorrhea endanger your health. The ravages of this terrible disease can be stopped, the gums healed and the poison the system has been absorbing checked, by the use of VINCENT'S PYORRHEA TREATMENT. For further particulars write,

Do Your Gums Bleed and Recede from the Teeth?

Tender, sore or bleeding gums, or gums fissured or receding from the teeth, indicate DEADLY PYORRHEA—the teeth's worst enemy. The disease first attacks the gums, later the tooth structure. As the gums recede from the teeth, pus pockets are formed, in which toxic poisons develop to be absorbed by the system and become the possible sources of other dangerous diseases. Don't let Pyorrhea endanger your health. The ravages of this terrible disease can be stopped, the gums healed and the poison the system has been absorbing checked, by the use of VINCENT'S PYORRHEA TREATMENT. For further particulars write,

MISSION OPENS HERE SUNDAY

Rev. E. B. Andrews Will Preach in Episcopal Church.

Rev. E. B. Andrews, vice president of the American Guide to Health, an inter-denominational society, will open a mission Sunday morning in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Fourth street and Indiana avenue. The meetings will continue for one week.

The society was organized to restore and reinforce to fuller expression the ministry of healing as an inherent part of the pastoral office of the church. It is said to be the only organization in the United States working in churches and dealing with subjects of religion and health, which is formed on an inter-denominational basis.

It started as an Episcopalian society five years ago but quickly over-leaped denominational barriers. When incorporated in December, 1922, under the laws of the state of Ohio, its membership was thrown open to all baptized persons without any question as to church affiliation. On its board of trustees are members of several great religious bodies.

Services on Sunday will be at 8 and 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Meetings will be held every night next week beginning at 7:30. Lectures will be arranged for some afternoons.

The public is invited.

OFFICERS NAMED AT LABOR MEET

John B. Easton, of Williamstown, was re-elected president of the West Virginia Federation of Labor at the closing session of the 18th annual convention yesterday at Morgantown, and Parkersburg was named as the convention city next year.

Other officers elected included the following: Vice presidents, Mrs. Charles Reilly, Charleston; Fred Stubbs, Monongah; Harry Norrington, Wheeling; R. H. Kidd, Clarksburg, and J. R. Diggs, Fairmont; secretary treasurer, Charles Jarrett, Charleston.

The closing session was featured by the adoption of several additional resolutions, the most important of which was endorsement of the petition drawn up by the United Mine Workers of America calling upon the state legislature to impeach Judge I. Grant Lazzelle, of the circuit court of Monongalia county, for "mal-administration."

The petition referred to was drawn by officials of the United Mine Workers some months ago following the pronouncement of sentence by Judge Lazzelle on a number of miners' officials and members adjudged in contempt of court for activities in connection with the miners' strike in this county.

Oftentimes Veins Burst and Cause Much Suffering, Expense and Loss of Employment.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any first-class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Mathews Medicine Store, J. D. Holloway sells lots of it.

MISSION OPENS HERE SUNDAY

Rev. E. B. Andrews Will Preach in Episcopal Church.

Rev. E. B. Andrews, vice president of the American Guide to Health, an inter-denominational society, will open a mission Sunday morning in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Fourth street and Indiana avenue. The meetings will continue for one week.

The society was organized to restore and reinforce to fuller expression the ministry of healing as an inherent part of the pastoral office of the church. It is said to be the only organization in the United States working in churches and dealing with subjects of religion and health, which is formed on an inter-denominational basis.

It started as an Episcopalian society five years ago but quickly over-leaped denominational barriers. When incorporated in December, 1922, under the laws of the state of Ohio, its membership was thrown open to all baptized persons without any question as to church affiliation. On its board of trustees are members of several great religious bodies.

Services on Sunday will be at 8 and 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Meetings will be held every night next week beginning at 7:30. Lectures will be arranged for some afternoons.

The public is invited.

OFFICERS NAMED AT LABOR MEET

John B. Easton, of Williamstown, was re-elected president of the West Virginia Federation of Labor at the closing session of the 18th annual convention yesterday at Morgantown, and Parkersburg was named as the convention city next year.

Other officers elected included the following: Vice presidents, Mrs. Charles Reilly, Charleston; Fred Stubbs, Monongah; Harry Norrington, Wheeling; R. H. Kidd, Clarksburg, and J. R. Diggs, Fairmont; secretary treasurer, Charles Jarrett, Charleston.

The closing session was featured by the adoption of several additional resolutions, the most important of which was endorsement of the petition drawn up by the United Mine Workers of America calling upon the state legislature to impeach Judge I. Grant Lazzelle, of the circuit court of Monongalia county, for "mal-administration."

The petition referred to was drawn by officials of the United Mine Workers some months ago following the pronouncement of sentence by Judge Lazzelle on a number of miners' officials and members adjudged in contempt of court for activities in connection with the miners' strike in this county.

Death of Hornsbys' Mother May Make St. Louis Victory Sure

Cards Face Yankees With Psychological Edge In Their Favor

Hornsby, Like Pagliacci, Will Entertain Throngs With Sorrow Laden Heart, and His Team, Thinks Walsh, Can do no Less Than Play Their Fool Heads Off to Help Him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Pagliacci made them laugh though the smirk of his lips was false and the heart within him died. But they laughed. That, I think, will tell the story of the 1926 world series between the Yankees of New York and the Cardinals of St. Louis. Grim fate took a hand in the proceedings yesterday withe the announcement that Mrs. M. D. Hornsby had died in Austin, Tex., and the news, simple and tragic, probably decided the destiny of an event of national importance.

The writer believes that the death of Mrs. Hornsby, mother of the Cardinal manager, made certain what probably was an impending St. Louis victory. Every indication pointed toward it, in the first place, but the Cards now will go in there with psychology in their favor and a ball club so endowed seldom goes wrong in a world series.

The old Athletics were told the Cubs were unbeatable. They went in there to die gamely. They didn't they lived and won. The Boston Braves were lashed into a lather over an alleged altercation between stallings and Connie Mack. They went out to avenge a fancied slight and won four straight. The Washington Senators fought to redeem the failure of Walter Johnson and the first thing they knew they had the title on their hands. Pittsburgh found the Senators kidding around and not bearing down in the final games of 1925 and the last rush of the Pirates was too much for any club to sustain.

They had psychology batting in tenth position and the old man never fails.

Uncertainty is Ended.

For the same reason, they laughted at Pagliacci. He cared not at all whether they laughed or cried and naturally the rest was easy. I think Rogers Hornsby will play great ball in the world series.

The writer saw him enter the lobby of the Hotel Alamac last night, white faced and distrait, to receive the news he waited for, yet dreaded. I think Hornsby will be a better man for knowing that the end has come. Uncertainty is a cancer that gnaws the vitals and makes of the knees a study in rubberized gymnastics. Uncertainty has ceased for Hornsby.

A firm believer in psychology, the writer looks for a new Hornsby to appear at the Yankee stadium for the first game on Saturday, a man who knows the iron has entered his soul. They say Hornsby has no nerves. If that is true, it is probable that Hornsby will be an inspired ball player for this particular series.

As for the rest of the Cards, what else can they do but play their fool heads off for a leader so recently bereaved?

With money in one hand and honor in the other, they should be able to laugh off anything. Pagliacci did it.

"WIN, ROGERS," MOTHER'S WISH

Obeying Her Last Request, Hornsby Will Play in Series.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Torn with anguish by the death of his mother, but unwilling to disregard her dying wishes, Rogers Hornsby will lead his fighting St. Louis Cardinals against the Yankees in the opening game of the world series here Saturday.

Stunned by grief, the brilliant young manager walked the streets with his wife for hours last evening after receiving word from Austin, Texas, that his mother had died. What finally influenced him to stay here for the first two games of the series was his mother's last message which he received over the telephone from relatives. It was:

In another message to Hornsby's wife, the dying woman requested her to stay with Rogers. Hornsby had almost decided to leave for Texas with his wife when he received the news of his mother's death.

"As it is my mother's dying request that I remain with my team until after the series is over, I have decided to carry out her wishes, hard as this will be to me," Hornsby said in making his decision to stay here.

He said his mother's remains would be kept for a funeral after the series is finished.

Hornsby is expected to practice with the Cardinals today. He did not appear on the field yesterday.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

It will be obvious to the golfer that mechanical devices for driving golf balls, devices which hit the balls straight and for great distances, of necessity begin to turn the face of the clubhead away from the ball tho instant the clubhead is started back. The clubhead also is always inside the direction line. The mechanical driver is free from the human frailties, but the human makeup has at least one advantage over it, and that advantage is in the wrists. That is, if the mechanical device could have added to it an action paralleling the wrist action the balls driven would go much greater lengths. It doesn't follow, however, that the player should move his club directly back from the ball, as the mechanical device moves. Instead, it is better to keep the face of the club square to the ball for the first six or eight inches and to let the clubhead drag just slightly behind the hands.

CUBS COP FIRST TILT WITH SOX

Root Hurls Nationals to Victory in Series Opener.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Charley Root hurled the Cubs to a 6 to 0 triumph in the opening game of the annual city series with the White Sox at the bruin stronghold yesterday.

The White Sox were unable to solve Root's offerings. He held the Sox to four hits. Red Faber started on the mound for the Sox. The Cubs scored two runs off him in the third, but Berg's wild throw to first messed up a certain double play and put the veteran spitball pitcher in the hole.

Faber retired in the Sox half of the eighth in favor of a pinch hitter, Ray Morehart, and George Connally took the mound for the Sox in their half of the round. Connally ran into considerable trouble and Hollis Thurston was rushed to the rescue. Before he could retire the Cubs, however, they had scored four more runs and clinched the victory.

The scene of activeness will switch to Comiskey Park, the home of the White Sox, today.

The attendance was 14,721, gross receipts $14 070.60. Each club share $2,392, players' pool $7,176, and commissioner's share $2,110.59.

The players' share in the receipts of the first four games, the winners receiving 60 per cent, and the losers 40 per cent.

EIGHT REMAIN IN TITLE PLAY

MERION CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 30.—Eight of the nation's finest women golfers remained in the national championship today to contest the round before the semi-finals.

Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, the champion, met Miss Virginia Wilson, Chicago, rated as the most promising of the younger players from the Chicago district. Miss Edith Cummings, Chicago, met Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, of Philadelphia, in the other match in the upper half of the draw.

In the lower half, Mrs. Wright D. Goss, former metropolitan champion, played Mrs. Norman Toerge, of New York, and Mrs. J. L. Anderson, New York, played Mrs. Cortland Smith.

"Title or No, Jack Still Is My Champion," Says His Actress-Wife

"I Didn't Marry the Heavyweight Title, I Married Dempsey," Declares Estelle; Has Faith in Hubby's Ability.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—"I didn't marry the heavyweight title—I married Jack Dempsey. Win or lose, he's still champion to me."

Estelle Taylor, film star and wife of the ex-champion, today took occasion to deny not only her advertised opposition to her husband's profession, but to express the hope that he would continue his ring activities if he so desired.

In the Dempsey suite at the Belmont hotel, where Jack is nursing his bruises gained in the late unpleasantness with Mr. Tunney, Estelle, with rather surprising vigor, made her position clear.

"I have never taken an interest in boxing," she said. "Jack didn't bring the ring into his home. I wouldn't know the difference between an uppercut or a lower-cut. But fighting is Jack's business. That is the thing he loves to do, and I have no more right to influence him with regard to it than I would if he was a broker in Wall street.

Will Root for Jack.

"I have the utmost faith in his ability. Failure once doesn't mean failure twice. If he should fight again, I may not be at the ring side—because no woman likes to see her man mauled—but I'll be rooting for him, as every wife roots for her husband in his endeavor.

"Champion or ex-champion—it makes little difference to me. My friends are interested in picture making. His friends are interested in boxing. We keep the two sets apart.

"Now, my friends inquire what my new picture is going to be, and offer me no sympathy because I am an ex-champion's wife. Why should they?

"I am told that Jack had an off-night when he fought Tunney. But I'm not offering alibis any more than he does. I have never said that he'd been doped, or that something had gone wrong at the last minute. I only know that I want him to be happy. If his happiness lies in fighting again or in promoting fights, or in encouraging the game, I'll say 'God bless you.'

Confident He Would Win.

"Do you think for a moment that I could have married Jack if he was the sort of man who would let a woman change his life for him? The loss of a crown of fame doesn't mean the loss of a person's character.

"Friends remain friends in fair weather and foul. And the hangers-on are better weeded out. Naturally, I am disappointed for Jack's sake that he didn't win. But he has had a happy period of king-ship, and I believe that if he wanted to become champion again, and had another chance at the title, he would win. If, after all the legal battles are fought out in court, and Jack decides that his course shall be towards the crown again — I have no doubt but that he would attain it, as he did the first time."

Jack is resting, talking movie script with his wife, and playing rummy these days.

Morgan Defends Title.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The last bases of the season were tagged when the Braves embalmed the Phillies for the winter by winning both ends of a double header, 7 to 6 and 2 to 1.

Rain deprived the Senators of a chance to tie the Athletics for third place when a scheduled double header at Philadelphia was called off.

Police Seek Boxer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Police today were searching for Frank Leiberman, whose knockout of Joseph Gerrity, 13, in an amateur boxing match resulted in Gerrity's death. When Gerrity struck the canvas he suffered a fracture at the base of the skull and died later in a hospital.

Leiberman left the ring without knowing that Gerrity was in a serious condition.

Ex-champ Considers Plans for Return to Active Work in Ring

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—It was reported today that a formal announcement soon will be forthcoming from the headquarters of Jack Dempsey that the former heavyweight champion will continue his ring career in the hope of getting a return bout with Gene Tunney. This declaration followed a conference yesterday between Dempsey and Tex Rickard, in which the promoter was said to have urged Jack to go back in the ring.

It also was said that he offered Dempsey a proposition whereby he would make his next appearance in Madison Square Garden as the opponent of the winner of a heavyweight elimination series. Harry Wills, negro challenger, is not likely to appear in the series as it was said that a Dempsey-Wills match was too big for an indoor club.

"As a championship fight, I would not touch it," Rickard declared today. "But merely as an elimination contest, I don't think it would occasion much opposition."

However, both Dempsey and Rickard claim to be incensed at Wills for his interference with their recent plans.

LANDIS TO TALK WITH UMPIRES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, is in New York for the world series and will meet tomorrow with four umpires who will officiate at the series. After talking with the umpires Landis will attend to the draft for minor league players.

Judge Landis said the question of permitting the use of a resin bag by the pitchers, upon which the American and National leagues have disagreed, would be ironed out at the meeting of the umpires. This meeting also will be attended by representatives of each contending club.

Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said today that application for reserved seats had climbed 15,000 over the available seating capacity and that all late applications would be returned.

BUCKEYE FIVE HOLDS MEETING

The Buckeye basketball club held its 1926 organization meeting recently at the home of James Wildblood, St. Clair avenue. James Skidmore, president, was in charge. The following officers were elected: James Wildblood, captain; James Skidmore, treasurer; David Fiet, president.

The next meeting of the club will be held at William Pusey's home, 203 East Fourth street, Monday, October 11.

START WELTER ELIMINATIONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Mickey Walker-"Shuffle" Callahan fight here Monday night will be the first of a series of elimination contests to select a suitable opponent for Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion. Latzo won the title from Walker several months ago.

Workmen unearthed near Inverness, Scotland, recently a stone which is believed to be the Broad Stone, mentioned in very old charters.

BOOK THREE— VII.

He had never loved her more than during the ensuing few minutes in the fraternity house. She sat enthroned on a window seat, her gorgeous coat spread out around her like the background of a painting, her head tilted sideways—and without any visible effort whatever made a dozen blase young collegians her slaves. Her first faint lazy smile from the doorway had caught them, and the tentacles of her beauty and personality held them fast. "I knew it!" Jock gloated secretly "She's knocking 'em cuckoo!" Every admiring glance that fastened on her, every guffaw elicited by things she said, every small compliment added its tithe to his exhilaration.

He said little. Talk effervesced around him, and he stood silent for the most part, looking and listening, and thinking. "Lovelier than ever. She caught a tan in California and it's becoming. Gosh, what a smooth get-up! That white fur. She always looks like a million dollars, anyway. And maybe she doesn't know her groceries! Poise. Says just the right things. Look at Fat Hastings, gawking. Bet he never saw such a girl in his life. Hell, who has, for that matter? There never was such a girl! For God's sake, what did I do all these weeks without her? How did I stand it?"...

Suddenly he wanted her alone. Where he could feast his eyes upon her without fear that alien eyes would notice. Where he could take her in his arms. . . He stood up and pulled her with him. "Come on, Yvonne," he said. "Enough of this rabble."

The worthies thus designated were reluctant to let Yvonne go. They voiced protests. Why go? Dull idea, checking out now. Stay to lunch or something. . . But Jock, deaf to their entreaties, and full of the hauteur of enviable proprietorship, bore her in triumph away.

VIII.

"Just drive, Michael. Anywhere. It doesn't matter."

The chauffeur nodded, and the limousine lunged forward, a singing, winged thing. "We'll drive till we find a good inn," Yvonne continued, "and then we'll eat a lot of things—don't you always feel like eating a lot of things, weather like this? — and then we'll drive some more. How does that sound?"

"Too good to be true!" Jock leaned back, letting his body sink into the downy upholstery. "Some boat!" he commented. "Is it new?"

"No, I've had it—about a year."

He scarcely heard her. He had drawn her arm through his, and their faces were almost on a level . . in the intoxication of such proximity he lost interest in the limousine completely. "Now!" he sighed. "I've been waaiting—how many centuries is it?—for this minute." He thought he would kiss her. But it was high noon, and the streets were thickly peopled. . . . He looked away hastily from her red parted lips. "Funny," he mused, "now that it's over, and you're back, I'm just beginning to realize how very damn miserable I've been all this time. It was most particular hell, Yvonne."

"Was it? What-all did you do with yourself?"

"Oh—thought about you, and wondered about you, and wrote you poems, and letters that I couldn't send—why didn't you let be have your address, Beautiful?"

Yvonne hesitated, her eyes straying from his. "There's a girl who's trying awfully hard to bow to you," she said, instead of an answer.

Jock followed her glance. Eunice . . . standing on the street corner, staring . . .

"Who was she?" Yvonne asked when they had passed.

"Nobody. Eunice Hathaway."

"She's very attractive."

"Yah," said Jock laconically. And dismissed Eunice forthwith. "What did you do with yourself, honey? Did you have a good time?"

"No."

"You didn't? Why not?"

"I don't believe—I'll ever have a very good time anywhere again—unless you are there."

She began this speech haltingly, and ended it in a rush. Jock could hardly credit the delicious evidence of his ears. "What?" he cried. He sat up straight, towering over her, and his brown eyes glinted. "Yvonne—sweetheart—do you mean that?"

"I'm afraid I do."

He peered at her a moment longer, to make sure. Then he emitted a mighty whoop. "You do! You mean it! Oh, gosh, Yvonne—" He would have kissed her then, regardless of onlookers, but she held him gently away.

"Not now," she said. "Not until I've told you what I came down here today to tell you. After that you may not want to kiss me—ever again."

Jock knew what she meant. Her story. She had promised, the last afternoon in New York, that when she returned she would tell him. . . . It had seemed important then, but it didn't now. Nothing was important now but her delicate softness beside him, her perfume in his nostrils, her voice saying, "—unless you are there, Jock Hamill." The face of Parke Demorest of Demorest Motors flashed across his vision and was gone, without effect. He put his arms about Yvonne, and his voice shook a little in the force of its sincerity. "Darling—the only thing you could possibly say that would matter would be that—well, that there isn't any hope for me, ever. That would rip me up into a million pieces. But nothing else in the world could make any difference. Not any thing." His arms tightened their hold. "Oh, sweet — sweet—as long as I can have you like this—" He laughed exultantly. "Bring on your German armies!"

He did not attempt to kiss her again for a while. There was an exquisite torture in postponement. They rode on, and she nestled close to him. . . . so close that now and then he could feel her eyelashes against his cheek, like the fluttering wings of satin butterflies. And he talked. Rapidly and gayly, giving all the things pent up for months expression. "I missed you—Lord, how I did miss you! No matter what I did, or where I was, or who I was with, there was a walloping big emptiness inside of me all the time, because you were gone. I used to do the darnedest things, Yvonne! Walk at night and stare at the stars, because the same stars were a canopy over you. . . . There never was a beautiful sunset or a full moon that I didn't wonder if you were looking at it, too. And once when I was in New York I broke away from the gang and spent the whole afternoon tramping around through Central Park, thinking, 'Now here she said this to me, and here she looked such-and-such a way.' And then I went and gaped at your apartment house until they nearly pinched me for loitering. . . . And I used to make up lists of things you remind me of. Things like opals, the wind, and white birch trees under the moon, and castanets, and champagne in a silver goblet. 'The kind of a woman men think of with a little corner of their minds when they're kissing their wives'—that was one line I remember. Silly or not?" he finished, laughing. "A fellow all goofy with loving somebody is certainly a pitiful object."

"That's not silly," Yvonne said. "It's beautiful. It's the most beautiful thing that's been said to me in ages, because—well, because you mean it, don't you."

MISSION OPENS HERE SUNDAY

Rev. E. B. Andrews Will Preach in Episcopal Church.

Rev. E. B. Andrews, vice president of the American Guide to Health, an inter-denominational society, will open a mission Sunday morning in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Fourth street and Indiana avenue. The meetings will continue for one week.

The society was organized to restore and reinforce to fuller expression the ministry of healing as an inherent part of the pastoral office of the church. It is said to be the only organization in the United States working in churches and dealing with subjects of religion and health, which is formed on an inter-denominational basis.

It started as an Episcopalian society five years ago but quickly over-leaped denominational barriers. When incorporated in December, 1922, under the laws of the state of Ohio, its membership was thrown open to all baptized persons without any question as to church affiliation. On its board of trustees are members of several great religious bodies.

Services on Sunday will be at 8 and 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Meetings will be held every night next week beginning at 7:30. Lectures will be arranged for some afternoons.

The public is invited.

OFFICERS NAMED AT LABOR MEET

Other officers elected included the following: Vice presidents, Mrs. Charles Reilly, Charleston; Fred Stubbs, Monongah; Harry Norrington, Wheeling; R. H. Kidd, Clarksburg, and J. R. Diggs, Fairmont; secretary treasurer, Charles Jarrett, Charleston.

The closing session was featured by the adoption of several additional resolutions, the most important of which was endorsement of the petition drawn up by the United Mine Workers of America calling upon the state legislature to impeach Judge I. Grant Lazzelle, of the circuit court of Monongalia county, for "mal-administration."

The petition referred to was drawn by officials of the United Mine Workers some months ago following the pronouncement of sentence by Judge Lazzelle on a number of miners' officials and members adjudged in contempt of court for activities in connection with the miners' strike in this county.

Death of Hornsbys' Mother May Make St. Louis Victory Sure

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Pagliacci made them laugh though the smirk of his lips was false and the heart within him died. But they laughed. That, I think, will tell the story of the 1926 world series between the Yankees of New York and the Cardinals of St. Louis. Grim fate took a hand in the proceedings yesterday withe the announcement that Mrs. M. D. Hornsby had died in Austin, Tex., and the news, simple and tragic, probably decided the destiny of an event of national importance.

The writer believes that the death of Mrs. Hornsby, mother of the Cardinal manager, made certain what probably was an impending St. Louis victory. Every indication pointed toward it, in the first place, but the Cards now will go in there with psychology in their favor and a ball club so endowed seldom goes wrong in a world series.

The old Athletics were told the Cubs were unbeatable. They went in there to die gamely. They didn't: they lived and won. The Boston Braves were lashed into a lather over an alleged altercation between stallings and Connie Mack. They went out to avenge a fancied slight and won four straight. The Washington Senators fought to redeem the failure of Walter Johnson and the first thing they knew they had the title on their hands. Pittsburgh found the Senators kidding around and not bearing down in the final games of 1925 and the last rush of the Pirates was too much for any club to sustain.

They had psychology batting in tenth position and the old man never fails.

Uncertainty is Ended.

For the same reason, they laughted at Pagliacci. He cared not at all whether they laughed or cried and naturally the rest was easy. I think Rogers Hornsby will play great ball in the world series.

The writer saw him enter the lobby of the Hotel Alamac last night, white faced and distrait, to receive the news he waited for, yet dreaded. I think Hornsby will be a better man for knowing that the end has come. Uncertainty is a cancer that gnaws the vitals and makes of the knees a study in rubberized gymnastics. Uncertainty has ceased for Hornsby.

A firm believer in psychology, the writer looks for a new Hornsby to appear at the Yankee stadium for the first game on Saturday, a man who knows the iron has entered his soul. They say Hornsby has no nerves. If that is true, it is probable that Hornsby will be an inspired ball player for this particular series.

As for the rest of the Cards, what else can they do but play their fool heads off for a leader so recently bereaved?

With money in one hand and honor in the other, they should be able to laugh off anything. Pagliacci did it.

"WIN, ROGERS," MOTHER'S WISH

Obeying Her Last Request, Hornsby Will Play in Series.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Torn with anguish by the death of his mother, but unwilling to disregard her dying wishes, Rogers Hornsby will lead his fighting St. Louis Cardinals against the Yankees in the opening game of the world series here Saturday.

Stunned by grief, the brilliant young manager walked the streets with his wife for hours last evening after receiving word from Austin, Texas, that his mother had died. What finally influenced him to stay here for the first two games of the series was his mother's last message which he received over the telephone from relatives. It was:

In another message to Hornsby's wife, the dying woman requested her to stay with Rogers. Hornsby had almost decided to leave for Texas with his wife when he received the news of his mother's death.

"As it is my mother's dying request that I remain with my team until after the series is over, I have decided to carry out her wishes, hard as this will be to me," Hornsby said in making his decision to stay here.

He said his mother's remains would be kept for a funeral after the series is finished.

Hornsby is expected to practice with the Cardinals today. He did not appear on the field yesterday.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 81 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

It will be obvious to the golfer that mechanical devices for driving golf balls, devices which hit the balls straight and for great distances, of necessity begin to turn the face of the clubhead away from the ball the instant the clubhead is started back. The clubhead also is always inside the direction line. The mechanical driver is free from the human frailties, but the human make-up has at least one advantage over it, and that advantage is in the wrists. That is, if the mechanical device could have added to it an action parallelling the wrist action the balls driven would go much greater lengths. It doesn't follow, however, that the player should move his club directly back from the ball, as the mechanical device moves. Instead, it is better to keep the face of the club square to the ball for the first six or eight inches and to let the clubhead drag just slightly behind the hands.

CUBS COP FIRST TILT WITH SOX

Root Hurls Nationals to Victory in Series Opener.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Charley Root hurled the Cubs to a 6 to 0 triumph in the opening game of the annual city series with the White Sox at the bruin stronghold yesterday.

The White Sox were unable to solve Root's offerings. He held the Sox to four hits. Red Faber started on the mound for the Sox. The Cubs scored two runs off him in the third, but Berg's wild throw to first messed up a certain double play and put the veteran spitball pitcher in the hole.

Faber retired in the Sox half of the eighth in favor of a pinch hitter, Ray Morehart, and George Connally took the mound for the Sox in their half of the round. Connally ran into considerable trouble and Hollis Thurston was rushed to the rescue. Before he could retire the Cubs, however, they had scored four more runs and clinched the victory.

The scene of activeness will switch to Comiskey Park, the home of the White Sox, today.

The attendance was 14,721, gross receipts $14,070.60. Each club share $2,392, players' pool $7,176, and commissioner's share $2,110.59.

The players' share in the receipts of the first four games, the winners receiving 60 per cent, and the losers 40 per cent.

EIGHT REMAIN IN TITLE PLAY

MERION CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 30.—Eight of the nation's finest women golfers remained in the national championship today to contest the round before the semi-finals.

Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, the champion, met Miss Virginia Wilson, Chicago, rated as the most promising of the younger players from the Chicago district. Miss Edith Cummings, Chicago, met Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, of Philadelphia, in the other match in the upper half of the draw.

In the lower half, Mrs. Wright D. Goss, former metropolitan champion, played Mrs. Norman Toerge, of New York, and Mrs. J. L. Anderson, New York, played Mrs. Cortland Smith.

"Title or No, Jack Still Is My Champion," Says His Actress-Wife

"I Didn't Marry the Heavyweight Title, I Married Dempsey," Declares Estelle; Has Faith in Hubby's Ability.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—"I didn't marry the heavyweight title—I married Jack Dempsey. Win or lose, he's still champion to me."

Estelle Taylor, film star and wife of the ex-champion, today took occasion to deny not only her advertised opposition to her husband's profession, but to express the hope that he would continue his ring activities if he so desired.

In the Dempsey suite at the Belmont hotel, where Jack is nursing his bruises gained in the late unpleasantness with Mr. Tunney, Estelle, with rather surprising vigor, made her position clear.

"I have never taken an interest in boxing," she said. "Jack didn't bring the ring into his home. I wouldn't know the difference between an uppercut or a lower-cut. But fighting is Jack's business. That is the thing he loves to do, and I have no more right to influence him with regard to it than I would if he was a broker in Wall street.

Will Root for Jack.

"I have the utmost faith in his ability. Failure once doesn't mean failure twice. If he should fight again, I may not be at the ring side—because no woman likes to see her man mauled—but I'll be rooting for him, as every wife roots for her husband in his endeavor.

"Champion or ex-champion—it makes little difference to me. My friends are interested in picture making. His friends are interested in boxing. We keep the two sets apart.

"Now, my friends inquire what my new picture is going to be, and offer me no sympathy because I am an ex-champion's wife. Why should they?

"I am told that Jack had an off night when he fought Tunney. But I'm not offering alibis any more than he does. I have never said that he'd been doped, or that something had gone wrong at the last minute. I only know that I want him to be happy. If his happiness lies in fighting again or in promoting fights, or in encouraging the game, I'll say 'God bless you.'

Confident He Would Win.

"Do you think for a moment that I could have married Jack if he was the sort of man who would let a woman change his life for him? The loss of a crown of fame doesn't mean the loss of a person's character.

"Friends remain friends in fair weather and foul. And the hangers-on are better weeded out. Naturally, I am disappointed for Jack's sake that he didn't win. But he has had a happy period of king-ship, and I believe that if he wanted to become champion again, and had another chance at the title, he would win. If, after all the legal battles are fought out in court, and Jack decides that his course shall be towards the crown again — I have no doubt but that he would attain it, as he did the first time."

Jack is resting, talking movie script with his wife, and playing rummy these days.

Morgan Defends Title.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The last bases of the season were tagged when the Braves embalmed the Phillies for the winter by winning both ends of a double header, 7 to 6 and 2 to 1.

Rain deprived the Senators of a chance to tie the Athletics for third place when a scheduled double header at Philadelphia was called off.

Police Seek Boxer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Police today were searching for Frank Leiberman, whose knockout of Joseph Gerrity, 18, in an amateur boxing match resulted in Gerrity's death. When Gerrity struck the canvas he suffered a fracture at the base of the skull and died later in a hospital.

Leiberman left the ring without knowing that Gerrity was in a serious condition.

EX-CHAMP CONSIDERS PLANS FOR RETURN TO ACTIVE WORK IN RING

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—It was reported today that a formal announcement soon will be forthcoming from the headquarters of Jack Dempsey that the former heavyweight champion will continue his ring career in the hope of getting a return bout with Gene Tunney. This declaration followed a conference yesterday between Dempsey and Tex Rickard, in which the promoter was said to have urged Jack to go back in the ring.

It also was said that he offered Dempsey a proposition whereby he would make his next appearance in Madison Square Garden as the opponent of the winner of a heavyweight elimination series. Harry Wills, negro challenger, is not likely to appear in the series as it was said that a Dempsey-Wills match was too big for an indoor club.

"As a championship fight, I would not touch it," Rickard declared today. "But merely as an elimination contest, I don't think it would occasion much opposition."

However, both Dempsey and Rickard claim to be incensed at Wills for his interference with their recent plans.

LANDIS TO TALK WITH UMPIRES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, is in New York for the world series and will meet tomorrow with four umpires who will officiate at the series. After talking with the umpires Landis will attend to the draft for minor league players.

Judge Landis said the question of permitting the use of a resin bag by the pitchers, upon which the American and National leagues have disagreed, would be ironed out at the meeting of the umpires. This meeting also will be attended by representatives of each contending club.

Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said today that application for reserved seats had climbed 15,000 over the available seating capacity and that all late applications would be returned.

The next meeting of the club will be held at William Pusey's home, 203 East Fourth street, Monday, October 11.

START WELTER ELIMINATIONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Mickey Walker-"Shuffle" Callahan fight here Monday night will be the first of a series of elimination contests to select a suitable opponent for Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion. Latzo won the title from Walker several months ago.

Workmen unearthed near Inverness, Scotland, recently a stone which is believed to be the Broad Stone, mentioned in very old charters.

Uncertainty is Ended.

For the same reason, they laughted at Pagliacci. He cared not at all whether they laughed or cried and naturally the rest was easy. I think Rogers Hornsby will play great ball in the world series.

The writer saw him enter the lobby of the Hotel Alamac last night, white faced and distrait, to receive the news he waited for, yet dreaded. I think Hornsby will be a better man for knowing that the end has come. Uncertainty is a cancer that gnaws the vitals and makes of the knees a study in rubberized gymnastics. Uncertainty has ceased for Hornsby.

A firm believer in psychology, the writer looks for a new Hornsby to appear at the Yankee stadium for the first game on Saturday, a man who knows the iron has entered his soul. They say Hornsby has no nerves. If that is true, it is probable that Hornsby will be an inspired ball player for this particular series.

As for the rest of the Cards, what else can they do but play their fool heads off for a leader so recently bereaved?

With money in one hand and honor in the other, they should be able to laugh off anything. Pagliacci did it.

"I Didn't Marry the Heavyweight Title, I Married Dempsey," Declares Estelle; Has Faith in Hubby's Ability.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—"I didn't marry the heavyweight title—I married Jack Dempsey. Win or lose, he's still champion to me."

Estelle Taylor, film star and wife of the ex-champion, today took occasion to deny not only her advertised opposition to her husband's profession, but to express the hope that he would continue his ring activities if he so desired.

In the Dempsey suite at the Belmont hotel, where Jack is nursing his bruises gained in the late unpleasantness with Mr. Tunney, Estelle, with rather surprising vigor, made her position clear.

"I have never taken an interest in boxing," she said. "Jack didn't bring the ring into his home. I wouldn't know the difference between an uppercut or a lower-cut. But fighting is Jack's business. That is the thing he loves to do, and I have no more right to influence him with regard to it than I would if he was a broker in Wall street.

Will Root for Jack.

"I have the utmost faith in his ability. Failure once doesn't mean failure twice. If he should fight again, I may not be at the ring side—because no woman likes to see her man mauled—but I'll be rooting for him, as every wife roots for her husband in his endeavor.

"Champion or ex-champion—it makes little difference to me. My friends are interested in picture making. His friends are interested in boxing. We keep the two sets apart.

"Now, my friends inquire what my new picture is going to be, and offer me no sympathy because I am an ex-champion's wife. Why should they?

"I am told that Jack had an off-night when he fought Tunney. But I'm not offering alibis any more than he does. I have never said that he'd been doped, or that something had gone wrong at the last minute. I only know that I want him to be happy. If his happiness lies in fighting again or in promoting fights, or in encouraging the game, I'll say 'God bless you.'

Confident He Would Win.

"Do you think for a moment that I could have married Jack if he was the sort of man who would let a woman change his life for him? The loss of a crown of fame doesn't mean the loss of a person's character.

"Friends remain friends in fair weather and foul. And the hangers-on are better weeded out. Naturally, I am disappointed for Jack's sake that he didn't win. But he has had a happy period of king-ship, and I believe that if he wanted to become champion again, and had another chance at the title, he would win. If, after all the legal battles are fought out in court, and Jack decides that his course shall be towards the crown again — I have no doubt but that he would attain it, as he did the first time."

Jack is resting, talking movie script with his wife, and playing rummy these days.

Morgan Defends Title.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The last bases of the season were tagged when the Braves embalmed the Phillies for the winter by winning both ends of a double header, 7 to 6 and 2 to 1.

Rain deprived the Senators of a chance to tie the Athletics for third place when a scheduled double header at Philadelphia was called off.

Police Seek Boxer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Police today were searching for Frank Leiberman, whose knockout of Joseph Gerrity, 18 in an amateur boxing match resulted in Gerrity's death. When Gerrity struck the canvas he suffered a fracture at the base of the skull and died later in a hospital.

Leiberman left the ring without knowing that Gerrity was in a serious condition.

"WIN, ROGERS," MOTHER'S WISH

Obeying Her Last Request, Hornsby Will Play in Series.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Torn with anguish by the death of his mother, but unwilling to disregard her dying wishes, Rogers Hornsby will lead his fighting St. Louis Cardinals against the Yankees in the opening game of the world series here Saturday.

Stunned by grief, the brilliant young manager walked the streets with his wife for hours last evening after receiving word from Austin, Texas, that his mother had died. What finally influenced him to stay here for the first two games of the series was his mother's last message which he received over the telephone from relatives. It was:

In another message to Hornsby's wife, the dying woman requested her to stay with Rogers. Hornsby had almost decided to leave for Texas with his wife when he received the news of his mother's death.

"As it is my mother's dying request that I remain with my team until after the series is over, I have decided to carry out her wishes, hard as this will be to me," Hornsby said in making his decision to stay here.

He said his mother's remains would be kept for a funeral after the series is finished.

Hornsby is expected to practice with the Cardinals today. He did not appear on the field yesterday.

Ex-champ Considers Plans for Return to Active Work in Ring

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—It was reported today that a formal announcement soon will be forthcoming from the headquarters of Jack Dempsey that the former heavyweight champion will continue his ring career in the hope of getting a return bout with Gene Tunney. This declaration followed a conference yesterday between Dempsey and Tex Rickard, in which the promoter was said to have urged Jack to go back in the ring.

It also was said that he offered Dempsey a proposition whereby he would make his next appearance in Madison Square Garden as the opponent of the winner of a heavyweight elimination series. Harry Wills, negro challenger, is not likely to appear in the series as it was said that a Dempsey-Wills match was too big for an indoor club.

"As a championship fight, I would not touch it," Rickard declared today. "But merely as an elimination contest, I don't think it would occasion much opposition."

However, both Dempsey and Rickard claim to be incensed at Wills for his interference with their recent plans.

LANDIS TO TALK WITH UMPIRES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, is in New York for the world series and will meet tomorrow with four umpires who will officiate at the series. After talking with the umpires Landis will attend to the draft for minor league players.

Judge Landis said the question of permitting the use of a resin bag by the pitchers, upon which the American and National leagues have disagreed, would be ironed out at the meeting of the umpires. This meeting also will be attended by representatives of each contending club.

Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said today that application for reserved seats had climbed 15,000 over the available seating capacity and that all late applications would be returned.

BUCKEYE FIVE HOLDS MEETING

The Buckeye basketball club held its 1926 organization meeting recently at the home of James Wildblood, St. Clair avenue. James Skidmore, president, was in charge. The following officers were elected: James Wildblood, captain; James Skidmore, treasurer; David Fiet, president.

The next meeting of the club will be held at William Pusey's home, 203 East Fourth street, Monday, October 11.

START WELTER ELIMINATIONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Mickey Walker-"Shuffle" Callahan fight here Monday night will be the first of a series of elimination contests to select a suitable opponent for Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion. Latzo won the title from Walker several months ago.

Workmen unearthed near Inverness, Scotland, recently a stone which is believed to be the Broad Stone, mentioned in very old charters.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

It will be obvious to the golfer that mechanical devices for driving golf balls, devices which hit the balls straight and for great distances, of necessity begin to turn the face of the clubhead away from the ball the instant the clubhead is started back. The clubhead also is always inside the direction line. The mechanical driver is free from the human frailties, but the human makeup has at least one advantage over it, and that advantage is in the wrists. That is, if the mechanical device could have added to it an action parallelling the wrist action the balls driven would go much greater lengths. It doesn't follow, however, that the player should move his club directly back from the ball, as the mechanical device moves. Instead, it is better to keep the face of the club square to the ball for the first six or eight inches and to let the clubhead drag just slightly behind the hands.

CUBS COP FIRST TILT WITH SOX

Root Hurls Nationals to Victory in Series Opener.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Charley Root hurled the Cubs to a 6 to 0 triumph in the opening game of the annual city series with the White Sox at the bruin stronghold yesterday.

The White Sox were unable to solve Root's offerings. He held the Sox to four hits. Red Faber started on the mound for the Sox. The Cubs scored two runs off him in the third, but Berg's wild throw to first messed up a certain double play and put the veteran spitball pitcher in the hole.

Faber retired in the Sox half of the eighth in favor of a pinch hitter, Ray Morehart, and George Connally took the mound for the Sox in their half of the round. Connally ran into considerable trouble and Hollis Thurston was rushed to the rescue. Before he could retire the Cubs, however, they had scored four more runs and clinched the victory.

The scene of activeness will switch to Comiskey Park, the home of the White Sox, today.

The attendance was 14,721, gross receipts $14,070.60. Each club share $2,392, players' pool $7,176, and commissioner's share $2,110.59.

The players' share in the receipts of the first four games, the winners receiving 60 per cent, and the losers 40 per cent.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK THREE— VII.

He had never loved her more than during the ensuing few minutes in the fraternity house. She sat enthroned on a window seat, her gorgeous coat spread out around her like the background of a painting, her head tilted sideways—and without any visible effort whatever made a dozen blase young collegians her slaves. Her first faint lazy smile from the doorway had caught them, and the tentacles of her beauty and personality held them fast. "I knew it!" Jock gloated secretly "She's knocking 'em cuckoo!" Every admiring glance that fastened on her, every guffaw elicited by things she said, every small compliment added its tithe to his exhilaration.

He said little. Talk effervesced around him, and he stood silent for the most part, looking and listening, and thinking, "Lovelier than ever. She caught a tan in California and it's becoming. Gosh, what a smooth get-up! That white fur. She always looks like a million dollars, anyway. And maybe she doesn't know her groceries! Poise. Says just the right things. Look at Fat Hastings, gawking. Bet he never saw such a girl in his life. Ugh, who has, for that matter? There never was such a girl! For God's sake, what did I do all these weeks without her? How did I stand it?" . . .

Suddenly he wanted her alone. Where he could feast his eyes upon her without fear that alien eyes would notice. Where he could take her in his arms. . . He stood up and pulled her with him. "Come on, Yvonne," he said. "Enough of this rabble."

The worthies thus designated were reluctant to let Yvonne go. They voiced protests. Why go? Dull idea, checking out now. Stay to lunch or something. . . But Jock, deaf to their entreaties, and full of the hauteur of enviable proprietorship, bore her in triumph away.

VIII.

"Just drive, Michael. Anywhere. It doesn't matter."

The chauffeur nodded, and the limousine lunged forward, a singing, winged thing. "We'll drive till we find a good inn," Yvonne continued, "and then we'll eat a lot of things—don't you always feel like eating a lot of things, weather like this? — and then we'll drive some more. How does that sound?"

"Too good to be true!" Jock leaned back, letting his body sink into the downy upholstery. "Some boat!" he commented. "Is it new?"

"No, I've had it—about a year."

He scarcely heard her. He had drawn her arm through his, and their faces were almost on a level . . in the intoxication of such proximity he lost interest in the limousine completely. "Now!" he sighed. "I've been waaiting—how many centuries is it?—for this minute." He thought he would kiss her. But it was high noon, and the streets were thickly peopled. . . He looked away hastily from her red parted lips. "Funny," he mused, "now that it's over, and you're back, I'm just beginning to realize how very damn miserable I've been all this time. It was most particular hell, Yvonne."

"Was it? What-all did you do with yourself?"

"Oh—thought about you, and wondered about you, and wrote you poems, and letters that I couldn't send—why didn't you let be have your address, Beautiful?"

Yvonne hesitated, her eyes straying from his. "There's a girl who's trying awfully hard to bow to you," she said, instead of an answer.

Jock followed her glance. Eunice . . . standing on the street corner, staring . . .

"Who was she?" Yvonne asked when hey had passed.

"Nobody. Eunice Hathaway."

"She's very attractive."

"Yah," said Jock laconically. And dismissed Eunice forthwith. "What did you do with yourself, honey? Did you have a good time?"

"No."

"You didn't? Why not?"

"I don't believe—I'll ever have a very good time anywhere again—unless you are there."

She began this speech haltingly, and ended it in a rush. Jock could hardly credit the delicious evidence of his ears. "What?" he cried. He sat up straight, towering over her, and his brown eyes glinted. "Yvonne—sweetheart—do you mean that?"

"I'm afraid I do."

He peered at her a moment longer, to make sure. Then he emitted a lighty whoop. "You do! You mean it! Oh, gosh, Yvonne—" He would have kissed her then, regardless of onlookers, but she held him gently away.

"Not now," she said. "Not until I've told you what I came down here today to tell you. After that you may not want to kiss me—ever again."

Jock knew what she meant. Her story. She had promised, the last afternoon in New York, that when she returned she would tell him. . . . It had seemed important then, but it didn't now. Nothing was important now but her delicate softness beside him, her perfume in his nostrils, her voice saying, "—unless you are there, Jock Hamill." The face of Parke Demorest of Demorest Motors flashed across his vision and was gone, without effect. He put his arms about Yvonne, and his voice shook a little in the force of its sincerity. "Darling—the only thing you could possibly say that would matter would be that—well, that there isn't any hope for me, ever. That would rip me up into a million pieces. But nothing else in the world could make any difference. Not any thing." His arms tightened their hold. "Oh, sweet — sweet—as long as I can have you like this—" He laughed exultantly. "Bring on your German armies!"

He did not attempt to kiss her again for a while. There was an exquisite torture in postponement. They rode on, and she nestled close to him. . . . so close that now and then he could feel her eyelashes against his cheek, like the fluttering wings of satin butterflies. And he talked. Rapidly and gayly, giving all the things pent up for months expression. "I missed you—Lord, how I did miss you! No matter what I did, or where I was, or who I was with, there was a walloping big emptiness inside of me all the time, because you were gone. I used to do the darnedest things, Yvonne! Walk at night and stare at the stars, because the same stars were a canopy over you. . . . There never was a beautiful sunset or a full moon that I didn't wonder if you were looking at it, too. And once when I was in New York I broke away from the gang and spent the whole afternoon tramping around through Central Park, thinking, 'Now here she said this to me, and here she looked such-and-such a way.' And then I went and gaped at your apartment house until they nearly pinched me for loitering. . . . And I used to make up lists of things you remind me of. Things like opals, the wind, and white birch trees under the moon, and castanets, and champagne in a silver goblet. 'The kind of a woman men think of with a little corner of their minds when they're kissing their wives'—that was one line I remember. Silly or not?" he finished, laughing. "A fellow all goofy with loving somebody is certainly a pitiful object."

"That's not silly," Yvonne said. "It's beautiful. It's the most beautiful thing that's been said to me in ages, because—well, because you mean it, don't you."

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK THREE— VII.

He had never loved her more than during the ensuing few minutes in the fraternity house. She sat enthroned on a window seat, her gorgeous coat spread out around her like the background of a painting, her head tilted sideways—and without any visible effort whatever made a dozen blase young collegians her slaves. Her first faint lazy smile from the doorway had caught them, and the tentacles of her beauty and personality held them fast. "I knew it!" Jock gloated secretly "She's knocking 'em cuckoo!" Every admiring glance that fastened on her, every guffaw elicited by things she said, every small compliment added its tithe to his exhilaration.

He said little. Talk effervesced around him, and he stood silent for the most part, looking and listening, and thinking, "Lovelier than ever. She caught a tan in California and it's becoming. Gosh, what a smooth get-up! That white fur. She always looks like a million dollars, anyway. And maybe she doesn't know her groceries! Poise. Says just the right things. Look at Fat Hastings, gawking. Bet he never saw such a girl in his life. Well, who has, for that matter? There never was such a girl! For God's sake, what did I do all these weeks without her? How did I stand it?"...

Suddenly he wanted her alone. Where he could feast his eyes upon her without fear that alien eyes would notice. Where he could take her in his arms. . . He stood up and pulled her with him. "Come on, Yvonne," he said. "Enough of this rabble."

The worthies thus designated were reluctant to let Yvonne go. They voiced protests. Why go? Dull idea, checking out now. Stay to lunch or something. . . But Jock, deaf to their entreatics, and full of the hauteur of enviable proprietorship, bore her in triumph away.

VIII.

"Just drive, Michael. Anywhere. It doesn't matter."

The chauffeur nodded, and the limousine lunged forward, a singing, winged thing. "We'll drive till we find a good inn," Yvonne continued, "and then we'll eat a lot of things—don't you always feel like eating a lot of things, weather like this? — and then we'll drive some more. How does that sound?"

"Too good to be true!" Jock leaned back, letting his body sink into the downy upholstery. "Some boat!" he commented. "Is it new?"

"No, I've had it—about a year."

He scarcely heard her. He had drawn her arm through his, and their faces were almost on a level . . in the intoxication of such proximity he lost interest in the limousine completely. "Now!" he sighed. "I've been waaiting —how many centuries is it?—for this minute." He thought he would kiss her. But it was high noon, and the streets were thickly peopled. . . . He looked away hastily from her red parted lips. "Funny," he mused, "now that it's over, and you're back, I'm just beginning to realize how very damn miserable I've been all this time. It was most particular hell, Yvonne."

"Was it? What-all did you do with yourself?"

"Oh—thought about you, and wondered about you, and wrote you poems, and letters that I couldn't send—why didn't you let be have your address, Beautiful?"

Yvonne hesitated, her eyes straying from his. "There's a girl who's trying awfully hard to bow to you," she said, instead of an answer.

Jock followed her glance. Eunice . . . standing on the street corner, staring . . .

"Who was she?" Yvonne asked when hey had passed.

"Nobody. Eunice Hathaway."

"She's very attractive."

"Yah," said Jock laconically. And dismissed Eunice forthwith. "What did you do with yourself, honey? Did you have a good time?"

"No."

"You didn't? Why not?"

"I don't believe—I'll ever have a very good time anywhere again—unless you are there."

She began this speech haltingly, and ended it in a rush. Jock could hardly credit the delicious evidence of his ears. "What?" he cried. He sat up straight, towering over her, and his brown eyes glinted. "Yvonne—sweetheart—do you mean that?"

"I'm afraid I do."

He peered at her a moment longer, to make sure. Then he emitted a mighty whoop. "You do! You mean it! Oh, gosh, Yvonne—" He would have kissed her then, regardless of onlookers, but she held him gently away.

"Not now," she said. "Not until I've told you what I came down here today to tell you. After that you may not want to kiss me—ever again."

Jock knew what she meant. Her story. She had promised, the last afternoon in New York, that when she returned she would tell him. . . . It had seemed important then, but it didn't now. Nothing was important now but her delicate softness beside him, her perfume in his nostrils, her voice saying, "—unless you are there, Jock Hamill." The face of Parke Demorest of Demorest Motors flashed across his vision and was gone, without effect. He put his arms about Yvonne, and his voice shook a little in the force of its sincerity. "Darling —the only thing you could possibly say that would matter would be that —well, that there isn't any hope for me, ever. That would rip me up into a million pieces. But nothing else in the world could make any difference. Not any thing." His arms tightened their hold. "Oh, sweet — sweet—as long as I can have you like this—" He laughed exultantly. "Bring on your German armies!"

He did not attempt to kiss her again for a while. There was an exquisite torture in postponement. They rode on, and she nestled close to him.... so close that now and then he could feel her eyelashes against his cheek, like the fluttering wings of satin butterflies. And he talked. Rapidly and gayly, giving all the things pent up for months expression. "I missed you—Lord, how I did miss you! No matter what I did, or where I was, or who I was with, there was a walloping big emptiness inside of me all the time, because you were gone. I used to do the darnedest things, Yvonne! Walk at night and stare at the stars, because the same stars were a canopy over you. . . . There never was a beautiful sunset or a full moon that I didn't wonder if you were looking at it, too. And once when I was in New York I broke away from the gang and spent the whole afternoon tramping around through Central Park, thinking, 'Now here she said this to me, and here she looked such-and-such a way.' And then I went and gaped at your apartment house until they nearly pinched me for loitering. . . . And I used to make up lists of things you remind me of. Things like opals, the wind, and white birch trees under the moon, and castanets, and champagne in a silver goblet. 'The kind of a woman men think of with a little corner of their minds when they're kissing their wives'—that was one line I remember. Silly or not?" he finished, laughing. "A fellow all goofy with loving somebody is certainly a pitiful object."

"That's not silly," Yvonne said. "It's beautiful. It's the most beautiful thing that's been said to me in ages, because—well, because you mean it, don't you."

Real Estate Bonds.
Standard Oil's Fight.
Little Trained Doggies.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

MR. OTTINGER, attorney general of New York state, sets a good example to officials in other states by his effort to protect public investments, including investments in bonds on real estate. Like every other security, real estate mortgage bonds depend for their value largely on the character and record of those back of them.

THERE are real estate bond houses that stand as high in security and usefulness as any financial institution in the country. One real estate mortgage bond house, in business for half a century without loss of a penny in principal or interest to any customer, has established a record that other institutions might envy and emulate.

WHILE some great railroads like the New Haven and a half a dozen others, to say nothing of New York's fraudulently managed street car and subway system, have gone down to reorganization, ruining thousands, buyers of real estate bonds have combined absolute security with a high return on their money.

IF ANY concern in the field of real estate bonds is weak or unsafe, the attorney general will discover it and give the people the facts. He will not, however, allow interference with or arouse distrust in a great business that has produced two most important results.

It has given the people housing and business facilities needed at a time when old-fashioned lending agencies were practically inactive. It has promoted with widespread building high wages and constant employment for mechanics.

A WAY will be found to weed out any weak or unsound concern, without taking any action that would disturb those whose savings are safely invested or that would check building enterprises and put mechanics out of work.

TO PROTECT public investments is the first duty. To protect constructive, sound financial agencies and to protect public confidence is almost as important.

THERE is a gasoline fight in California and some companies are slashing prices. Standard Oil of California makes its modern, intelligent fight with advertising.

It buys full pages in type an inch high in the daily newspapers, announcing the best gasoline. Spending on wise advertising a small part of the money it would lose in a price-cutting war, Standard Oil of Califor-

The purpose is to prevent accidents among the crowd of baseball fans who will watch the reproduction of the classic, play by play, on the Review-Tribune's Star Ball Player in front of the Washington street building.

W. A. Weaver is Chairman of Advisory Committee Named to Arrange for District Canvass.

W. H. VODREY WILL DIRECT CAMPAIGN

Movement is Endorsed by Two Clubs, Legion, Vets, Ministerial Association and Other City Organizations.

A campaign for $10,000 to finance the relief activities of the Salvation Army during the 20-month period from March, 1926, to November, 1927, will be conducted in East Liverpool within the next two weeks, it was announced today.

The drive, according to tentative plans of the advisory board, will be a one-day affair, opening one evening and closing the next.

Drive Officers Named.

Arrangements for the canvass are being made by W. A. Weaver, wholesale grocer, chairman of the advisory committee. Attorney W. H. Vodrey probably will be campaign chairman, while W. E. Dunlap, cashier of the First National Bank, will be treasurer of the fund. One hundred workers will be enrolled.

Endorsement of the plan has been voted by the Lions and Kiwanis clubs, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ministerial association and other organizations.

The Salvation Army budget calls for $6,700 annually for relief work. The organization is said to be about $1,500 in debt for mercy activities.

Subscriptions will be accepted in cash or pledges.

43 SNATCHED FROM JAWS OF DEATH HAPPY

PROBE DEMANDED

Trapped Workers Divided Lunches and Made Birch Tea.

BY HOWARD G. MAYER.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 30.—With their grim experience a fast waning memory the 43 men rescued from the G. Pabst mine here late last night were regaining their strength and returning to their loved ones today.

Only two were in a serious condition although there is no doubt in the minds of attending physicians that they will recover. They are Thomas Trewartha, stout-hearted shift boss, and Mat Stulich.

And Ironwood, its tears and cheers of last night already forgotten, has returned to its normal state of complacency and iron mining. There are murmurings of an investigation into the collapse of the hanging wall of the G. Pabst mine, but as yet no action in this direction has been undertaken.

John B. Chapple, managing editor of the Ashland Daily Press, has announced that he has called on state and federal agencies to make a sweeping inquiry into the condition of the wrecked shaft.

Stories of Harrowing Experience.

But the men who were held in their subterranean prison 727 feet below the surface of the ground are not interested in investigations. They are resting on cots in the Grandview hospital, telling some of the episodes of their harrowing experience.

City Board Decrees 65-Degree Temperature In All Theatres

Theatres, assembly halls and other places of public meetings must be heated to a temperature of not less than 65 degrees during the winter, the board of health ordered at its meeting in the clinic rooms in the Diamond last evening.

Board members declared that colds which often develop into influenza and pneumonia, are easily contracted in auditoriums which are not heated sufficiently. The board authorized the purchase of two thermometers which will be used by health board officials in testing the temperature of buildings.

The board also objected to the practice of closing the municipal incinerator at 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Peter Milliron, collector, has

FISHERMEN DIE AS 150 BOATS GO TO BOTTOM OF CHINA SEA

VERA CRUZ TOLL

Only Two Lives are Exacted by Hurricane in Mexican City.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A Central News dispatch from Hongkong today stated that two thousand Chinese fishermen were drowned and 150 fishing junks destroyed by a typhoon which swept the China sea on Monday. The storm missed Hongkong by a narrow margin.

Steamers coming into Hongkong reported that they had picked up numerous fisherman found clinging to their wrecked craft.

The Chinese were so thick in the raging sea that one steamer launched its lifeboats ten times to bring aboard loads of battered and half drowned survivors.

Disturbance Moves Northwest.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — The tropical disturbance between Bermuda and the Bahamas is probably moving slowly northwest or westward, the weather bureau announced today. The storm likely is to moderate in intensity.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 30.—After withstanding the worst tropical hurricane experienced here in the past 25 years, Vera Cruz and the surrounding country today hung out the "business as usual" sign and took stock of its losses.

Through some miracle only two lives were lost when the 90-mile wind swept in from sea, as far is now known, but property damage is extremely heavy. More casualties may be reported from the back country in the Jalapa area, which was also affected.

Charged with cutting Antonio Venkaskie, of Salineville, on August 13, last, with intent to kill, John Sheckler, of Third street, was arrested here yesterday afternoon by Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Lawrence Kindsvatter, of Lisbon.

He was taken into custody after he had returned from an eastern trip.

A secret indictment had been returned by the grand jury against Sheckler. His alleged victim was slashed across the left side of the face.

After the allegeed cutting scrape, Sheckler, police say, went to Pittsburgh, and, after remaining there a few days, continued to the east, visiting New York and other eastern cities.

When the report of the grand jury was published and Sheckler's name was missing from the list of those indicted, Sheckler, police believe, was informed "there was nothing against him" and he returned to Wellsville.

There are six Wellsville Italians now in the county jail. Beside Sheckler, they are: Nick Scaccuto, charged with murder in the first degree in the death of Patrolman James Kenny; Joseph Fusco, charged with the murder of Kenney, whose case has been continued by the grand jury; Rocco Carbicella and Frank Fusco, charged with bribery, and John DeSarrio, charged with obtaining $1,300 under false pretense.

Defective Switch Blamed for Wreck Which Killed Seven

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—A defective switch was responsible for the derailment of a passenger train on the Long Island railroad at Calveron, N. Y., on Aug. 13, resulting in the death of seven persons and the injury of 28 others, according to findings made public today by the interstate commerce commission. Section Foreman Dinizo was held primarily responsible for the defective condition of the switch.

An investigation made by the bureau of safety disclosed hat nails were used in place of cotton pins in the switch. The commission directed that immediate steps be taken to correct this situation.

A Good Winter

Autumn is usually looked forward to as a time for business to "pick up" after the normal summer dullness. This year, strangely, there has been no summer dullness. Yet there is a natural intensification of industry and trade with the ending of the vacation season and the coming on of colder weather and the marketing of crops, so that business is still further improved.

Wherefore it happens, as a leading business expert observes, that the fall season begins with business, as a whole, "at the high mark of its history."

This is the literal truth. Some industries, steel for instance, reached higher peaks during the war. But our industry and trade as a whole are greater in volume now than they ever were before. Industrial production, freight movements, bank clearings, etc., all show it.

More notable still is the fact that, judged by all ordinary standards, there are no recognizable signs of any approaching recession from this high level.

During previous boom periods—and by the way, nobody calls this present situation a boom—there were always certain warnings of approaching change, for the wise to read. Goods piled up, prices rose rapidly, interest rates soared, there were traffic blockades, factories were clogged with orders for future delivery etc. It is well remembered how these phenomena were present in the high business tide of 1920, just before it turned.

Now they are absent. Goods move quickly and smoothly from factory to consumer. The country, with production continuing on a huge scale, consumes as it produces. Capital is plentiful without inflation. Nothing jams anywhere. Nothing creaks. Nothing breaks down. Harvests are good, foreign trade is good, the trade balance is good, employment is good, there is little or no political disturbance. The foreign situation is reassuring.

The country seems set for the best winter of its history, with no clouds on the horizon.

The Good Houses Stood

"While the loss of life entailed in Florida is most unfortunate and regrettable our information is that buildings erected under modern methods of architectural design and construction have withstood the tempest in admirable shape, the damage beng local, such as plate glass and that class of damage.

"Temporary buildings of flimsy construction were seriously damaged, together with hundreds of automobile camps composed of crib and canvas construction and the innumerable little booths that line the various roads in Florida."

This proves to be the case in every wind disaster of late. When a tornado struck Lorain, O., two or three years ago, all the old rookeries which made that city hideous were reduced to heaps of bricks and splinters. The good new buildings remained good and new. In the long run, the city was immensely benefited by the swift disappearance of the unsafe and ugly stuff.

Florida was full of flimsy buildings, as so many places are where winter is unknown. It is these which have been blown into toothpicks. If the builders of the present will learn a lesson from the mistakes of the past, the new Florida may greet the arrival of future hurricanes not with smiles, because a hurricane is never a smiling matter, but with a serene confidence in the soundness of its structures.

Dancing And School

A Roumanian school girl, 12 years old, has brought suit against her school for $2,500, on the ground that by suspending her for one year they have lengthened by that much the part of her life that has to be spent in school, and have thus delayed the opening of her public career. She believes she would be able to earn the $2,500 in one year as a public dancer.

The school, it seems, suspended her for a year because she gave a public exhibition of her dancing ability.

It's a queer kink in school history. If Judith Pal should win her suit, would other parents and guardians in numbers be enabled to sue schools when, for what they deem good and sufficient reasons, they suspend students or expel them? On the other hand, was suspension for a year really the wise thing to do in this case—would it not lead to more of what the school deprecated?

Yet is there not something to be said for a school which considers childhood sufficiently sacred to need protection from the temptation to earn money in any such public and unchildlike manner?

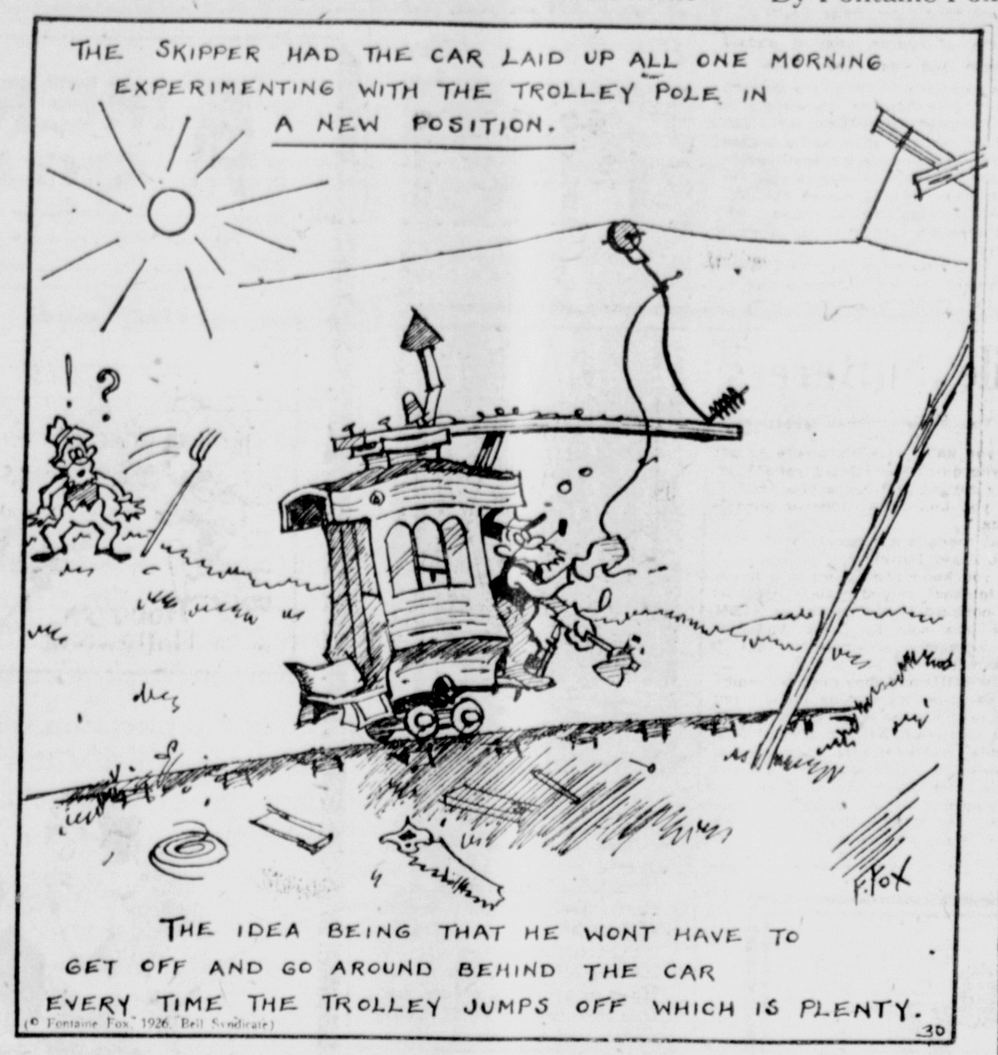

Seeing History

That's a fine idea to make moving picture records of historical events as they occur, and file the films in the congressional library for future use.

If this arrangement is worked out adequately, history will be a much more interesting study for our grandchildren than it has been for most of us.

It will be, to the child of the future, as it would with us today if we were able to step into any public library and say, "Please show me the 'Surrender of Cornwallis,'" or "I came to consult the 'Inauguration of Abraham Lincoln,'" and then take a seat in a convenient room while an attendant ran off the film.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Those nimble young men who dance attendance on middle-aged women— for a consideration—seem more plentiful than ever along the Big Trail. Their origin is invariably lowly. They usually began calling cabs or hopping bells.

And they reach mid-channel with a superficial luster that appears to fascinate wives who think they are neglected because their husbands work all day. The gigolo is a good looking fellow in the glossily perfumed manner of his breed.

In night clubs he has the way of a gallant cavalier. He showers those little chivalric gestures that husbands so often forget. He dances divinely and his glance never strays from his companion. The better sort—if there is such a classification—are not particularly dangerous.

They are merely in the Manhattan manner following "the easiest way." Straying wives feel they are quite safe in the chaperonage and the slimy trail of blackmail does not lead to their doors. In exchange the gigolo is able to live and clothe himself well.

Their expenses are often paid to the fashionable resorts where they continue the role of the harmless fop—shunned by self respecting males but agreeably accepted by idle and lone women. The gigolo has often reversed the copy-book formulas.

He does not always come to an inglorious end. Three have married beautiful heiresses and are luxuriating in European capitals. But those not so fortunate come to a full stop when youth vanishes for the job of being a gigolo depends entirely on youth.

One of those literary impostors has selected as his latest victim Richard Connell and the young Connecticut magazine writer finds he has been addressing literary clubs, making love to various love-lorn maidens, cashing spurious checks and generally carrying on. Every literary celebrity faces this embarrassment. Adventurers have succeeded in impersonating Jack London, Sinclair Lewis and a dozen others successfully. And quite profitably. Cosmo Hamilton once called on a man who had been impersonating the novelist for a year. In this instance the faker was a fellow of wealth and his deception was purely for what social prestige he might gain.

R. H. Davis, the magazine editor, known the world over as Bob Davis, was an innocent literary impersonator once in Chicago. A gentleman called and asked if he was R. H. Davis. He said he was and it was explained a group of literary folk wanted to give him a dinner that evening. He accepted. The toastmaster arose and said he took great pleasure in introducing the guest of honor—Richard Harding Davis.

Overheard at a supper club: "If you pull the old one that you are not understood at home I'll scream."

In other years the man who reached McGowan's Pass Tavern in Central Park first during a snow-storm in a sleigh was presented with a magnum of champagne and got his pictures in all the newspapers. It was one of the important stunts of the year. At the first fall of snow scores would have their bob sleds hitched for hours and ready to be off from all part of the town.

In those days, of course, there were no traffic rules save those painted signs which said "Drive Slowly." The dare-devils who drove lickety-split up Fifth Avenue would declare their horses were running away, and if they did not get away with it, were fined $1.

WAR UPON THE REPTILES

Barney Bernard tells me that his two friends, Cohan and Shapinsky, who retired from the white-goods business to devote themselves to lives of leisure have again been playing golf.

It seems that Mr. Shapinsky sliced his drive and the ball, flying off at tangent, descended in a bunker. Over the parapet of the bunker there same to the ears of the waiting Mr. Cohan muffled sounds as Mr. Shapinsky with his niblick dug into the sand.

"Vell," he said, "not so bad, huh? It only took me three strokes to get out of that pit."

"Vat do you mean three strokes?" demanded Mr. Cohan. "Myself I stood here and counted und I distinctly heard you hit the ground mit your iron nine times."

"Oh," said Mr. Shapinsky, "I vas killing a snake."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Ritchie's Bid For Presidency.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.—Governor Albert C. Ritchie's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928 is found in the platform which the Democrats of Maryland have adopted for the state campaign of this year. The platform does not formally present Ritchie as a candidate for White House honors, but it is no secret that the Governor wrote or approved what he regarded as the important planks of the document and copies of it are being circulated widely in a fashion that is the equivalent of the announcement of a candidacy.

The political doctrine upon which the Democratic party in National Convention assembled will be asked to accept the Maryland leader emphasizes, as the vital needs of the United States, tolerance, personal liberty, state's rights and state responsibility, and the amendment of the Volstead Law so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine.

Of particular interest is the pronouncement on the prohibition issue, because it states clearly and unequivocally what Governor Ritchie would do if he were running the United States and could persuade Congress to his point of view, and because he is the first of the presidential possibilities of his party to be definitely and finally committed on this question.

Governor Al Smith, of New York, is well known as a wet, but as yet no one knows precisely what he would do about the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law. William G. McAdoo is popularly rated a dry, but it is not to record just where he stands on the constitutional addendum and the law under which it is supposed to be enforced. He has declared loudly for law enforcement, but so has every other candidate for the Presidency. Declarations of that sort are to be expected and there is no more news in them than in the casual event of a dog's having bitten a man. Should a man bite a dog, however, or should a presidential aspirant declare that he believed the prohibition law, or any other law, should not be enforced that would be news.

Ohio Candidate Is Damp.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, who is undertaking to stage a senatorial come-back, and who will probably be presented to the next Democratic National Convention as the favorite son of Ohio Democracy, is rated a wet, just as McAdoo is rated a dry, and he may be just as much of a wet as the former Secretary of the Treasury is dry. But the voters of the country who want to know exactly where Pomerene stands on this issue can only gather from the data available to date that he is at least slightly damp, if not positively wet, but that he may show up with a few dry spots of freckles on his political anatomy.

Senator "Jim" Reed, of Missouri, whose presidential stock has taken a recent and decided upward turn, according to Washington wise-acres, likewise is popularly regarded as wet. However, while he may feel keenly on the subject, apparently he does not think there is anything to be done about it, for with al his oportunities in the Senate he has never introduced a bill to repeal, amend, or strengthen the Volstead Law. Probably if he undertook to work out a legislative panacea for present-day prohibition ills he would offer a measure to abolish the Anti-Saloon League, for he has made it indubitably clear that he does not like that organization or a hair on the head of its Washington spokesman, Wayne B. Wheeler.

There are other Democratic presidential possibilities, of course—perhaps the big figure in the 1928 picture has not even been mentioned as yet—but Ritchie, of Maryland, is the first one to take the public into his confidence to the extent of outlining his platform. In this respect, at least, he is out in front just as he was in his public discussions of prohibition and other issues, he having been the first of Democracy's candidates for the Presidency to go up and down the land making speeches that revealed his views thereon. In fact, the only man who may be said to have beaten him to a formal declaration on the prohibition issue is a Republican, Senator James W. Wadsworth, of New York, who some months ago came out with a statement committing himself to the Quebec plan of dealing with the liquor problem—government control and sale, with no proscription of whisky and no particular favors for beer and light wines.

What Ritchie Would Do.

Governor Ritchie's solution of the problem as to whether we must continue to carry it on the hip or be able to get it legally is to have Congress take steps toward the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, in order that each State may then decide what it wants to do about prohibition, and, pending that action, to have Congress amend the Volstead Act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wine where permitted by local law. Moreover, the Maryland statesman who has his eyes on the desirable residence at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D. C., does not believe that the States should assist in the enforcement of the federal prohibition law.

"As long as the Eighteenth Amendment is part of the Constitution we recognize, of course, that it should be upheld and respected," says the Ritchie platform. "We are forced, however, to realize that the existence of the Volstead Act has caused a disregard for law and order and a degree of actual lawlessness unparalleled in this country. Particularly is this the case in those States where the Volstead Act, lacking popular support, has nevertheless been enacted as a state measure.

"As long, therefore, as the Federal Government elects to interpret and enforce the Eighteenth Amendment in Maryland through th Volstead Act, we feel that the responsibility for such an enforcement should rest on the Federal Government alone."

In the matter of toleration, liberty, and state responsibilitly the Ritchie platform points with pride to the fact that almost three centuries ago the province of Maryland established in the new world three vital and enduring principles — religious toleration and freedom, the right of the individual to pursue his own happiness and enterprise in his own way so long as he does not interfere with the like rights of others or the sanctions of society, and the idea of a self-governing State, free and obligated to settle its local problems as its people will.

"It was the challenge for those things which in an age of intolerance and suppression made men free," says the Maryland pronouncement. "It is the same challenge which still demands that the people of each State, as their American birthright, shall have the right to educate and raise their own children, determine their own lives and happiness and enterprises, and otherwise settle and regulate their own affairs, subject only to the laws of their respective States, and without control by the Federal Government or by any one or all of the other States of the Union."

The Rev. William M. Lee.

Once the personal servant of General Robert E. Lee, now one of the most inspiring of negro orators and preachers. Such is William M. Lee, who is touring the country raising funds for the building of a new negro church. He is seen wearing his old master's coat, covered with honorary medals and mementoes.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years An Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Med. Store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back.

'Musical Skallywags' Head Metropolitan Bill At Ceramic

Roger Wayne Fawn and his "Musical Skallywags," assisted by Jean Huston, "vaudeville's syncopated sweetheart," top the vaudeville-motion picture bill at the Ceramic theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

This melange of music and dancing—an unusual act of youth, personality and jazz—will be featured in connection with a high-class screen program, headed by "Mantrap," a love drama of the North Land.

Ernest Torrence, Clara Bow and Percy Marmont are co-stars of the picturization of Sinclair Lewis' story.

"Mantrap" is an unusually brilliant, half-humorous triangle story of a trader in the Canadian woods (Ernest Torrence), a New York lawyer, tired of women because they form his principal clients in fashionable divorce cases, (Percy Marmont), and a manicure girl from Minneapolis, who has married and gone to live at a Canadian woods trading post and who finds life pretty boring—(Clara Bow). There is also a "Babbitt" manufacturer, a "know-it-all" camper, (Eugene Pallette) who will delight the hearts of all campers who may have met this pest while on a camping expedition.

TEARLE STARS AT AMERICAN

Racing Horses Stake in Picture, "Sporting Lover."

A stable of thoroughbred racing horses is the unusual gambling stake offered by Conway Tearle in the starring role of "The Sporting Lover," now showing at the American theatre here.

Tearle appears in the role of an Irish nobleman who gambles away his inheritance. His pride is his stable of fine horses. As a last resort he offers them in a sporting chance to retrieve his fortune. But luck is against him and he loses all.

The story of "The Sporting Lover" is based on the famous Drury Lane stage hit, "Good Luck." E. M. Asher presents it through First National.

War scenes in "The Sporting Lover" show the bombing of a military hospital and an air raid. Tearle, who just completed a role as an officer in June Mathis' master film, "The Greater Glory," dons uniform once more in "The Sporting Lover."

USED CARS BOUGHT AND SOLD

To The People Of East Liverpool

Some days ago we announced to the public that we would close our East Liverpool branch and offer the entire stock at sacrifice prices including the fixtures of our store. A large number of people took advantage of the great sale and many beautiful instruments were sold.

It has just come to our notice that some unscrupulous persons have circulated the story that we were going out of the piano business and that any pianos or players purchased at this sale would not be guaranteed and would not receive any attention, such as free tuning, adjusting, etc. In other words if you purchased at this time, you would run a great risk.

In justice to ourselves and our high standing in the musical world, we wish to brand these statements as entirely false and to assure the public of this city that every instrument sold will be thoroughly guaranteed and will receive the same attention as to care and service as heretofore, as we have an investment of over one-quarter million of dollars in East Liverpool and vicinity and our interest will have to be looked after.

We are not going out of the piano business, BUT SIMPLY CLOSING OUR EAST LIVERPOOL BRANCH, and this territory will be looked after from our Wheeling store. We have been in business in this city for a good many years and trust we have the confidence of the people to such an extent that they will not be influenced by any such stories as have been circulated.

During the history of our business career, it has been our policy to carry only instruments of the highest standing and such pianos and players as Knabe, Krakauer, Schiller, Milton, Baus, Haines Bros. together with the famous AMPICO are too well known and have been on the market too long for any comment.

We will continue to offer every piano and player in our store at the lowest prices ever known and if there is a person in this city that wants an instrument, we advise you to purchase now. THE STOCK MUST BE SOLD AT SOME PRICE and we will not refuse anything in the line of price that is within the bounds of reason.

We have sold hundreds of musical instruments to the finest homes in the City and we are just egotistical enough to think we enjoy the confidence of the public at large.

Respectfully,

DAVIS, BURKHAM & TYLER CO.

BAR NO HOLDS IN NEW YORK'S BITTER FIGHT

Mills and Smith Will Ask no Quarter.

Battle Holds Destinies of Presidential Possibilities.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The off-year political battle in New York this year, which holds the destinies of one, possibly two, presidential possibilities, gave promise today of being the hardest fought in a generation.

The colorful personalities involved and the circumstances attending both the Republican and Democratic state conventions, just concluded, have made this a recognized certainty. For five weeks it is to be a slam-bang fight, with no holds barred, and no quarter asked or given.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, who accepted the task of opposing "Al" Smith's thrust at a fourth term as governor, supplied the incentive for the Republican effort.

Democrats Confident.

"If Tammany goes back to Albany this year with two billions of dollars to spend and the state government to reorganize in the next two years, you will not oust Tammany from Albany in this generation," he warned. There were many who believed his words.

To which the Democrats reply:

"We must re-elect Al this year, or relinquish all hope of ever seeing him in the White House."

These are the spurs. Thus the issues have been drawn. It will be a hot and bitter fight. That much is conceded on all sides.

Wagner Opposes Wadsworth.

The Democrats now have put up to oppose Wadsworth one of Gov. Smith's closest personal friends, Justice Robert F. Wagner. With the governor Justice Wagner enjoys the distinction in Fourteenth street of being one of Tammany's favorite children. He accepted the nomination only on the condition that the organization "go down the line" for him, from top to bottom. Smith gave him that personal pledge.

Thus irrespective of whether there has been trading in the past, it seemed certain today there will be little, if any, this year.

Gov. Smith himself gave open recognition to this state of affairs when he told the delegates at Syracuse from the platform:

"I'm going to talk plainly.

"There has been a good deal of talk that Jim won't do anything to hurt Al and that Al won't do anything to hurt Jim.

"I have a great deal of respect for the senior senator from New York, but I don't care to see him remain any longer in the senate because he does not, in my opinion, fairly represent the progressive thought of this state. Our political thoughts are as far apart as the poles."

The wet and dry fight, which centers around the referendum ordered by the legislature, is but an added complication to this interesting struggle of personalities.

Naval Dirigible Plans Flight to Youngstown Oct. 11

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 30.—The first extensive inland flight of a naval dirigible, since the tragic trip of the Shenandoah last year, will be made when the Los Angeles is flown here from Lakehurst, N. J., October 11 to participate in the opening of the municipal air port, city officials announced today.

Ceremonies in connection with the inauguration are expected to attract aeronautical men from all parts of the country. Army and navy pilots already have been ordered to participate in maneuvers.

Less Foreign Butter Eaten.

Less butter is imported into the United States today than a year or so ago. During the first half of 1924 there were 16,965,773 pounds brought into the United States, but in the same period of 1926 only 3,978,568 pounds were imported.

TWO DOCTORS ARE CALLED BY JACK DEMPSEY

STAFF SILENT

Camp Attache Admits Mystification About Boxer's Illness.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. — Although the greatest secrecy prevailed, it became known today that two physicians were in attendance on Jack Dempsey at his suite at the Hotel Belmont this morning.

No member of the ex-champion's staff would admit that he was ill, neither would any one deny it. However, it is known that one physician was called in early this morning to attend Dempsey and that later another was summoned for a consultation. The former champion has not left his quarters since coming to New York from Atlantic City two nights ago.

Dempsey had gone to the resort following the stunning defeat he sustained at Philadelphia last Thursday when Gene Tunney lifted the world's heavyweight title. Beyond swollen and battered eyes, the dethroned champion apparently left the ring in good shape but his actions within the ropes were subjected to considerable comment.

Rumor of $20,000 Bet.

His listlessness might have been attributed to advancing years or overtraining but no one could explain why he continued a labored blinking of his eyes between rounds, before the optics were damaged, nor why he blew gustily through his lips like a man coming up from under water. This was a gesture of some sort. He was not breathing heavily from his exertions.

An attache of his camp expressed complete mystification today concerning the nature of the ex-champion's trouble.

"He's got all of us guessing," this man said. "He hasn't been right since the fight and no one apparently knows what it is all about. Jack can't keep any food on his stomach and that rash under his arm pits is another mystery."

This man requested that his name be withheld because Dempsey feared more than anything else that he would be accused of offering an alibi for his defeat.

There was a rumor around town today that a famous gambler had wagered $200,000 on Tunney around 6 o'clock on the night of the fight.

43 Men Saved

Jacob Luoma, the father of nine children, has a ready smile as he tells of the underground prison.

"I guess we could have stood it another week," he says.

"It wasn't so bad. We were afraid that no one would reach us until it was too late.

"We felt pretty safe. After the first slide we got busy and blocked up the shaft with timbers so that no mere falling rock could clog up in it.

"Some of the men had their lunches left so we divided them, then Joe Anderson showed us how to strip birch bark from some of the log supports. I smoked it and it wasn't so bad. We made some tea from the bark and that helped brace us up a lot.

"The water got into our shoes after a while and some of the men got pretty cold feet. They took off their shoes and wrapped their feet in pieces of blankets which we found in the safety box.

Three Bereaved Families.

Mike Dedera, husky and beaming, was happy to be able to see daylight again.

"To come up from down there—it was just like Jesus going up from the earth," was Mike's exultant description of the rescue.

At the side of Joseph Smith sat his wife.

"Now I can sleep again," she told her husband. "For five nights I have walked up and down in the house waiting for you and now I am glad you are back."

"The baby did not want to go to school," she added. "She said she could not do her school work while her daddy was down there."

A number of the wives who keep vigil at the hospital now instead of at the mine shaft cannot speak English.

Mrs. John Kozala, her baby in her arms, converses in Polish with her husband.

"What does she say?" he repeats. "She says she is happy."

Everybody here, with the exception of the bereaved families of the three men who lost their lives when the cage was hurtled into the bottom of the G shaft, is happy.

GOOD HEALTH HIS ONLY CAPITAL

This is true of many working men, (and women also) dogged with a haunting fear of ill-health and helplessness. Wm. F. Lagle, Anderson, Ind., heeds nature's warning sign of pain and acts promptly: "When my back hurts and an irregular flow warns me of coming trouble, I take Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys. They give me quick results." A reliable, valuable medicine, constantly in use over 25 years. Satisfaction guaranteed. Cost little. Sold everywhere. Ask for Foley Pills, diuretic.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Industrial stocks displayed the effects of nervousness and unsettlement in early trading today. The market was inclined to ignore such favorable factors as the increase in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad dividend and the railroad traffic report for the week of Sept. 18, in which the largest number of revenue freight cars were moved in the whole history of American transportation.

Major interest in the financial district was concentrated on the money market.

Freight car loadings in the week of Sept. 18 reached the unprecedented total of 1,187,011 cars, continuing the amazing record of commodity transportation which started in mid-August. The increase in Baltimore and Ohio's dividend to 6 per cent was an encouraging factor, as also are the current earnings reports now being published. Railroad stocks were dull and heavy today, with prices generally lower.

Radio, Warner Brothers and other specialty stocks continued to advance, while the oil, copper, equipment, motor and industrial stock generally showed the effects of heavy selling pressure. Standard Oil of New Jersey continued to exhibit unusual weakness, while Sinclair made further recovery from yesterday's low levels. Officials of the company stated that the Sinclair company could not be affected by the Teapot Dome decision, and that current earnings were very favorable.

URGES W. C. T. U. TO KEEP CHECK ON RUM CASES

Mrs. Stella Stimson Speaks at Los Angeles Meet.

SIT IN COURT

"Unostentatious Pressure" Incentive to Law Enforcement.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—A nation-wide organization of women, "quiet, courteous and observing," to sit daily in all criminal courts to watch court procedure, especially in prohibition cases and thus check if adequate punishment is meted out to bootleggers and rum runners, was recommended to the W. C. T. U. national convention here today by Mrs. Stella Stimson, in charge of the department of Christian citizenship.

Mrs. Stimson declared that this "unostentatious pressure" was already applied in hundreds of cities throughout the country and proved a great incentive to proper law enforcement.

Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost, director of legislation, with headquarters in Washington, reminded the delegates today that 35 seats will be filled in the senate. "Indications are that eight of the present candidates will be wet, but even this will not reduce the large dry majority."

In the house of representatives only 12 of the 44 new candidates are known to be wet, Mrs. Yost declared, "but it does not follow that these 12 are going to be elected in November."

Important liquor legislation is pending in congress, according to the Washington director, the chief bills being the measure to place prohibition agents under civil service, and the Goff bill to "put teeth into the Volstead Act."

Election of national oficers for the ensuing year was the most important business scheduled for the day.

KIWANIS HEARS REV. R. W. USTICK

Pastor Speaks on Underprivileged Child Movement.

The duty of Kiwanis in the underprivileged child movement was discussed by Rev. R. W. Ustick, Wellsville, lieutenant-governor of the sixth Ohio division, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the local club in Larkins' annex, Market street, today. His subject was: "Are We, As Kiwanians Doing Our Duty in the Under-Privileged Child Movement?"

Clarence Cline presided. New songs were introduced by Prof. H. F. Laughlin, club "pep-maker," who led the chorus singing with Claire Chambers as accompanist.

H. D. Arnold, Leetonia publisher and Kiwanian, and a former resident of this city, was a guest. Dr. George L. Lewis, club trustee, who attended the district convention at Columbus last week, gave a few sidelights on his trip.

Rev. Mr. Ustick discussed the six objectives of Kiwanis International during the present year, but stressed the point referring to the work among underprivileged children. He asserted that the "big brother" movement, which many clubs have taken up as a means of assisting boys, is in line with the underprivileged child service.

"These boys represent the future citizenship of our nation and we are not fulfilling our duties as Kiwanians if we fail to show an interest in their welfare," he said. "We, as individual members, should extend a helping hand to the individual boy or girl."

The speaker also expressed his gratification over the resumption of athletic relations between the Wellsville and East Liverpool High schools, accomplished at a recent conference between the two school boards.

of its proper coal loading facilities for several months at least.

Wind of Freakish Nature.

Today the waters which covered the streets to a depth of as much as six feet in places, were subsiding, and the heat was extremely oppressive.

Portions of the harbor are still blocked by sunken coastal vessels which were capsized by the wind.

The wind was of a freakish nature. Next to a house without any roof, and with its wall blown in, stood another building with windows intact, apparently untouched by the gale. Trees were cut off as if by a knife.

Tremendous losses have been suffered by the destruction of whole areas of corn, sugar cane and banana plantations.

The force of the driving wind may be imagined from the fact that there were two inches of water in the library of the American consulate, which is on the second floor.

Ceramic City Bed Quilt Wins Honors At Michigan Fair

Mrs. George Martin, 621 Minerva street, today was advised that a bed quilt which she entered in the Michigan state fair at Detroit during the week of September 13-18, had been awarded first honors in the women's home work and beauty department.

The quilt is a unique design of emblems used in the several branches of the Masonic lodge and its allied organizations. The background is white while the figures are in multi-colored. She spent more than a year in making the covering.

Mrs. Martin will display the quilt in a downtown store following its return from Detroit.

Coats In Many Colors.

Large Brimmed Hats.

The coats are mostly set off with black fur. A red cloth coat by Lanvin Fourrures is trimmed with black shaved lamb, the gauntlet cuffs being attached to a tiny muff instead of to the sleeves. Many tiered and dolman effects are seen both in the cloth as well as the fur coats while the fur-lined coat is very much in vogue.

Tunic themes are conspicuous in afternoon frocks, the materials being of georgette, carmel crepe and satin-black crepe. Silver and gold embroidery, beads and brilliant buttons are used as trimming, while many pleasing effects with right-angle and horizontal tucking are displayed. The bat-wing sleeves and the blouse back are the new features in the dress. A chanel red gown has bat-wing sleeves, bloused back, which is loose from the gown and lined with gold crepe, which also forms the cuffs. Long sleeves predominate.

Touch of Mannishness.

A piquant touch of mannishness is very smart even in the most feminine of fashions. It is used in one cape coat of black and white plaid woolen. Black velvet collars, cuffs and pocket headings give the touch to this coat. It is an imported model by Simonin.

Since coat lines in themselves have changed so little this season it is in details that the distinctive points of the new coats are stamped. Sleeves are one of the features that most easily admit of variation. New methods of sleeve trimming show the new fur armlet, varied types of pirate cuff and the fur puff or half sleeve.

The chief demand in color reported by the coat department of one prominent store is for brown in all the wood shades, such as tan bark and sandalwood.

Most of the coats displayed are made of suede fabrics in these shades. The fur is frequently of a harmonizing brown shade. The straightline prevails, although many coats show the modified blouse either across the back or over the hips.

A coat that is reported to be receiving much attention thus far in the season, is made of sandelwood suede trimmed with beaver fur, and shows a slight blouse made by inverted tucks over the hips.

Evening Wear Styles.

Far from dying out, the fad for the full skirt and tight fitting bodice for evening wear continues gaily into the new season. And not all frocks of this type are alike. They differ as much as do their wearers. Some are queenly—stressing the stately and dignified. Some are quaint and piquant, and these latter, especially become the more youthful members of the fair sex.

There are two distinct types and there are many in between. One is the more stately gown fashioned of taffeta in a peppermint green shade. The bodice does not fit as snugly as many and a yokelike effect is achieved at the neckline. Flower decorations are placed on the shoulder.

Many—one might say the majority—of the skirts have uneven hems and this one is no exception to the rule. The exceedingly full skirt is fairly short in front with sides and back that almost touch the floor. The skirt is edged in gold lace which is deeply scalloped. Artificial flowers matching those on the shoulder also trim the skirt.

The youthful, vivacious type of bouffant dress is shown in another type. White georgette and white taffeta are combined in this dress. This skirt, too, is very full, but it is a series of ruffles narrowing in width from the hem to the waist and with a dip toward the front to fit on the pointed front of the bodice. The skirt is made of the georgette.

The quaint little bodies is made of taffeta with a dropped shoulder which a ruffle trims, also doing duty for sleeves—or excuses for such. A wee posy on the right shoulder gives just the final dainty touch.

An extremely smart dress of this type was displayed by one store. It was fashioned of white taffeta with the skirt hand-painted in huge, colorful flowers.

Shoes will match almost any color scheme effected. Chanel red, flag blue and jungle green shoes are featured. The winter footwear will have a trend toward the oxford.

The men's furnishing stores display the latest fads and fancies, from the very smartest of light shades in gray and brown, to the darkest. Top coats and hats to match the suit will be worn. Gaining in favor is the black derby, with which canes will be permissable.

BEREAVED CARDINALS' PILOT ENCOURAGED BY JUDGE LANDIS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Pale, tight-lipped but grimly determined, Rogers Hornsby, bereaved manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, took active charge of his team's workout this morning for the world series, the opening game of which will be played on Saturday. Importuned by his mother from her death bed yesterday to stick with his team that he had piloted so sensationally to St. Louis' first pennant in nearly 40 years, Hornsby appeared more resigned to his unenviable position this morning as the club left for practice at the Yankee stadium.

His morale and fortitude were considerably improved as a result of a night's rest and a late visit from Judge Landis, who encouraged the young manager by recounting a similar dilemma with which he was faced while sitting on the bench of the federal court.

"Rogers," said the judge, patting Hornsby's bowed head. "You did the right thing. I don't say that from a professional consideration but from a personal one.

Goes To Ball Field.

"Once, I was trying one of the most important cases ever to come before me. They brought me word that my mother was stricken, with a message from her to stick with the case. My every instinct was to rush out of the court and go to her. Filial love fought a battle with duty and duty won. My mother realized that this was as it should be. So did yours. She knew that you were a man with a great public responsibility and she would not let you shirk it, painful though it must have been to both of you. Self-sacrifice is perhaps the greatest virtue known to man. I'm glad to see you were big enough to make it."

Hornsby was far from a light-hearted companion when he left for the ball field but his eyes had lost the glitter and his face its drawn appearance of last night. His sorrow was expressed in silence and his men respected both.

LABOR TO SEEK SHORTER WEEK IN INDUSTRY

Ford's Five-day Plan Encourages Move, Says Green.

IDEA OF A. F. L

Chieftain Says Unions Deserve Credit for Principle.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Encouraged by action of Henry Ford in adopting the five-day week, the American Federation of Labor will fight vigorously for a shorter working week in industry, William Green, president, declared today.

Green does not believe that there will be universal acceptance immediately of the five-day week, but he thinks that in a few years employers will realize that with the increased production through time-saving machines, wages will be increased and working hours reduced.

The federation, not Ford, should be given credit for first bringing about the shorter week, Green said.

"Ford seems merely to have accepted the philosophy of the federation in regard to hours, wages and production," Green declared.

Through the federation's activity, the five-day week already has been established in two important trades, printing and fur working, said Green.

"The week now for the day printing trade is 44 hours, or, five and one-half days," Green explained. "In most of the night printing trades, it is 40 hours, or, five days.

"Two months ago, we made agreements whereby the fur working trade has a 40-hour week, or, five days, as Ford has now established.

Do Your Gums Bleed and Recede from the Teeth?

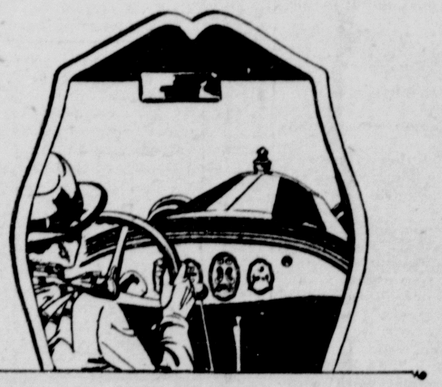

Tender, sore or bleeding gums, or gums fissured or receding from the teeth, indicate DEADLY PYORRHEA—the teeth's worst enemy. The disease first attacks the gums, later the tooth structure. As the gums recede from the teeth, pus pockets are formed, in which toxic poisons develop to be absorbed by the system and become the possible sources of other dangerous diseases. Don't let Pyorrhea endanger your health. The ravages of this terrible disease can be stopped, the gums healed and the poison the system has been absorbing checked, by the use of VINCENT'S PYORRHEA TREATMENT. For further particulars write,

MISSION OPENS HERE SUNDAY

Rev. E. B. Andrews Will Preach in Episcopal Church.

Rev. E. B. Andrews, vice president of the American Guide to Health, an inter-denominational society, will open a mission Sunday morning in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Fourth street and Indiana avenue. The meetings will continue for one week.

The society was organized to restore and reinforce to fuller expression the ministry of healing as an inherent part of the pastoral office of the church. It is said to be the only organization in the United States working in churches and dealing with subjects of religion and health, which is formed on an inter-denominational basis.

It started as an Episcopalian society five years ago but quickly over-leaped denominational barriers. OFFICERS NAMED AT LABOR MEET

Other officers elected included the following: Vice presidents, Mrs. Charles Reilly, Charleston; Fred Stubbs, Monongah; Harry Norrington, Wheeling; R. H. Kidd, Clarksburg, and J. R. Diggs, Fairmont; secretary treasurer, Charles Jarrett, Charleston.

The closing session was featured by the adoption of several additional resolutions, the most important of which was endorsement of the petition drawn up by the United Mine Workers of America calling upon the state legislature to impeach Judge I. Grant Lazzelle, of the circuit court of Monongalia county, for "mal-administration."

The petition referred to was drawn by officials of the United Mine Workers some months ago following the pronouncement of sentence by Judge Lazzelle on a number of miners' officials and members adjudged in contempt of court for activities in connection with the miners' strike in this county.

Death of Hornsbys' Mother May Make St. Louis Victory Sure

Hornsby, Like Pagiliacci, Will Entertain Throngs With Sorrow Laden Heart, and His Team, Thinks Walsh, Can do no Less Than Play Their Fool Heads Off to Help Him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Pagiliacci made them laugh though the smirk of his lips was false and the heart within him died. But they laughed. That, I think, will tell the story of the 1926 world series between the Yankees of New York and the Cardinals of St. Louis. Grim fate took a hand in the proceedings yesterday withe the announcement that Mrs. M. D. Hornsby had died in Austin, Tex., and the news, simple and tragic, probably decided the destiny of an event of national importance.

The writer believes that the death of Mrs. Hornsby, mother of the Cardinal manager, made certain what probably was an impending St. Louis victory. Every indication pointed toward it, in the first place, but the Cards now will go in there with psychology in their favor and a ball club so endowed seldom goes wrong in a world series.

The old Athletics were told the Cubs were unbeatable. They went in there to die gamely. They didn't—they lived and won. The Boston Braves were lashed into a lather over an alleged altercation between stallings and Connie Mack. They went out to avenge a fancied slight and won four straight. The Washington Senators fought to redeem the failure of Walter Johnson and the first thing they knew they had the title on their hands. Pittsburgh found the Senators kidding around and not bearing down in the final games of 1925 and the last rush of the Pirates was too much for any club to sustain.

They had psychology batting in tenth position and the old man never fails.

Uncertainty is Ended.

For the same reason, they laughted at Pagiliacci. He cared not at all whether they laughed or cried and naturally the rest was easy. I think Rogers Hornsby will play great ball in the world series.

The writer saw him enter the lobby of the Hotel Alamac last night, white faced and distrait, to receive the news he waited for, yet dreaded. I think Hornsby will be a better man for knowing that the end has come. Uncertainty is a cancer that gnaws the vitals and makes of the knees a study in rubberized gymnastics. Uncertainty has ceased for Hornsby.

A firm believer in psychology, the writer looks for a new Hornsby to appear at the Yankee stadium for the first game on Saturday, a man who knows the iron has entered his soul. They say Hornsby has no nerves. If that is true, it is probable that Hornsby will be an inspired ball player for this particular series.

As for the rest of the Cards, what else can they do but play their fool heads off for a leader so recently bereaved?

With money in one hand and honor in the other, they should be able to laugh off anything. Pagliacci did it.

"WIN, ROGERS," MOTHER'S WISH

Obeying Her Last Request, Hornsby Will Play in Series.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Torn with anguish by the death of his mother, but unwilling to disregard her dying wishes, Rogers Hornsby will lead his fighting St. Louis Cardinals against the Yankees in the opening game of the world series here Saturday.

Stunned by grief, the brilliant young manager walked the streets with his wife for hours last evening after receiving word from Austin, Texas, that his mother had died. What finally influenced him to stay here for the first two games of the series was his mother's last message which he received over the telephone from relatives. It was:

In another message to Hornsby's wife, the dying woman requested her to stay with Rogers. Hornsby had almost decided to leave for Texas with his wife when he received the news of his mother's death.

"As it is my mother's dying request that I remain with my team until after the series is over, I have decided to carry out her wishes, hard as this will be to me," Hornsby said in making his decision to stay here.

He said his mother's remains would be kept for a funeral after the series is finished.

Hornsby is expected to practice with the Cardinals today. He did not appear on the field yesterday.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

It will be obvious to the golfer that mechanical devices for driving golf balls, devices which hit the balls straight and for great distances, of necessity begin to turn the face of the clubhead away from the ball the instant the clubhead is started back. The clubhead also is always inside the direction line. The mechanical driver is free from the human frailities, but the human makeup has at least one advantage over it, and that advantage is in the wrists. That is, if the mechanical device could have added to it an action parallelling the wrist action the balls driven would go much greater lengths. It doesn't follow, however, that the player should move his club directly back from the ball, as the mechanical device moves. Instead, it is better to keep the face of the club square to the ball for the first six or eight inches and to let the clubhead drag just slightly behind the hands.

CUBS COP FIRST TILT WITH SOX

Root Hurls Nationals to Victory in Series Opener.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Charley Root hurled the Cubs to a 6 to 0 triumph in the opening game of the annual city series with the White Sox at the bruin stronghold yesterday.

The White Sox were unable to solve Root's offerings. He held the Sox to four hits. Red Faber started on the mound for the Sox. The Cubs scored two runs off him in the third, but Berg's wild throw to first messed up a certain double play and put the veteran spitball pitcher in the hole.

Faber retired in the Sox half of the eighth in favor of a pinch hitter, Ray Morehart, and George Connally took the mound for the Sox in their half of the round. Connally ran into considerable trouble and Hollis Thurston was rushed to the rescue. Before he could retire the Cubs, however, they had scored four more runs and clinched the victory.

The scene of activeness will switch to Comiskey Park, the home of the White Sox, today.

The attendance was 14,721, gross receipts $14,070.60. Each club share $2,392, players' pool $7,176, and commissioner's share $2,110.59.

The players' share in the receipts of the first four games, the winners receiving 60 per cent, and the losers 40 per cent.

"I Didn't Marry the Heavyweight Title, I Married Dempsey," Declares Estelle; Has Faith in Hubby's Ability.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—"I didn't marry the heavyweight title—I married Jack Dempsey. Win or lose, he's still champion to me."

Estelle Taylor, film star and wife of the ex-champion, today took occasion to deny not only her advertised opposition to her husband's profession, but to express the hope that he would continue his ring activities if he so desired.

In the Dempsey suite at the Belmont hotel, where Jack is nursing his bruises gained in the late unpleasantness with Mr. Tunney, Estelle, with rather surprising vigor, made her position clear.

"I have never taken an interest in boxing," she said. "Jack didn't bring the ring into his home. I wouldn't know the difference between an uppercut or a lower-cut. But fighting is Jack's business. That is the thing he loves to do, and I have no more right to influence him with regard to it than I would if he was a broker in Wall street.

Will Root for Jack.

"I have the utmost faith in his ability. Failure once doesn't mean failure twice. If he should fight again, I may not be at the ring side—because no woman likes to see her man mauled—but I'll be rooting for him, as every wife roots for her husband in his endeavor.

"Champion or ex-champion—it makes little difference to me. My friends are interested in picture making. His friends are interested in boxing. We keep the two sets apart.

"Now, my friends inquire what my new picture is going to be, and offer me no sympathy because I am an ex-champion's wife. Why should they?

"I am told that Jack had an off-night when he fought Tunney. But I'm not offering alibis any more than he does. I have never said that he'd been doped, or that something had gone wrong at the last minute. I only know that I want him to be happy. If his happiness lies in fighting again, or in promoting fights, or in encouraging the game, I'll say 'God bless you.'

Confident He Would Win.

"Do you think for a moment that I could have married Jack if he was the sort of man who would let a woman change his life for him? The loss of a crown of fame doesn't mean the loss of a person's character.

"Friends remain friends in fair weather and foul. And the hangers-on are better weeded out. Naturally, I am disappointed for Jack's sake that he didn't win. But he has had a happy period of king-ship, and I believe that if he wanted to become champion again, and had another chance at the title, he would win. If, after all the legal battles are fought out in court, and Jack decides that his course shall be towards the crown again — I have no doubt but that he would attain it, as he did the first time."

Jack is resting, talking movie script with his wife, and playing rummy these days.

Morgan Defends Title.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The last bases of the season were tagged when the Braves embalmed the Phillies for the winter by winning both ends of a double header, 7 to 6 and 2 to 1.

Rain deprived the Senators of a chance to tie the Athletics for third place when a scheduled double header at Philadelphia was called off.

Police Seek Boxer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Police today were searching for Frank Leiberman, whose knockout of Joseph Gerrity, 18, in an amateur boxing match resulted in Gerrity's death. When Gerrity struck the canvas he suffered a fracture at the base of the skull and died later in a hospital.

Leiberman left the ring without knowing that Gerrity was in a serious condition.

Ex-champ Considers Plans for Return to Active Work in Ring

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—It was reported today that a formal announcement soon will be forthcoming from the headquarters of Jack Dempsey that the former heavyweight champion will continue his ring career in the hope of getting a return bout with Gene Tunney. This declaration followed a conference yesterday between Dempsey and Tex Rickard, in which the promoter was said to have urged Jack to go back in the ring.

It also was said that he offered Dempsey a proposition whereby he would make his next appearance in Madison Square Garden as the opponent of the winner of a heavyweight elimination series. Harry Wills, negro challenger, is not likely to appear in the series as it was said that a Dempsey-Wills match was too big for an indoor club.

"As a championship fight, I would not touch it," Rickard declared today. "But merely as an elimination contest, I don't think it would occasion much opposition."

However, both Dempsey and Rickard claim to be incensed at Wills for his interference with their recent plans.

LANDIS TO TALK WITH UMPIRES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, is in New York for the world series and will meet tomorrow with four umpires who will officiate at the series. After talking with the umpires Landis will attend to the draft for minor league players.

Judge Landis said the question of permitting the use of a resin bag by the pitchers, upon which the American and National leagues have disagreed, would be ironed out at the meeting of the umpires. This meeting also will be attended by representatives of each contending club.

Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said today that application for reserved seats had climbed 15,000 over the available seating capacity and that all late applications would be returned.

BUCKEYE FIVE HOLDS MEETING

The Buckeye basketball club held its 1926 organization meeting recently at the home of James Wildblood, St. Clair avenue. James Skidmore, president, was in charge. The following officers were elected: James Wildblood, captain; James Skidmore, treasurer; David Flet, president.

The next meeting of the club will be held at William Pusey's home, 203 East Fourth street, Monday, October 11.

START WELTER ELIMINATIONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Mickey Walker-"Shuffle" Callahan fight here Monday night will be the first of a series of elimination contests to select a suitable opponent for Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion. Latzo won the title from Walker several months ago.

GLITTER

BOOK THREE— VII.

He had never loved her more than during the ensuing few minutes in the fraternity house. She sat enthroned on a window seat, her gorgeous coat spread out around her like the background of a painting, her head tilted sideways—and without any visible effort whatever made a dozen blase young collegians her slaves. Her first faint lazy smile from the doorway had caught them, and the tentacles of her beauty and personality held them fast. "I knew it!" Jock gloated secretly "She's knocking 'em cuckoo!" Every admiring glance that fastened on her, every guffaw elicited by things she said, every small compliment added its tithe to his exhilaration.

He said little. Talk effervesced around him, and he stood silent for the most part, looking and listening, and thinking, "Lovelier than ever. She caught a tan in California and it's becoming. Gosh, what a smooth get-up! That white fur. She always looks like a million dollars, anyway. And maybe she doesn't know her groceries! Poise. Says just the right things. Look at Fat Hastings, gawking. Bet he never saw such a girl in his life. Well, who has, for that matter? There never was such a girl! For God's sake, what did I do all these weeks without her? How did I stand it?"...

Suddenly he wanted her alone. Where he could feast his eyes upon her without fear that alien eyes would notice. Where he could take her in his arms. . . He stood up and pulled her with him. "Come on, Yvonne," he said. "Enough of this rabble."

The worthies thus designated were reluctant to let Yvonne go. They voiced protests. Why go? Dull idea, checking out now. Stay to lunch or something. . . But Jock, deaf to their entreaties, and full of the hauteur of enviable proprietorship, bore her in triumph away.

VIII.

"Just drive, Michael. Anywhere. It doesn't matter."

The chauffeur nodded, and the limousine lunged forward, a singing, winged thing. "We'll drive till we find a good inn," Yvonne continued, "and then we'll eat a lot of things—don't you always feel like eating a lot of things, weather like this? — and then we'll drive some more. How does that sound?"

"Too good to be true!" Jock leaned back, letting his body sink into the downy upholstery. "Some boat!" he commented. "Is it new?"

"No, I've had it—about a year."

He scarcely heard her. He had drawn her arm through his, and their faces were almost on a level . . in the intoxication of such proximity he lost interest in the limousine completely. "Now!" he sighed. "I've been waaiting —how many centuries is it?—for this minute." He thought he would kiss her. But it was high noon, and the streets were thickly peopled. . . . He looked away hastily from her red parted lips. "Funny," he mused, "now that it's over, and you're back, I'm just beginning to realize how very much miserable I've been all this time. It was most particular hell, Yvonne."

"Was it? What-all did you do with yourself?"

"Oh—thought about you, and wondered about you, and wrote you poems, and letters that I couldn't send—why didn't you let be have your address, Beautiful?"

Yvonne hesitated, her eyes straying from his. "There's a girl who's trying awfully hard to bow to you," she said, instead of an answer.

"Who was she?" Yvonne asked when hey had passed.

"Nobody. Eunice Hathaway."

"She's very attractive."

"Yah," said Jock laconically. And dismissed Eunice forthwith. "What did you do with yourself, honey? Did you have a good time?"

"No."

"You didn't? Why not?"

"I don't believe—I'll ever have a very good time anywhere again—unless you are there."

She began this speech haltingly, and ended it in a rush. Jock could hardly credit the delicious evidence of his ears. "What?" he cried. He sat up straight, towering over her, and his brown eyes glinted. "Yvonne—sweetheart—do you mean that?"

"I'm afraid I do."

He peered at her a moment longer, to make sure. Then he emitted a mighty whoop. "You do! You mean it! Oh, gosh, Yvonne—" He would have kissed her then, regardless of onlookers, but she held him gently away.

"Not now," she said. "Not until I've told you what I came down here today to tell you. After that you may not want to kiss me—ever again."

Jock knew what she meant. Her story. She had promised, the last afternoon in New York, that when she returned she would tell him. . . . It had seemed important then, but it didn't now. Nothing was important now but her delicate softness beside him, her perfume in his nostrils, her voice saying, "—unless you are there, Jock Hamill." The face of Parke Demorest of Demorest Motors flashed across his vision and was gone, without effect. He put his arms about Yvonne, and his voice shook a little in the force of its sincerity. "Darling —the only thing you could possibly say that would matter would be that —well, that there isn't any hope for me, ever. That would rip me up into a million pieces. But nothing else in the world could make any difference. Not any thing." His arms tightened their hold. "Oh, sweet — sweet—as long as I can have you like this—" He laughed exultantly. "Bring on your German armies!"

He did not attempt to kiss her again for a while. There was an exquisite torture in postponement. They rode on, and she nestled close to him.... so close that now and then he could feel her eyelashes against his cheek, like the fluttering wings of satin butterflies. And he talked. Rapidly and gayly, giving all the things pent up for months expression. "I missed you—Lord, how I did miss you! No matter what I did, or where I was, or who I was with, there was a walloping big emptiness inside of me all the time, because you were gone. I used to do the darnedest things, Yvonne! Walk at night and stare at the stars, because the same stars were a canopy over you. . . . There never was a beautiful sunset or a full moon that I didn't wonder if you were looking at it, too. And once when I was in New York I broke away from the gang and spent the whole afternoon tramping around through Central Park, thinking, 'Now here she said this to me, and here she looked such-and-such a way.' And then I went and gaped at your apartment house until they nearly pinched me for loitering. . . . And I used to make up lists of things you remind me of. Things like opals, the wind, and white birch trees under the moon, and castanets, and champagne in a silver goblet. 'The kind of a woman men think of with a little corner of their minds when they're kissing their wives'—that was one line I remember. Silly or not?" he finished, laughing. "A fellow all goofy with loving somebody is certainly a pitiful object."

"That's not silly," Yvonne said. "It's beautiful. It's the most beautiful thing that's been said to me in ages, because—well, because you mean it, don't you."
